THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 88. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., OCTOBER 15, 1964 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 33.

ENOCH PRATT FREE LIBRARY BALTIMORE

The Great Society . . . .

When LBJ first sprung "The Great Society" on the citizens of this country, the phrase sounded vaguely familiar to many. In checking it was found the Library of Congress had a pre-World War I book with a title page, "The Great Society." It was written by Braham Wallas, an English Fabian Socialist.

Now the Fabians took great care never to call their programs socialism, correctly figuring they would be more acceptable under other labels. Doubtless Mr. Johnson exercises similar care with a wide-ranging series of proposals which are socialism pure and simple, and can lead only to the welfare state, with a Washington bureaucracy managing our affairs from conception to the resurrection.

A pet program with the Fabians was socialized medicine. It is called Medicare in this country. One of the needs of any socialistic program is that it requires mass participation. This is why proponents of Medicare hate the Kerr-Mills plan of medical care. Under K-M, medicare is available to those who NEED it. This does not gear with Fabian desires. They want everybody to be FORCED into accepting Medicare.

Figures on the cost of Medicare are revealing. The French have Medicare under their Social Security System. A government report said recently France's Social Security System faces bankruptcy, chief reason being its high cost. Present contributions to that system are at the rate of 26 percent for workers and 18 percent for employers. The French have learned the hard way. U. S. could profit by experience but the buckets of syrup the president is now pouring out about the "Great Society" cuts short any hope that he might get down to cold, hard facts.

There is a cure. Citizens have the opportunity to vote for Barry Goldwater and support other Republican candidates.

Folk Festival At Springs Well Attended This Year

Between 10,000 and 15,000 visitors poured into Springs, Pa., the weekend of October 2 and 3 to make the seventh Folk Festival a memorable one for the 600 persons who participated in a major community effort.

The number of persons helping was twice the population of the town. Visitors appeared from 25 states and eight foreign countries, including some from California, Washington, Massachusetts and Florida, as well as England, Ireland, Finland, Netherlands, Ethiopia, North Africa, Egypt and New Zealand.

With a crew of over 200 persons working in food service on the festival grounds and another 35 at Penn Alps, near Grantsville, the people apparently were adequately fed. Some 2,700 persons had full dinners or plate lunches with another 2,100 having plate lunches in the cafeteria tent. Others partook of fresh apple butter, bread, milk, sausage-burgers, Dutch bean soup, fresh doughnuts at various stands. Some 700 dozen doughnuts were sold.

Some 45 persons were involved in outdoor pioneer demonstrations, including grain flailing, rail splitting, trough hollowing, broom shaving, shingle making, cat-tail seat weaving, blacksmithing and horseshoeing. There was also boiling of apple butter, maple syrup, and production of cider from an old fashioned cider-press.

Not Guilty Is Verdict Given In Dixon Trial

Keyser Man Is Officially Cleared In Charges Of Assault, Resisting Arrest

After deliberating for about one and one half hours yesterday evening a petit jury brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Paul W. Dixon, of Keyser, W. Va., who was charged with assault and resisting arrest.

The trial took all day yesterday in the court room with associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill presiding. Harvey Speicher was foreman of the jury which consisted of ten men and two women.

Attorneys for the defendant were Gorman Getty of Cumberland, and W. Dwight Stover, of Oakland. The case was prosecuted by Fred A. Thayer, state's attorney.

The case was originally scheduled in the office of Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney, but just prior to the hearing Mr. Thayer asked for a jury trial, and the case was set for criminal court.

Dixon had been charged with resisting arrest and also assault upon a police officer, following an alleged fight early in September on Oak street, near Fifth, in Oakland.

The police officer, Hobart Shillingburg, had stated he was in the act of placing the man under arrest for reckless driving on the streets of Oakland, when the officer said the man grabbed him around the neck and started to grapple with him. Shillingburg got out his blackjack and hit the man. The man got the blackjack away from Shillingburg and struck him, the police officer had contended.

Mr. Thayer said the state's witnesses had testified that as Officer Shillingburg was walking toward his police car to place him under arrest that Wilson grabbed him from the side and knocked off his glasses. They said then Shillingburg slipped away and tried to subdue him with the blackjack, that Wilson got the blackjack from him and that they saw him hit Shillingburg twice. Curtis Ray Glotfelty testified he had seen Dixon hit Shillingburg in the face. Others testifying were Charles Ashby, Sue Vance and Dr. Leighton.

Dixon is over six feet three inches and weighs over 250 pounds. He had Shillingburg on the ground when a crowd began to gather.

Charles Ashby, residing on Oak street, who was aroused by the commotion, called the sheriff and Emmett Beane, also residing in the Fulk apartment, across the street, noticed the scuffle and went to the scene. At that time Dixon got up, got into his car and left for home. Shillingburg fired shots at the automobile.

Attorney Stover said Dixon contended he did not strike the officer at any time and only got his hands on him to protect himself. He said Shillingurg struck him the first time as he was getting into his bill fold to get his identification cards.

Photographs were exhibited at the trial showing Dixon had a cut on the left side of the head above the left ear, bruises on the elbows and forearms, and a cut and bruise on the left forehead. The elbows and forearm gave indication these had sustained blows, probably of the blackjack. Dr. Herbert Leighton testified that Officer Shillingburg sustained bruises and scratches. He also lost his glasses in the scuffling.

Dixon, through his attorneys had entered pleas of not guilty to both charges. Twice during the trial the defense attorneys had asked for a motion for acquital but Judge Hamill refused the motions in both cases.

Protecting Social Security

There is a real question about whether the Social Security System can survive the extra obligations which some Democrats insist on imposing upon it. One of those obligations is the government-paid medical care for the aged program recently adopted by the U.S. Senate.

We are apprehensive about the long-range effects of the Senate action for several reasons.

First, the added cost of paying for hospital and nursing home care for all those eligible for Social Security is a threat to the fiscal stability of the Social Security fund. Through the years, Congress has been expanding Social Security coverage faster than it has raised the tax rate to pay the costs of the programs. Today the system has a liability of some $320 billion!

This shortage can only be made up by future generations who will have to pay around $167 in taxes for every $100 they can ever receive in benefits.

Secondly, the government-paid medical care program is indiscriminate. It pays a set amount for a set time, with no consideration for need. It does not provide adequate benefits for those who really need help. And it pays medical expenses even for those with plenty of money to pay their own. Those who need help the most are deprived of adequate protection because the program has to stretch benefits to cover those with their own health insurance.

Our third objection is that the method of financing this costly program is unfair. Those with high incomes will pay the same rate for the program as those with very low incomes.

This amendment, which was actively supported by President Johnson and Democrats in the Congress is a threat to a strong Social Security system. We cannot escape the conclusion that this Administration is willing to jeopardize the future of the entire program in an obvious election-year maneuver for votes.

We hope that the House of Representatives, which earlier passed a bill raising Social Security benefits, but omitting the medical care amendment, will not agree to the Senate version of the bill. Millions of retired persons who are depending on Social Security payments deserve to be protected.

Quote of the Week

Norman Thomas, six times a Socialist Party presidential candidate, still thinks Sen. Hubert Horatio Humphrey is the greatest. Said Thomas early this year:

"Humphrey is the type of Democrat I like and one who would be a Socialist if he got to England."

'Not Senator Goldwater'

The Speech He Didn't Make

Following is part of the text of a speech prepared for Democratic vice-presidential nominee Hubert Humphrey by a ghost-writer in Indianapolis, but which Sen. Humphrey for some reason did not deliver:

"This Democratic administration presided over the Bay of Pigs fiasco, pulling back crucial air cover and allowing Cuban freedom fighters to be slaughtered by Fidel Castro.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration has cracked down still further on exile forces trying to combat Castro and allowed allied trade with the Cuban dictator to increase by hundreds of millions of dollars.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration by its own confession lied to the American people about the Cuban missile build-up in the summer and fall of 1962, bringing grave danger to our nation.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration has presided over the disarray and collapse of the NATO alliance.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This administration stood by idly while the East German Communists built the Berlin wall in violation of the post-war treaties and imprisoned free men and murdered those who attempted to escape.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This administration violated its pledge to defend Laos against Communism and helped topple the anti-Red government of Prince Boun Oum by withholding promised grants in aid.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration financed and supplied confessed acts of aggression and brutality against the anti-Red African state of Katanga, subjugating it to the anti-Western central government of the Congo.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This administration connived in the overthrow of the anti-Communist Diem government of South Viet Nam which led to the murder of the ousted President.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration has phased out American manned bombers and pulled back intermediate-range missile bases in order to 'ease Soviet anxieties.'

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This administration believes the Communists are 'mellowing' and that they will stop bothering us if only we are nice to them and show them we are willing to make concessions.

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration has supplied a haven for con men and grafters like Billie Sol Estes and Bobby Baker, the last-named being described by President Lyndon Johnson as 'my strong right arm.'...

"But not Sen. Goldwater!

"This Democratic administration in short, has plunged steadfastly toward calamity and chaos in the world struggle with Communism. It has worked unremittingly toward the centralization of power and the destruction of American constitutional checks and balances

"But not, needless to say, Sen. Goldwater."

In Bed With Cope...

Announcement that the union bosses have lined up solidly behind the Johnson Administration is not surprising news. The AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE) is the strong right political arm of the liberal political regime in Washington. It has a willing servant in the White House, and, naturally, will do whatever it can to see that the same crowd now in power will continue to call the shots after January.

But what is surprising is to find some prominent business men lending their names and prestige to the same cause that COPE is supporting. These prominent individuals in the business world must find it very strange to be in bed with COPE, for COPE ordinarily is busy with its anti-business projects.

It should be recognized, however, that there are some elements in the business world who for a long time have refused to stand up for the free enterprise system and for those stalwart men in political life who will defend the capitalist philosophy.

Over the past 30 years, exponents of various domestic brands of socialism have been able to find pet capitalists. Franklin Roosevelt knew where to look for them, and so do his successors.

It must be recognized too that a ruthless regime in Washington knows how to threaten business. The country should not forget the Kennedy Administration's totalitarian crackdown on the steel industry, with agents being sent into company offices to get records and corporate officials crudely menaced with prosecution. Nor should the American people forget how the Justice Department under Robert F. Kennedy sent teams into the South, armed with income tax records, to secure compliance to its political will.

Undoubtedly, some men in business have not forgotten the way defense contracts have been handled in recent years, with huge contracts assigned on the basis of non-technical factors that can only be described as political. Companies that do a lot of business with the government unquestionably are in a position to be menaced. Then there are some organizations that stand to profit from the foreign aid and giveaway programs of the Johnson Administration. A company that is building a dam in Ghana, for example, may not be very enthusiastic about ending a project that benefits an African dictator.

It never pays to attempt pal-ship with the forces of socialism. Tragically, there are businessmen in all parts of the world who have failed to understand this truth. It should be remembered that Fidel Castro had his businessmen supporters when he seized power in Cuba. And after Castro was enconced in Havana, there were American businessmen who thought they could do business with Fidel. They were mistaken to the tune of millions of dollars.

So it is in the United States. A businessman can't lend his name and prestige to an anti-business political movement without suffering the financial consequences. These may be delayed for a time. Indeed a few businessmen may temporarily profit from being in the favor of Big Government. But when free enterprise is hurt, then every business stands to be hurt in the long run.

Corporate leaders have a grave responsibility for supporting spokesmen for free enterprise. If these leaders won't support capitalism, then how can one expect the college professor or reporter to carry the ball? With corporate authority comes responsibility for capitalist leadership. It should be exercised in behalf of those who stand up for business freedom.

Glades Star Editor Gives Historical Data on "Meshack"

An address was prepared for delivery at the dedication of the Meshack Browning marker at Hoyes last Saturday afternoon by Robert B. Garrett, editor of The Glades Star. The address is reprinted because of its historical significance.

"In view of the cold weather today, I feel constrained to delete much of what I had prepared for this occasion, although considering the extremely eventful life of the man whose memory we are honoring, it is difficult to keep within any time limit. Even his autobiography, 'Forty-Four Years of the Life of a Hunter,' leaves much unsaid.

"Suffice it to say here that Meshack Browning was brought to Flintstone by his mother when he was only a little boy, his father being dead; that his aunt and uncle persuaded him to go with them to the Blooming Rose country a few years later; that here he met a pretty little neighbor girl of Irish descent, Mary McMullen, six months his junior. They attended a country school for three months, this being the extent of Meshack's education. Braving the displeasure of Mary's crabbed old father, the young couple was married, April 30, 1799, probably at Addison, Pa. They were 18 years of age.

They lived together for 40 years, until Mary's death, January 29, 1839, as the result of being thrown from a horse. In spite of the high infant mortality rate of those days, they raised to maturity all of the eleven children born to them, and when Meshack died in 1859 he left 122 living descendants. Instead of wandering all over the country as did some of the other pioneers of whom we read today, he confined his hunting and other activities to his own neighborhood and took care of his large family.

"Meshack was commissioned Captain of the local militia company during the War of 1812, but when he called the company roll at Selbysport some enemies goaded a bully from a National Road construction gang into a fight with him. Not only did Meshack knock out this much more powerful man, but he also had to defend himself at the same time against the other enemies who ganged up on him. Although badly hurt in this uneven fight, he showed his contempt for his enemies by going on a hunting trip with a friend.

"Among the most notable events of his long life was one that occurred on a bitterly cold winter day when he and Charles Friend tracked a bear to its den in a rock cliff along Muddy Creek. Meshack wormed his way into the den through an extremely narrow passage for about ten feet, with a wax candle on the end of a pole in one hand and his rifle in the other. Although there was hardly room to move, he managed to shoot and wound the bear and then back out into the open. Here he reloaded his rifle, relit his candle (with flint and steel) and crawled back into the den, where he shot the bear again, killing it. The late Richard S. Browning, our best informed authority on Meshack, after many years of search, located this den a few years ago and I have seen it.

"For many years a talented engraver from Sandy Spring used to visit and hunt with Meshack, and in the evenings he would entertain his visitor, Edward Stabler, with stories about other hunting trips. Mr. Stabler was so much interested that he induced the old hunter to write his autobiography, which he did during the last two or three years of his life. Mr. Stabler agreed to make the engravings which illustrate the book.

"About this time, so it is said, there was some counterfeiting done in the vicinity of Friendsville. Legend has it that gold coins were made—a very neat job of counterfeiting—the coins containing a little more gold than the United States mint put into its own product. One of Meshack's grandsons, Hanson B. Friend, was accused of being connected with the counterfeiting in the capacity of a distributor of the coins, and this information came to Meshack's ears.

"The latter, being a stickler for law and order, felt that if guilty the young man should be punished. William, Meshack's son, with whom he was living at the time, his wife having died, thought the family should aid Hanson, probably to the extent of providing him with counsel. The two men argued about this, and Meshack went up to Hoyes for a visit with his daughter Nancy, the wife of Dominick Mattingly. Here he became very ill and Nancy sent for a priest, probably to Frostburg. The priest came, but so strong were the old hunter's feelings about the counterfeiting affair that it was several days before he relented, forgave the lad (and his son William for siding with him), made his confession and was prepared for death. I do not know the sequel to the counterfeiting matter. A few years later, when the Civil War broke out, Friend enlisted in the Union Army and eventually was promoted to Second Lieutenant.

"I feel that in closing I can do no better than quote from the late Captain Charles E. Hoye's short history of the Browning family of Garrett County. Speaking of Meshack's last days he says:

"On a November day in 1859—his life work done, his book published, Meshack Browning rode three miles from Sang Run to visit his daughter, Nancy Mattingly; he contracted a severe cold which developed into pneumonia, and was ill a week or ten days, then passed serenely to a happy hunting ground, November 19th, aged nearly 79 years. The night he died one of those watching at his bedside remarked the abundance of chestnuts that autumn. The stricken old hunter heard, and, rousing himself said, 'The bears will be there.' His body was buried in the Catholic cemetery at Hoyes, just across the road from the Mattingly home where he died. Here he rests with his two faithful Marys, and a respectable monument, 'Erected by his children and grandchildren,' marks their graves."

Paragraph Opinions

Administration recently announced that federal civilian employment at the end of July was 25,400 below that of July, 1963. On cross examination Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia showed figures that the drop for the period was 5,009, representing a discrepancy of more than 20,000. He also revealed concern in tremendous rise in size of federal payrolls during last 10 years.

In 1954 it was $95 billion and this year it ballooned to $16.2 billion, over a 70 percent jump.

The Post Office department has succeeded in removing all reference to the birth of Christ in a special stamp to be issued for Christmas mailings. Instead of designs portraying the birth of Christ, the real reason for the Christmas, the stamps will have pagan symbols, ornaments and leaves. The department claims the stamps will be "Christmasy". However, since they will be printed in red and green.

About the "Big Lie": "I submit that the clear issues in this campaign are being deliberately blurred. I submit that the 'big lie' is being used to an extent never before seen in American politics. I submit that the hate-peddlers and the fright-peddlers and the muckrakers are deliberately vilifying Senator Barry Goldwater." Rep. Leslie Arends, of Illinois.

The American Way

WALKING WITH THE DUCKS
By Tom Anderson

Who is Hubert Humphrey? At a tender age, little Hubert Horatio was vaccinated with a phonograph needle. Shortly thereafter, his schoolmates nicknamed him "Pinky". He has been pinkier and pinkier ever since. Hubert Humphrey steered the "civil rights" bill through Congress. When he was mayor of Minneapolis, he forced a strong "civil rights" plank on the Democrat Convention at Philadelphia, which precipitated the 1948 Dixiecrat split. He has bied profusely for "human rights" versus states rights. Hubert Humphrey is as out of place on the Presidential ticket of the party of Thomas Jefferson as Martin Luther King would be as Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

South-hating Humphrey, Lyndon Johnsen's one-and-only choice for the Vice Presidency, is a founder and still guiding light of the leftist Americans for Democratic Action. In 1958 a Senate Republican Policy Committee staff study called the ADA "a group of left-wing Democrats who hope, as either the senior or junior partner of labor alliance, to capture the Democratic Party and bring about a system which would amount to national Socialism in America". Almost without exception, ADA members are arch "liberals" with long histories of membership in radical organizations.

In addition to Humphrey, other ADA founders were: John Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard and India; Adlai Stevenson, United Nations Ambassador to the U. S.; Walter Reuther; David Dubinsky; and Chester Bowles — although he has never scored a "strike" for our side.

Prominent ADAers are: Arthur "Even - freedom - loving - Americans - look - wistfully - at - Russia" Schlesinger, Jr.; awful Orville Freeman; Arthur Goldberg, Supreme Court "Justice"; Soapy Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs and Cannibals ("Let 'em eat a cake of Soapy"); Senators Wayne Morse, Paul Douglas and Maurine Neuberger. And a congressman named Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr.

If there is any American organization more extreme left than the ADA, except the Communist "Party", I don't know what it is. ADA proposes for America: a total welfare state; a "strengthened" U-N, with the admission of Red China; more government control of farming, power, business, education, transportation, prices and you. ADA promotes unilateral disarmament; an uninspected nuclear test ban; appeasement of Castro; accommodation of the Russians in Berlin and around the world; abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities; abolition of loyalty oaths; socialized medicine, education, power and transportation; massive U. S. aid to communist bloc countries; the crushing of "pro-west" leaders in Africa, Latin America, Europe and Asia; more spending and more debt; more welfare and more control in Washington. Senator Humphrey has promoted most, if not all, of these programs. So has the Communist Party. Among the many things I am for is guilt by association. We teach our children that they will be judged by the company they keep; that they must not only avoid evil, but the appearance of evil. Senator Humphrey looks like a duck, walks like a duck, swims like a duck, quacks like a duck and runs with ducks. But he's really not a duck, nor even a drake — he's a gander. And one gander at his record is enough to make any patriotic constitutionalist American get goose pimples.

WE COULD BECOME UNDONE
By Tom Anderson

If you're unemployed, relax and enjoy it. Practically everybody is going to be jobless within five years, according to a group of fanatical theorists who claim machines will soon do most of the work now done by people.

Are these cybernetic frenetics right? Can machines really do almost everything now done by and for man? Like turning off lights in the White House? And, if a machine could find out how to do this, could it tell the American people?

The only solution, these "social scientists" claim, is for the government to divide up all the money equally and give every person an equal amount each payday, work or not. Now these cybernetic crackpots did not invent this panacea. It was invented way back in Uncle Tom days by a Negro named Rastus. Rastus was telling his boss why he was for Huey Long.

"He guina divide up all de money equal and make ever' man a king!"

"But Rastus", the boss reminded, "dont you know that you'd get your nose in the jug on Saturday night, end up in a crap game and lose it all"?

"Maybe so", replied Rastus, "but as I understands it, Mr. Huey gonna divide it up equal again ever' Monday mawnin."

Equal On Monday

This anti-poverty plan is somewhat more honest than Mr. Johnson's, naturally. Instead of stealing an additional $10 billion from the "haves" to give to the "have-nots," this anti-poverty program steals on an every-Monday basis. Instead of stealing from the rich to give to the poor, this plan would eliminate the rich, except for the corporate Socialists who would run everything. (The only place in our country where there will be no unemployment is in the government.)

This plan, of course, would end the need for a federal personal income tax. A government which steals from everybody equally might as well steal from nobody.

Unremembered

In keeping with "progressive" thinking, there are a number of refinements which should be made in this momentous proposal by Rastus and the "economists" who stole his idea. First, it has to be politically fesaible. Has our State Department cleared it with Mr. Khrushchev and Mr. Tito and Mr. Fulbright? Does it have the blessing of the three Big Businessmen who own the Johnson Wheeler Deal—Billie Sol Estes, Bobby Baker and Walter Reuther? And Rastus failed to take into consideration man's inate desire for challenge and incentive. Since millions of us will have to undergo forced idleness and riches, wouldn't it be un-American to deny the people willing to be the most idle to make the most money? There could be an appropriate penalty for those who insisted on working, of half-pay for overtime instead of double-pay. Instead of slowdowns, there could be backups. Instead of making billions of dollars of goods to make more and more foreign enemies, why not buy the things our enemies have made and unmake them here? And unworkers who unmade the most things in the most amount of time would, under our Union unmade system, be unlaid off.

The things our mass unproducing system could unmake could be stored in Billie Sol Estes' empty bins and in Bobby Baker's apartments for deserving secretaries.

In fact, why not do away with these halfway measures? Instead of passing out money equally, why not do away with money? Then money would no longer be the root of all evil. Government would be.

A DANGEROUS MONOPOLY IN OUR MIDST
By Harry Browne
Editor, Freedom Magazine

The threat that big business will get too big is continually thrown at us as justification for the harmful anti-trust laws. And yet it has been proven time and again that when any business gets too big to properly serve its customers, other competitors and products move in to take those customers away from it.

But while all this is going on, we are faced with the worst kind of monopoly in our midst. That is the monopoly run by government. One excellent example is the Post Office.

Do you know why no private enterprise company is competing with the Post Office today—despite its high prices and poor service? Let's look at a little history.

Writing in his book "Men Against The State," James J. Martin reports: "From 1841 to 1845, steady inroads on the revenues of the federal post office department were made by private enterprise companies. One of these was the American Letter Mail Company, which (Lysander) Spooner founded in 1844. Originally carrying letters between Boston and New York, the scope of the firm soon included Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Private Firms Better

"It was a source of embarrassment to the Democratic administrations of the period to see this company, as well as other letter mail companies, making profits from carrying letters for 5 and 10 cents each, while providing service somewhat more expeditious than that furnished by the federal postal system.

"Increasing complaint by patrons over the dilatory and expensive government operations finally provoked congressional action. A bill calling for reorganization of the post office system and proposing a new schedule of rates drew critical fire in the Senate from objectors who noted that private companies would still be furnishing cheaper service. Senator William D. Merrick of Maryland, sponsor of the bill, replied that there was to be no attempt at competing with these firms; they were to be put out of business by 'penal enactment'".

And so the government could not tolerate competition in its own field and simply legislated out of existence all private postal companies.

Let's Move Forward

Today, there can be no doubt that profit-seeking private enterprise companies would compete to provide the best service at the lowest cost in the field of letter-carrying. This is proven by the profit-making United Parcel Company. Faced with high taxes and oppressive regulation, United Parcel still lures a great amount of business away from the government's Parcel Post system (which operates at a loss.)

There can be no justification for the goverment being in any business — whether rubbish pickup, electricity production or letter carrying. For in every case, its only asset is the ability to force people to pay for the service, through taxes, whether or not the people want it.

Meanwhile, private enterprise companies — with persuasion as their only weapon — compete aggressively for profits. They are compelled to find new ways of improving service and lowering costs in order to make their profits.

Free enterprise will be anything but "free" as long as we permit dangerous government monopolies in our midst.

Listen, Americans!

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
PRESIDENT—NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

This is the year of the Civil Rights Bill, and also the year of the race riots. The one is perhaps not entirely unrelated to the other. The riots have come on the heels of prolonged social unrest that was partly induced to generate the backing that would force the Bill upon the attention of Congress and the people. The miscalculated enthusiasm for equality or preferment through political protectionism has found no stopping point. Hate for "Whitey" broke loose in rampages in major cities with tremendous cost in human suffering and property loss.

There have been many things wrong with the so-called 'civil rights movement". Not the least is the potential for riot and revolt against authority. The basis in this, we presume, is the false notion that "equality" is something the government gives a person. The kind of government does matter. Guarantees abound in our revered freedom documents, and they were there before Congress passed the bill. Even with all the guarantees, the individual is only granted the freedom to win his own claim to respect and preferment in his relationships and attainments, not have it handed to him by special dispensation of the government

Most of the Negro civil rights leaders agreed they would curtail mass demonstrations until after the elections. Two of the organizations refused to go along. So will the William Eptons, the Jessie Grays, the Malcolm X's and any others who want to insist on pushing the revolt they have infiltrated.

Regardless of how many fair housing ordinances, employment commissions, or registrations drives we have, our Negro citizens are going to have to earn their regard and respect just like anybody else. The most responsible Negro leaders, like Don Warden of California, are recognizing the future of their race depends not upon what the white man can give each of them, but upon what he can accomplish for himself. In a speech so widely applauded it was inserted in the Congressional Record, Mr. Warden told Negroes to fight their dropout rate instead of reinforcing the Negro's feeling of inferiority by opposition to all black schools.

Underlying the trouble in this national turmoil has been the needless inflaming of emotion by men of good will. Religious leaders and organizations, including the National Council of Churches, have urged civil disobedience and taking to the streets. Negro leaders have demanded immediate redress of wrongs, as if that were possible. Government officials and Congressional leaders have encouraged these demands, raising false hopes and increasing impotience. It is most unrealistic to expect instant Utopia, whether through a bill, a court decision, or an election.

White people are being looked to for reform of the black Ghettos in the big cities. Why so? What is wrong with expecting our Negro leadership to accept its own responsibilities, for most of them are decent, law abiding citizens. Slums and crime are not distinguished by color. Poor home training and parental laxity may produce youngsters that make the same mistakes as adults. Respect for law does not follow color patterns, nor is ignorance unknown among any race. Improving and changing America for the better must have a much broader base than a plea for the federal government to spend money or pass laws.

Dedicate Marker

During this time he killed two thousand deer and five hundred bear.

The marker was set up by Mr. Upole and his assistants DeWitt and Bond, and under direction of Mr. Naylor. Also on the marker committee were Mr. Robinson and Mr. Garrett, the latter a great great grandson of the famed hunter.

Mrs. Ruckert pointed out it was because of these men and other men and women like them that "our past is always before us, so to speak. We take it along with us as we go into the future. If we are aware of our past, we learn by it, we build on it. It is the best of foundations for future generations". Then she concluded: "And now, we dedicate this marker to the memory of Meshack Browning on this tenth day of October in this year of 1964."

Mr. Robison sang an old song, "Sinclair's Defeat," a favorite of the area in which Meshack Browning lived. He also told the story of another old tune, "Kelly on the Lake," as outlined by T. A. Kimmell, one of those attending.

The story: "It was said that years ago a sailor named Kelly was shipwrecked on one of the Great Lakes. All of the crew except Kelly perished and he was given up for dead. When he finally returned home he was welcomed as one returning from the dead. His violin still hung on the wall just as he left it so Kelly took it down and without tuning it, played the mournful tune, "Kelly on the Lake."

Mr. Kimmell's father, the late Chauncey Kimmell as a boy often saw Meshack Browning who was a good violinist, playing this tune as he sat on his porch. The late John F. Browning, grandson of Meshack, often told the story of the origin of the tune and Meshack was said to have introduced both music and its history to this region.

Joe Browning and Fred Schenk, two of the old time fiddlers, were scheduled to be present for the dedication and to play some numbers but the weather was not favorable, the first snowflakes of the season falling during the program.

Springs Festival

mental music with accent on group singing, folk singing and organ music. For the children there were hay-rides on an old farm wagon and pony rides. Three chartered buses, with seven trained guides, were in constant operation to a Somerset county sugar camp, an Amish Mennonite school in Maryland, and to the highest point in Pennsylvania, at Mt. Davis. Some 35 persons were hosts at the sugar camp and school.

The newly-moved Springs Museum had a minimum of about 5,000 guests, an increase over previous years. The attendance there reached 1,800 in a two-hour period on Saturday. Some 15 persons served the museum area with another 25 on gate keeping and ticket sales, and 16 for health and safety precautions. Six parking lots totaling some ten acres were used.

Proceeds from the festival are divided between the two non-profit organizations which sponsor the affair—the Springs Historical Society and Penn Alps. The former is remodeling its two museum buildings and improving the festival grounds and the latter is expanding its self-help program of cottage industries to serve the tri-state Alleghenies. Dr. Alta Schrock, general chairman, said more than 500 producers some 20 percent of them handicapped, are selling their products through Penn Alps.

Plans are already under way for the 1965 event which will be held next October 1 and 2.

Is Your Name LICHTY?

Do You Know That:

Lichty, an old and honored surname, is principally of German origin. Of relatively simple derivation, it is obtained from the German "licht", which means "light", and therefore was often applied, when surnames first came into vogue, to light-complexioned or blond persons.

According to "The Pennsylvania German Pioneers", published by the Pennsylvania German Society and listing the immigrant arrivals at the port of Philadelphia from 1727 to 1808, Jacob Lichty arrived on the ship "Brotherhood" on November 3, 1750.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has listings of Conrad, Daniel, Jacob, Mark and Peter Lichty who were residents of Pennsylvania and heads of families at that time. The census records of Maryland for the same year have no references to persons by the name of Lichty.

John Alden Lichty (1866-1932) was a distinguished physician who practiced his profession principally in Pittsburgh where he was on the staffs of leading hospitals and served also as professor of medicine at the University of Pittsburgh Medical School. In 1923 he was appointed superintendent of the Clifton Springs (N. Y.) Sanitarium and Clinic and served in that capacity until his death.

David M. Lichty (1862-1942) was professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan. He was a member of the faculty of the university for forty-one years.

Lester Clyde Lichty joined the faculty of Yale University in 1923 as an instructor, advanced steadily through the teaching ranks of the university and served as professor of mechanical engineering for a number of years prior to his recent retirement with the rank of professor emeritus. He has been active in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and is known nationally as an authority on combustion and combustion engines.

Elizabeth Ellen Lichty, an educator of note, is dean of women, Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

J. Gabriel Lichty of Akron, Ohio has earned widespread recognition as a research chemist at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

Uncommon Man...

We have used this before but it is particularly apropos at the present time.

"I do not choose to be a common man. It is my right to be uncommon—if I can. I seek opportunity, not security. I do not wish to be a kept citizen, humbled and dulled by having the state look after me. I want to take the calculated risk, to dream and to build, to fail and to succeed. I refuse to barter incentive for a dole. I prefer the challenges of life to the guaranteed existence, the thrill of fulfillment to the stale calm of Utopia. I will not trade freedom for beneficence, nor dignity for a handout. It is my heritage to think and act for myself, enjoy the benefit of my creations, and to face the world boldly and say, this I have done."—Author unknown.

For the majority to take that stand is our only hope for upsetting this socialistic trend in government in the coming presidential election. If people have the moral fiber to withstand what is now taking place, then there is some assurance. It is the only way that "Santa Claus" ever will be defeated. For here are facts. One person of voting age in five now gets a monthly government check. Businessmen get 28 billions a year in direct government orders. They get 10 billions more in orders made possible by government subsidies. Pension checks go monthly to 21 million people. Relief checks, made possible by Washington, make 6.8 million more. There are 2.5 million federal employes, 2.7 million servicemen, 21 million social security beneficiaries, 4.4 million veterans or their families and about 1.5 million wheat and feed grain farmers.

We have faith that many millions of these voters would still like to see a government abiding by the constitution, living within its income, encouraging private initiative and condemning communism and socialism.

"Anti-Poverty" Cover . . .

When the anti-poverty bill was passed in Congress, conservative members of Congress warned that many of the projects provided for in the legislation would serve as a wedge for radicalism in communities across the nation.

Opponents of the bill were convinced that labor camps and anti-poverty training centers would provide an ideal haven for those individuals who wanted to disrupt American society rather than raise living standards for poor people.

Confirmation of these well-justified fears was available almost before the ink was dry on the law signed by President Johnson. It came in the form of a charge by Deputy Mayor Screvane of New York City that Mobilization for Youth, the original model for an anti-poverty action program, was under communist influencee. The New York Daily News asserted that printed materials used by rioters in Harlem and Brooklyn had been mimeographed on machines belonging to Mobilization for Youth. Later, it was learned that the FBI had uncovered the fact that nine members of the Mobilization for Youth organization had been members of the Communist Party or communist front members in the past.

This information was all the more revealing in view of the fact that New York newspapers disclosed that Mobilization for Youth officials had supported a rent strike in New York and attempted to participate in various forms of direct action social protest.

Now it is bad enough when strictly private organizations without a cent of taxpayer-provided funds, get into the business of urging citizens not to pay rent or other bills for which they are obligated. But Mobilization for Youth is an organization that has had federal financial assistance because it was originally designed by the late President Kennedy as a pilot project in anti-poverty action. It is a sample of what will be imposed on other communities under the legislation sought and obtained by President Johnson.

If the administration had admitted that federal funds would be used to pay for an organization supporting rent strikes, one can be sure that the anti-poverty bill would never have received congressional approval. It is outrageous that the taxpayers should be tricked into providing funds to subsidize wild, irresponsible, virtually criminal projects for social revolution.

Exposure of these facts concerning Mobilization for Youth almost certainly will have effects far beyond the limits of New York City. As Rep. William Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee made clear August 18, the matter of communist infiltration into a private but taxpayer-assisted organization in the nation's largest city is "very much a campaign issue."

The issue is whether the administration is going to extend its tolerance of leftwingers to the point where they may operate with federal funds. It should be borne in mind that there has been a definite tend in this direction during the last 3½ years. Advocates of leftwing causes have had the gentlest of handling from the Internal Revenue Service. The Highlander Center in Knoxville, for example, which has a long history of radical involvement, enjoys a tax-exempt status. Then there is the case of the organizations attempting to create a virtual revolution in the State of Mississippi. They never miss an opportunity to demand that their agents be given a shield of U. S. marshals.

Heretofore, however, the administration assistance to radical groups has been of an indirect character. In the case of Mobilization for Youth, federal funds are directly aiding an organization, at least some of whose members have fomented discord in the city in which it operates.

If the nation is to have revolutionary action groups that masquerade as anti-poverty centers, and at the same time benefit from taxpayer contributions then the time to know about it is before the presidential election when the voters can register their feelings about such an exxtraordinary development. Certainly, the Mobilization for Youth link to rent strikes should ring an alarm bell for responsible citizens in all parts of this country.

Second Street Scene In 1915 Indicates No Traffic Problems

This photograph, taken about 1915, shows a more tranquil scene at the corner of Second and Alder streets than could be encountered today. The most conspicuous feature is the total lack of motor vehicles—and, for that matter, any vehicles except the horse-drawn wagon in the center.

The view is looking north. On the right is the First National Bank building, completed in 1903, which concluded its usefulness for this purpose last week. The history of this building and the banking institution is covered in a special supplement to today's issue of The Republican.

The cart at the right, around which the group of men is gathered, is thought to be a peanut roaster, which was operated for many years by W. A. Gonder, in front of whose business establishment it is located.

Next to the bank is the Davis hardware store, now the J. W. Jackson 5 and 10; next to it, but almost hidden from view, is the Davis residence; then The Sincell building, which at that time housed the offices of The Republican and the H. C. Sincell store. The McComas building and the present site of The H-P Stores complete the block.

The Garrett County Memorial hospital auxiliary will meet Thursday, October 22 instead of the regular meeting night, the 15th, at 7:30, in the board room.

To Collect Money For UNICEF Oct 29

Youth groups of various churches plan to collect coins for UNICEF on Thursday night, October 29, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. Under the auspices of the United Church Women, these groups will go from door to door under adult supervision.

They will be identified by the official collection carton printed in orange and black with the UNICEF symbol of the mother and child. They also may be using a container marked with the UNICEF sticker. All groups will return to St. Paul's Methodist Church Fellowship hall at 8 o'clock for refreshments and the counting of coins.

This annual Hallowe'en collection of coin for UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, has meant better health for millions of the world's mothers and children. One cent will pay for vaccine to help protect a child from tuberculosis; three cents provides a glass of milk every day for two weeks for a needy child; five cents, enough penicillin to cure a child of yaws; thirty cents to supply sulfone to treat a child suffering from leprosy for a year; thirty-five cents can cure a child of trachoma, an eye disease which often leads to blindness.

UNICEF also aids in providing for family and child welfare services and centers, education and training of teachers, doctors, nurses and social workers and nutrition projects and in many other ways to help the peoples of the developing world to improve their standard of living.

UNICEF is not financed by the regular United Nations budget, but by voluntary contributions from government and individuals.

Further Information On Ninian U. Bond Is Received Here

Further information was received during the week concerning the death of Ninian Ulysses Bond, Sr., 96, of Petersburg, Fla., which occurred Saturday night, October 3, where he had undergone surgery several days before that.

Mr. Bond was a former Kentucky state senator, a retired lumber operator and owner of hotels and business properties in St. Petersburg.

Mr. Bond formerly resided in Oakland and had lumber operations along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Bond.

The Bonds first went to St. Petersburg in 1920 from Lexington, Ky., and after many winter seasons settled down in 1939 in a 10-acre orange grove.

Mrs. Bond died three years ago. Their three sons are Ninian, Jr., general manager of the Bond hotel; William, manager of the Pennsylvania hotel; and Sam, manager of the Ponce De Leon. The Pennsylvania, a seven-story, 150 room hotel is the city's 5th largest. Controlling interest was acquired by Mr. Bond in 1937. The Ponce de Leon was built in 1922 and acquired by the Bonds in 1959. The Bond hotel was purchased in March of 1963. The Bond organization also owns the Sears building and parking area, and other properties.

Mr. Bond moved to St. Petersburg after 40 years in the lumber business. Originally he had intended to be an attorney but after graduating from the University of Michigan Law school in 1896 he joined his brother in partnership in the lumber business "temporarily" to pay for his law books. The partnership lasted six years and he went from Jefferson county, Pa., where he was born to West Virginia, Garrett county, Maryland, and finally Kentucky, buying and developing timber lands. In Kentucky he had 44,000 acres of land, purchased in 1902 where he built 100 miles of railroad tracks, operated seven locomotives and employed hundreds of men. In the 30's when he ran for the state senate as a Republican in a Democratic county only one vote was recorded against him in the precinct where his employes voted. He served as senator from Madison county, Ky., for eight years. A colleague was A. B. "Happy" Chandler, later governor of Kentucky and baseball commissioner.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, October 6, with interment in Royal Palm cemetery.

He was the last of a family of nine children. He was a 33rd degree Mason, and a 60-year member of Oakland Lodge No. 192, A., F. and A. M. He also was a member of Antioch Commandery 6, Knights Templar, of Cumberland; and Osiris Temple Shrine, Wheeling, W. Va. He was an uncle of the late Mrs. Ralph E. Weber, of Oakland.

My Personal Appreciation—It has come to my attention that readers of my newsletter, "Senate Cloakroom", together with some special friends, have banded together to form a statewide committee to assist in my re-election.

This is most gratifying to me. When things like this occur, a public servant, such as I, is strengthened in the knowledge that his labors for his constituents have not been in vain.

As you may have surmised, as a result of the primary campaign which I had to wage this year, the Treasurer of my campaign was forced to expend funds which were raised by the testimonial dinner accorded me last year — funds which were intended for the general election this fall. Additional funds are needed for our successful campaign.

I believe that it is no exaggeration to say that the efforts of this newsletter-readers' committee to contact my friends everywhere for help may very well be a deciding factor in the election. I understand that my opponent has access to large amounts of money for the campaign. In the primary campaign for the Senate seat, my opponents are said to have spent over $500,000. Needless to say, my own costs in the primary campaign did not approach this figure—far from it—but my costs did run considerably higher than we had anticipated.

In the present campaign, I am confident that if sufficient funds are raised, we will win. If you are able to assist, I would sincerely appreciate it. In addition, may I ask that you take an extra five minutes or so to talk to at least five other persons and ask their support at the polls on November 3.

I am hopeful that you and the other "Senate Cloakroom" readers to whom I am addressing this will vote and work for me as you have done in the past, to the end that another victory will crown our efforts. I am hoping that my record of 22 years in the two Houses of Congress warrants your continued support.

The Aztec Calendar, 12 feet in diameter, is carved on stone weighing 57,000 pounds. The stone was started in 1427 and completed in 1479. Lost for over 250 years until discovered by accident in 1790, it now is on display in the National Museum of Archaeology, Mexico City.

What is a fair price for the Aztec Calendar?

The Aztec Calendar stone holds a venerated place in the Mexican heritage. It is one of the most famous archaeological pieces of the world. Naturally, it is not for sale. But if it were, the price undoubtedly would be a fortune.

The dollar value of an archaeological object such as the Aztec Calendar is determined by the desire of someone to own it. The price has no relationship to what it cost to make. What is a fair price for the Aztec Calendar? That's anyone's guess.

On the other hand, the price you pay for natural gas service is determined by known factors. It includes the actual cost of the gas and the cost of the equipment and labor necessary to bring the gas into your home.

These costs are evaluated by the Public Service Commission. The Commission determines their fairness and permits your gas company a limited, but not guaranteed, profit. Your gas company must achieve its profit by careful management and efficient operation.

The price you pay for gas, unlike the price of an archaeological object, is not a matter of speculation. Gas rates are based on facts—precisely reviewed and analyzed.

This assures you that the price you pay for gas service is a fair price.

Why Pay Twice?

You already pay taxes to support a generous federal-state medical program for those over 65 who need it. Why pay again for a plan that isn't needed?

Surprised? Chances are you never heard of the Kerr-Mills Law, passed by Congress in 1960. We call it...Health Opportunity Program for the Elderly.

This program enables individual states, with federal assistance, to guarantee to every elderly person who needs it the health care he or she requires. Thousands of people every day are being helped by its broad benefits.

Yet, the supporters of the proposed Medicare Tax would have you believe that its passage is urgent...that persons over 65 are deprived of needed medical care because they can't pay for it.

So why pay twice? Find out about the health program you're already supporting. For information on health care for the elderly in your area, ask your doctor or call the number listed below.

Negro Pastor Will Support Goldwater

The Rev. O. J. Hayman, D.D., district superintendent of the Methodist A. M. E. churches, has endorsed Sen. Barry Goldwater, but drew immediate criticism from fellow churchmen, including his bishop.

He made his announcement at a press conference at Maryland Republican headquarters.

He said Sen. Goldwater, the GOP presidential candidate, "has done more for civil rights and the cause of the Negro than President Johnson ever did."

"But my main reason for endorsing Sen. Goldwater is because of his religious background. He has character. Even though Goldwater voted against the Civil Rights Act he would implement it."

He didn't elaborate on his prepared statement. "What I've said, I've said and what I've written, I've written," he said.

The African Methodist Episcopal Ministers alliance of Baltimore made it clear that Hayman was speaking for himself.

Dr. Hayman continued: "When Senator Goldwater says he will implement the Civil Rights Bill—although there are two sections he believes to be unconstitutional—I know he will do it! President Johnson, however, will go whichever way the political wind is blowing. Negroes constitute only 10 percent of the population. Suppose on some dark future day the majority were to adopt segregationist or racial views. Johnson would again become, in accordance with his principle: 'the end justifies the means'—a staunch segregationist."

Homecoming Events Are Slated For This Month

Coming up this month at Northern High School, Cove, will be one of the school's biggest fall events, the annual Homecoming game and dance and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

October 23 marks the date of the game. Playing under the lights at Oakland, the Huskies will face the still undefeated team from University High, Morgantown, West Virginia.

Half-time ceremonies at the game will include the presentation of the candidates for Homecoming Queen. The queen, who must be a senior, will be nominated and chosen by the entire football squad. The coronation of the queen will take place at the dance scheduled for the following evening.

The Homecoming Dance, which is a semi-formal affair, will be held in the school cafeteria beginning at 8:00 p. m., October 24.

In charge of the '64 Homecoming activities are the Sr. Cheerleaders. Working with the cheerleaders will be the J. V. Cheerleaders and the Pep Club.

Linda Fisher, Sr. Cheerleader co-captain, has extended a cordial welcome to the alumni and to all senior high students.

Dancing Program Is Being Set Up Here

A program designed to favor the esthetic nature of people is being planned by the Physical Fitness commission of Maryland under Phyllis Hume, director of the program.

Persons interested are being asked to attend a registration on Thursday, October 22, at Center street school, beginning at 3:30 p. m.

The program will include dancing for children, ballot and posture exercises for adults and ballroom dancing for adults.

All classes will be conducted on Wednesday. A class for children will be held at 5 p. m., so as not to interfere with vacation church school; for high school students at 3:45 p. m., and adult classes in the evening.

C. W. Englander, county chairman of the physical fitness program, said Mrs. Joseph C. Mackert, who teaches ballet and rhythm dancing in Cumberland, will be the instructor. She will limit the size of her classes and there will be a charge of $1 per hour. All classes would be conducted at the Center street school.

Charles Mason, local dairy farmer and dairy herd improvement association supervisor for southern Garrett County, above, was proud to show L. Bush Swisher, Farming for Better Living project director, and James Simms, Garrett County assistant extension service agent, his display of ribbons that he and his family have won at various agricultural fairs and contests. He had the "Champion" dairy cow in the 1963 Garrett County Fair, and he had many others. He jokingly commented that he hoped to see a "Past Year Winner" ribbon for Farming for Better Living appear on the board someday instead of the blue ones that now hang there. His modern milking parlor, dairy house, loafing barn and silo are shown in the picture below.

Bayard Coal Mine Ready to Operate

Another big boost to the economy of this area appeared when the North Branch Coal company at Bayard began shipping from its cleaning plant and mine. Ultimate production at this modern, mechanized operation is estimated to be 10,000 tons per day.

Robert Wooters, president of the coal company, a subsidiary of Maust Coal and Coke corporation, New York, said the mine and cleaning plant will hire from 400 to 450 miners and employes.

Most of the coal produced at the operation on Little Buffalo Creek will be shipped eastward while the remainder will go to the new Mt. Storm Power station of Virginia Power and Electric plant.

The mine and plant are located on a siding of the Mt. Storm railroad which connects the Elkins sub-division of the Western Maryland railway and the new power station 16 miles from Bayard. Inside the mine in the Upper Freeport seam of bituminous coal are the latest in motorized shuttle cars that scoop up the coal and place it on an endless belt.

This conveyor belt is moved into the mine as the seam is removed. It carries the coal into the rough coal storage silo. From there, still on conveyors, the coal goes into the screen house, then into the cleaning plant and comes out for storage in the primary or secondary silo. The coal is then loaded by conveyor into railroad hopper cars.

The storage silos are made of concrete and are 130 feet high and 70 feet in diameter. The operation is similar to the one on Elk Run, four miles above Bayard in the Lower Bakertown coal seam, that Maust Coal and Coke built last year. There the Alpine Coal company is employing 200 miners.

The Alpine mine and plant have been designed to an ultimate production of 5,000 tons daily. Mr. Wooters is also president of the Alpine coal company. He said 65 construction workers were on the Bayard project which has been underway since this summer.

Governor Tawes Presents First Prize!

Blue Ribbon Sunbeam Wins Coveted Award For Best Bread

In Ceremony At Annapolis Gov. J. Millard Tawes Gives Silver Trophy To Harold A. MacManus, President Of Local Schmidt Bakery

Silver Trophy presented to baker attaining the highest bread-baking score in monthly "Better Bread" contest. The competition is sponsored by the Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Inc., for member bakers located in the United States, Canada, Bermuda and Jamaica.

The trophy, which is valued at $700, is awarded for the loaf of bread ranking first on such factors as general appearance, texture, grain, keeping quality, flavor, and eating quality.

ANNAPOLIS, Sept.—At a special ceremony in Annapolis, today, Harold MacMannis of the Schmidt Baking Co. accepted a silver trophy from Governor Tawes which had been won by Blue Ribbon Sunbeam Bread in a traditional bread competition only open to member bakers of Quality Bakers of America Coop., Inc., during August, 1964.

The trophy is symbolic of special achievement and skill in baking white bread. Best in flavor, best in texture, best in nutrition, Blue Ribbon Sunbeam was awarded this trophy for baking excellence. It is presented in the name of Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Inc. whose members include the top independent bakers in the United States, Canada, Bermuda, Jamaica and Mexico.

In submitting the winning loaf in the Better Bread contest, the Schmidt Baking Company attained one of the highest scores for white bread ever reached by any bakery in America. The winning loaf proved superlative on such counts as flavor, eating quality, grain, crust and general appearance. Strict quality control of all ingredients going into each loaf is a basic part of eligibility for the contest.

Many skilled bakers from the above localities submitted loaves to this competition. Competitive tests were conducted in the New York Laboratories of Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Inc. Exhaustive analysis of each and every loaf was made, and a handsome sterling silver trophy awarded to the winner, Blue Ribbon Sunbeam.

Push Button Baking

The superiority of Blue Ribbon Sunbeam must be due in great part to its new plant. This bread is baked in a modern, up to date bakery. The very latest in baking control insures this bread to be the very finest. Top quality ingredients are the only ones used by the Schmidt Baking Co. Premium flour arrives by special transport and is blown through polished aluminum tubes into special gleaming white storage bins within the bakery. In these holding bins the flour is sifted and then, through the miracle of electronics, a push button monitor board selects the correct amount of ingredients to be mixed. . . . the yeast brew already fermented is added, and the dough is divided into pans, all untouched by human hands.

After rising in the proofing room, the dough slides along moving belts. Then, a half dozen at a time slide into block long white ovens. Again these ovens are controlled by electronics.

The loaves move through the ovens at a controlled rate of speed and are ejected at the proper moment . . . thoroughly baked . . . golden brown. From there the moving belts take the loaves to a cooling room. The fresh-baked goodness is sealed in without so much as one hand touching the bread.

Only the most modern, up-to-date methods could produce a loaf so good-eating, so white, so fine as the winning loaf in the Traditional Bread Contest.

Unique History Of Schmidt Baking Company

Since Schmidt Baking Company opened its doors at the Cumberland plant in 1930, and at Johnstown in 1936, its history has been one of constant progress. The Quality Bakers of America's silver trophy award to Schmidt's Blue Ribbon Sunbeam bread is one more in a long list of enviable accomplishments.

The achievements and "firsts" of Schmidt Baking Company are impressive, not only locally but also in the entire baking industry as well.

Schmidt's Blue Ribbon was the first bread to appear in food stores in this area wrapped in cellophane. First introduced in 1932, the new cellophane wrapper caused a sensation. Not only did it do an efficient job of protecting the bread's superb freshness, but it also enabled the shopper to see, for the first time, the texture of the bread before buying it.

In 1936, Schmidt Baking Company produced the first loaf of twist bread. Recently Schmidt Baking was the first to develop an automatic process for twisting bread, making a bread that is untouched by human hands.

And it was Schmidt Baking Company who was one of the first bakers in the country to introduce the use of bulk flour. One of the interesting operating features of Schmidt's Bakery is the Pneumatic Flour System. Flour, which is transported by special trucks, is actually "blown" into the bakery's flour bins. This insures careful protection of the flour. The Pneumatic Flour System has enabled Schmidt to maintain the high product quality that has been synonymous with Schmidt's Blue Ribbon quality tradition.

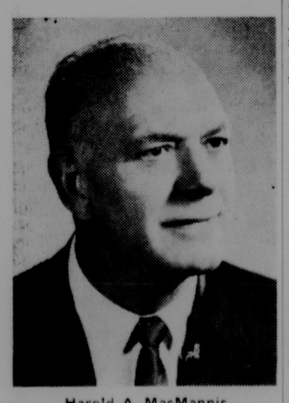
History

Schmidt's Baking Company's Cumberland plant was purchased by Charles Schmidt from the Wilson Baking Company in 1930. A few years later, the bakery was destroyed by fire; but new buildings were rapidly built, new machinery installed, and the production of Schmidt's quality bread was immediately put back into action, with the bakery growing and expanding year after year.

Another interesting factor that illustrates Schmidt's contribution to the community is the steady growth of the number of people employed by the bakery. When it began in 1930, Schmidt's Bakery had seven trucks and it employed 14 people, with an annual payroll of $25,000. Today, Schmidt's Bakery has thirty-three trucks and employs 125 people who earn over $750,000 annually in this area. This is a remarkable record of growth.

Much of the credit for the story of constant growth has been due to Schmidt's employees, as well as its management. When Schmidt President Harold A. MacMannis accepted the silver trophy won by Schmidt's Blue Ribbon Sunbeam Bread, he expressed his "appreciation of the efforts of all of Schmidt's many fine employees".

It was Charles Schmidt who served as the first president of the Schmidt Baking Company. He was succeeded, as president, by his son Carl P. Schmidt. After the passing of Carl Schmidt, the company's Board of Directors elected Harold A. MacMannis President in May, 1963.



Harold A. MacMannis

Mr. "Mac", as he is affectionately known, began his career at Schmidt Bakery in Cumberland, in 1931. His first position was that of salesman, followed by 12 years as Manager of the Cumberland plant. Next, he served as Vice-President, in charge of sales, of the entire bakery operation.

It was while he was Manager of the Cumberland bakery that Mr. Mac introduced the sale of Schmidt's Blue Ribbon bakery products to all surrounding areas, including Johnstown, Pa., in 1936.

When he took up his duties of Vice-President, Harold MacMannis moved to Schmidt's Baltimore offices. During this time he worked closely with the Schmidt Martinsburg, West Virginia, bakery. Under his guidance the Martinsburg plant followed the growth pattern of the other Schmidt bakeries, expanding consistently as it provided its customers with the traditional Schmidt quality of finest bread available.

In electing Mr. MacMannis President of the Schmidt Baking Company, the Board of Directors—which consists of H. A. MacMannis, Katherine Schmidt Smith, Ernestine Schmidt Bowyer, Nicholas P. Mueller, and Henry W. Schmidt—said, "his election indicates the confidence placed in Mr. MacMannis by the Board, based on the many years of experience he has acquired with the Schmidt organization."

Clinton Wilhelm

Present at the trophy awarding ceremony was Clinton Wilhelm, Production Superintendent. It was on March 11, 1944 that Mr. Wilhelm came to Schmidt Baking Company. His first assignment was panning bread. Within six weeks he was promoted to the mixing department. In 1949 he was made assistant foreman, and in 1952 he became bakeshop foreman, then production superintendent.

Mr. Wilhelm resides in Bedford Valley, Pa., and is the father of one son and four daughters.

Charles L. Hite

Also participating in the ceremony of the trophy award was Cumberland Plant Manager Charles L. Hite. He began his career with Schmidt Baking Company in 1950, as a garage helper. In 1951 he joined the sales force as a route salesman. In 1956, Charles Hite was promoted to the position of sales supervisor; and in 1964 he became plant manager at Cumberland.

Member of Q. B. A.

Schmidt Baking Company is a member of Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, the world's largest bakery cooperative. The "Better Bread" competition at which Schmidt Baking Company won the first prize trophy is a traditional event, open only to members of Q. B. A.

Included in Schmidt's Quality Bakers of America Membership Pledge is, "I believe that service is the basis of all human progress." Also in the pledge is the statement that this includes "service to the American home by supplying superior products at a reasonable price."

The famous Schmidt advertising slogans have been "Made with unbleached flour"; "Fresh as a rose"; and "Blue Ribbon over gold". In April, 1964, Schmidt Blue Ribbon bread first introduced the famous little Miss Sunbeam trademark.

Miss Sunbeam Famed Symbol Of Quality

New York, N. Y. Little Miss Sunbeam, the blonde youngster with a slice of buttered bread in her hand, is a national quality trade mark for Sunbeam Bread. Over 105 bakeries throughout the country use her picture as a symbol.

Miss Sunbeam has become so popular in some areas that mothers dress their own youngsters like Little Miss Sunbeam, whose smiling face appears on bread wrappers, in newspaper ads, on 24 sheet posters, premiums, car cards, direct mail, point of sale, delivery trucks and comic books. In fact, even Miss Sunbeam dolls are available for supermarket and food store sale.

Real-Life Miss Sunbeam

There is actually a real-life Miss Sunbeam in the person of Teresa Diane Randolph of Charleston, S. C. Blonde, blue-eyed Miss Randolph, at the age of 5½ joined the "Miss Sunbeam In Person" promotion unit. This troupe consists of versatile television talent who virtually travel from coast to coast making personal appearances in the markets of Sunbeam Bakers. They appear at shopping centers, women's clubs, on local Radio and Television shows and provide excellent entertainment wherever they go.

Teresa has developed into a talented performer, who can dance, sing, and deliver a comical line with the flair of a seasoned trouper. Now nine, she has been "Miss Sunbeam" for five years. Recently, she appeared on a radio show with Vincent Lopez, the famous band leader. He was so impressed by her performance that he commented, "She has a rare talent—an ability to project friendliness and warmth to an audience which they immediately like."

While traveling across the country, Teresa is accompanied by her mother, Mrs. V. L. Randolph of Charleston. Mrs. Randolph acts as Teresa's teacher while they are on tour. She works closely with the school authorities and tutors Teresa in all her subjects. Their success can be measured by Teresa's report card which carries straight A's.

A Show Of Her Own

So popular has this trademark, "Miss Sunbeam" become that there is even a twenty-six part television series based on Miss Sunbeam.

Teresa Randolph is again the star of these five minute shows which were produced at MGM Studios in New York. Appearing with her are three veteran entertainers. Tom Rafferty, playing "Lord Butterball"—the essence of silly dignity, is Miss Sunbeam's sidekick on the show. Behind the screen, Tom supervised Miss Sunbeam in her singing and dancing routines for all her appearances. Many children in show business have been trained in Tom's privately operated schools for talented youngsters.

Another member of Miss Sunbeam's troupe of friends is the beloved "Sir Clacky Wack", the clown with the unforgettable bitter-sweet smile. He is played by TV veteran Edwin Alberian, who was the original "Clarabelle the Clown" of NBC's well-known "Howdy-Doody" show. Rod McDonald of Rockford, Illinois rounds out the cast.

The Sunbeam Bakeries are constantly on the lookout for new Little Miss Sunbeams. All children grow up, of course, and Teresa Randolph is no exception. That means a new Little Miss Sunbeam will be taught to sing, dance and act. The only requirements are that she resemble Miss Sunbeam on the label of Sunbeam Bread. She should be between four and five years of age. If you know of any little girl filling these requirements, please contact your local Sunbeam Baker.

History Of Litte Miss Sunbeam

The present Little Miss Sunbeam trademark was one of the very first bread wrappers designed by a woman. Prior to this time practically all bread wrappers were designed by men—although 90% of the bread in the country was sold to women. Mr. George Graf and Mr. Robert L. Shaus of Quality Bakers of America felt that women should have some part in the design of the bread wrapper.

They hired Ellen Segner, a young New York artist to assist them in their search for a proper design. One day while this work was going forward, Miss Segner saw a youngster in Washington Square in New York City and had an inspiration. Miss Segner took the youngster to see Schaus.

"Here's your ideal trade mark" she said, showing Schaus a sketch of the child holding a slice of buttered bread. Graf and Schaus agreed that Miss Segner had something. A few days later the brand name "Miss Sunbeam" was decided on, and the new wrappers were rolling off the presses ready to be tested.

The wrappers were an immediate success and today Miss Sunbeam is tops in her field. This is attested to by a recent survey of advertising by an independent research firm. A continuing study of outdoor advertising showed that Miss Sunbeam on the Sunbeam Bread outdoor posters was accorded top remembrance ratings. This banished any doubt that Little Miss Sunbeam was one of the most popular trademarks ever devised.

Bread Acclaimed By Nutritionists

More Nutrition For Less Money

"In today's world of rising prices, bread is still your number one food staple giving you more nutrition for less money." These were part of the findings of a group of nutritionists who recently met in New York City.

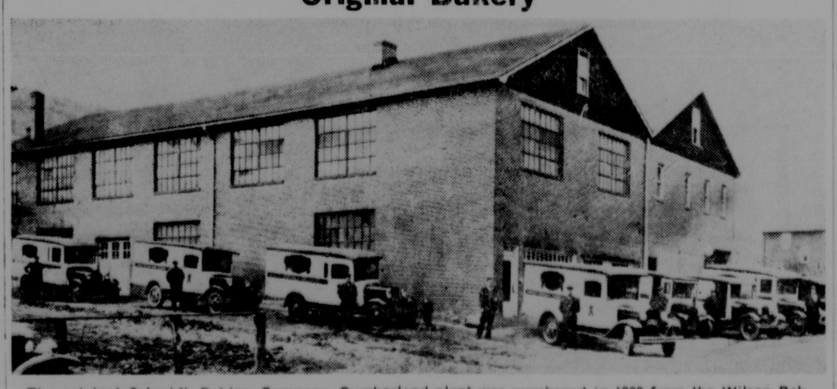
At current prices ten cents worth of bread daily supplies nearly one half of the thiamine necessary for good health. You can see why, then, bread has been called your best food buy. Throughout the ages bread has been a chief source of man's nourishment and has certainly earned its title "Staff of Life".

Interestingly enough, the bread you buy today actually is better than the home-made bread of grandmother's day. The only advantages of home-baked bread were that you could enjoy the aroma while it baked—and you could eat it hot. Today's enriched bread is certainly more nutritious because vitamins and minerals have been added. Also preservatives have been added to keep it fresh longer.

The present-day bakers' enriched bread contributes four and one-half times as much thiamine, 1½ times as much niacin as did home-made bread of 30 years ago.

Bread also provides you with a food high in nutrition, but low in calories. In our calory-conscience society there is a misconception that bread is fattening. Nothing could be further from the truth. Actually one slice of enriched bread has less than half as many calories as a cup of yogurt and supplies many important vitamins and minerals.

Original Bakery



The original Schmidt Baking Company Cumberland plant was purchased in 1930 from the Wilson Baking Company, employing 14 people and operating 7 routes. The annual payroll was $25,000. Destroyed by fire in 1935, the building was rebuilt.

Ultra-Modern Plant

The ultra-modern Schmidt Baking Company plant at Cumberland is equipped with the most progressive facilities for the production and distribution of finest quality bakery products. Today, with 33 trucks and employing 125 people, the Cumberland plant contributes $750,000 annually to the economy of the area.

Roads Commission Is Ready For Winter

Maryland State Roads commission forces in the western counties have completed plans for their recurring battle against snow and ice this winter.

William Goldsborough, maintenance engineer for this county drew up the plans for this area and told John D. Bushby district 6 engineer, that all snow fighting equipment had been put in top condition and was undergoing regular inspection.

Supplies of chemicals and abrasives have been stockpiled at strategic points and the equipment to spread them has been tested to make sure it is in good operating condition.

District 6 forces will use 102 pieces of equipment. Garrett county state forces will operate 34 pieces of snow-moving equipment. The biggest is a rotary plow which is stationed in this county. It is one of two rotary plows operated by the SRC. The other is kept in Frederick county and dispatched to other points as needed. Allegany county will use 36 pieces of equipment and Washington county 32.

The snow moving equipment includes trucks, equipped with snow plows, patrol graders fitted with V plows and wings, and trucks equipped with rotary spreaders to scatter chemicals and abrasives.

Front end loader bulidozers are put into service in case of serious trouble.

Mr. Bushby said District 6 had ordered two additional small mobile snow blowers for this winter. These self-contained units, which can be fastened to the front of a front-end loader, will be used on roads subject to heavy drifting.

Snow fences are being erected at points where drifting occurs and the last of some 70 miles of snow fence are to be placed by the end of the month.

Last year the county's first snowstorm arrived November 2 and left a two inch blanket. Keeping highways in the three counties free of ice and snow cost $325,000 last year, Mr. Bushby reported. Some 24 snowstorms swept into this county between November and April and deposited from 157 to 161 inches of snow. Allegany had 35 storms and 143 inches of snow at Frostburg.

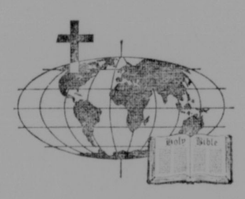
Another new church! The newspaper article says the population in Bill's suburban neighborhood is growing so fast that even more churches will soon be needed. Bill thinks this is just great.

"A community is a better place when there are plenty of churches," he says. "It's good for the children and the young people . . . it's good for everybody! We all need some sort of anchor for our lives, and the Church is the best one I know of."

Bill's right. When people work together for their church . . . when people pray together for guidance . . . it can't help but lead to a greater spirit of tolerance, fellowship and cooperation in the whole community.

In order to play its full part, the Church needs you, your prayers and your support. In return the Church offers you a priceless gift . . . the Truth that shall make you free.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

HOW MUCH WATER SHOULD YOU DRINK?

All living cells of the body function in a fluid environment. This fluid is steadily lost through the gastrointestinal and urinal tracts. More is lost by perspiration and through the lungs. It must be replaced because the skin cannot absorb moisture from the air no matter how humid the day.

The body usually functions best if two quarts of liquids are taken in each day. One quart is considered the minimum. So estimate how much you get each day in coffee, etc., and drink additional water to help keep you healthier.

A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Church Offices

Lesson for October 18, 1964

Background Scripture: I Timothy 3:1-13; 5; Titus 1:5-9
Devotional Reading: Ephesians 4:11-16.

AMBITION is no sin. Provided—! Provided the ambitious man is not just scheming for himself. Provided the man has the qualifications and does not fool himself into believing he amounts to more than he does. Provided also that he can serve God better if his ambition is fulfilled.

Dr. Foreman

Now the position of an overseer in any line of work is a highly responsible one. The title makes no great difference; it may be foreman, manager, supervisor, colonel, bishop. The top man in the outfit, that's what we mean,—the man who not only has his own work to do but has to supervise and direct the work of others also. In the church such a man is called a Bishop. He may be given different names, such as Executive Secretary, or Moderator, or just Overseer; churches that don't like to use the Bible word Bishop have leaders all the same. And we have it from Saint Paul himself that it is no sin to be ambitious to be a Bishop.

No lover of money

By the time the letters to Timothy and Titus were written, years had gone by since Pentecost. It looked as if Christ were not coming back right away, and the church might have to last for a long, long time. It was time to get organized. This called for leadership. The old apostles were dead or dying off, and the church had grown so that they could not have handled it alone even if they had all come back to life. Officers were needed, more and more. Paul lays down the qualifications for church offices in these "pastoral" epistles. When the first officers of the church were chosen soon after the first Pentecost the leading qualification mentioned was being filled with the Spirit (see Acts 6). But in these pages of Paul on church offices not a word is said about the Spirit. Why is this? One reasonably good guess is that the church had found that not all spiritual men or women make good leaders.

Sensible and dignified

Almost every quality Paul mentions is an everyday commonsense one. He is planning for a church that will live and grow in a highly practical world, a church with its feet on the ground. Such a church does not need a poor innocent lamb for a leader. It does not need an egg-head nor a lazy dreamer. How solid (hardly inspiring!) the phrases are—above reproach, temperate, sensible, dignified. . . . Most of us know people who are bright enough, but they never seem to hold jobs very long nor to make many friends, just because for all their brilliance they don't make sense. A bishop who is long on prayer and short on sense does not make a good bishop. (The same goes for any church officer.) A bishop must be dignified. Trivial? Not at all. Some things that are no sin when other people do them, are sins for a bishop. It was not a sin for a small boy to shinny up the pillars in front of a church; but if the preacher or the bishop did that, what would we all think?

Gifted man wanted

When Paul wrote to the Corinthians he spoke about spiritual gifts, and some of these we should call miraculous; but in this letter there is not a line about miracles. What must a bishop be able to do? Not turn stones into bread nor water into wine. Very simple things: for example to teach, and to manage those whom he loves. To teach and to manage: it would sound more romantic to say "to speak in tongues and to cast out demons." But good teachers and good managers are the kind that make good bishops. For after all, an overseer or supervisor of men must know men; he must know how to teach men, he must love them and at the same time know how to manage them.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (Three-fifths of all the Members elected to each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 1 of Article 11A of the Constitution of Maryland, title "Local Legislation," the same, if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become a part of the Constitution of Maryland:

On demand of the Mayor of Baltimore and City Council of the City of Baltimore, or on petition bearing the signatures of not less than 20% of the registered voters of said City or any County (provided, however, that in any case 10,000 signatures shall be sufficient to complete a petition), the Board of Election Supervisors of said City or County shall provide at the next general or congressional election, occurring after [said] the filing of such petition, for the election of a charter board of eleven registered voters of said City or five registered voters in any such Counties. Nominations for members for said charter board may be made not less than forty days prior to said election by the Mayor of Baltimore and City Council of the City of Baltimore or the County Commissioners of such County, or not less than twenty days prior to said election by petition bearing the signatures written in their own handwriting (and not by their mark) of not less than 5% of the registered voters of the said City of Baltimore or said County; provided, that in any case Two thousand signatures of registered voters shall be sufficient to complete any such nominating petition, and if not more than eleven registered voters of the City of Baltimore or not more than five registered voters in any such County are so nominated their names shall not be printed on the ballot, but said eleven registered voters in the City of Baltimore or five in such County shall constitute said charter board from and after the date of said election. At said election the ballot shall contain the names of said nominees in alphabetical order without any indication of the source of their nomination, and shall also be so arranged as to permit the voter to vote for or against the creation of said charter board, but the vote cast against said creation shall not be held to bar the voter from expressing his choice among the nominees for said board, and if the majority of the votes cast for and against the creation of said charter board shall be against said creation the election of the members of said charter board shall be void; but if such majority shall be in favor of the creation of said charter board, then and in that event the eleven nominees of the City of Baltimore or five nominees in the County receiving the largest number of votes shall constitute the charter board, and said charter board, or a majority thereof, shall prepare within [six] TWELVE months from the date of said election a charter or form of government for said city or such county and present the same to the Mayor of Baltimore or President of the Board of County Commissioners of such county, who shall publish the same in at least two newspapers of general circulation published in [said] the City of Baltimore or County within thirty days after it shall be reported to him. Such charter shall be submitted to the voters of said City or County at the next general or Congressional election after the report of said charter to said Mayor of Baltimore or President of the Board of County Commissioners; and if a majority of the votes cast for and against the adoption of said charter shall be in favor of such adoption, the said charter from and after the thirtieth day [of] from the date of such election shall become the law of said City or County, subject only to the Constitution and Public General Laws of this State, and any public local laws inconsistent with the provisions of said charter and any former charter of [said] the City of Baltimore or County shall be thereby [repealed] repealed.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the foregoing amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the election to be held in November, 1964, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the same general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against the proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution, and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article 14.

ARTICLE II

1. Executive Department

The executive power of the State shall be vested in a Governor, whose term of office shall commence on the [second] fourth Wednesday of January next ensuing his election, and continue for four years, and until his successor shall have qualified; and a person who has served two consecutive popular elective terms of office as Governor shall be ineligible to succeed himself as Governor for the term immediately following the second of said two consecutive popular elective terms.

The Speaker of the House of Delegates shall then open the said Returns, in the presence of both Houses; and the person having the highest number of votes, and being Constitutionally eligible, shall be the Governor, and shall qualify, in the manner herein prescribed, on the [second] fourth Wednesday of January next ensuing his election, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable.

All civil officers [appointed] nominated by the Governor and subject to confirmation by the Senate, shall be nominated to the Senate within [fifty] thirty days from the commencement of each regular session of the Legislature; and their term of office, except in cases otherwise provided for in this Constitution, shall commence on the first Monday of May next ensuing their appointment, and continue for two years, (unless removed from office), and until their successors, respectively, shall qualify according to Law.

ARTICLE III

14. Legislative Department

The General [Assembly shall meet on the first] Assembly shall convene on the third Wednesday of January, [nineteen hundred and forty-nine, and on the same day in every second year thereafter, and on the first Wednesday in February, nineteen hundred and fifty,] except Montgomery County, shall convene on the same day in every [second] year thereafter, and at no other time, unless convened by Proclamation of the Governor.

The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require, for a period not longer than [forty] ninety days and thirty days in even years [SEVENTY days in each year; and on and after January 1, 1949] 1965, each member thereof shall receive a compensation of [Eighteen] Twenty-four Hundred Dollars [($1,800.00)] ($2,400.00), per annum, payable quarterly, with a deduction of Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) per diem for each day of unexcused absence from any session, and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding Twenty Cents per mile; and the presiding officers of each House shall receive an additional compensation of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250.00) per annum. 52.

(3) [Within twenty days after the convening of the General Assembly in odd-numbered years, unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly, and on] On the [first] third Wednesday in [February] January in [even-numbered years,] each year, (except in the case of a newly elected Governor, and then not later than ten days after the convening of the General Assembly, unless such time shall be extended by the General Assembly, the Governor shall submit to the General Assembly a Budget for the next ensuing fiscal year. Fire Chief Advises Checking Flues, Heaters

Oakland area householders were reminded this week by Harold L. Schell, fire chief for the Oakland fire department, to make a test of chimineys, flues and other heating equipment venting to insure safe operation during cold weather.

"No matter what fuel you use", the fire chief advised, "the draft through a clear vent is the critical point to check. Burning any fuel without a good fresh air supply can produce carbon monoxide."

He suggested that furnaces, water heaters, incinerators and room heaters be inspected for adequate venting, adjustment and safe connections.

He gave a checklist which included: make sure every piece of heating equipment is vented to a good chimney, that the vent goes up, not down, from heater to chimney for cleanout opening, with a cap below smoke pipe connection; that chimney is clean; use of safety thimble when fitting smoke pipe in chimney and sealing joint with cement or plaster; that outside fresh air can reach heater area; having qualified installer connect and adjust heater, and calling repairman if heating unit is not working properly.

Undefeated Northern High Huskies extended their winning streak to five games last Saturday night by edging Mountaineer of Thomas High 14-7. The game was played under the lights on the Oakland gridiron.

The Huskies drew first blood in the evenly matched ball game on the next to last play of the second quarter, a 10-yard quarterback sneak by George Edwards. Danny Nicklow ran the point after touchdown giving Northern a 7-0 edge at the half.

The game see-sawed back and forth until midway through the fourth quarter. The Mountaineers finally broke into the scoring column, with a four-yard run by Curtis, climaxing a drive that started at the Huskies' 50 yard line. Heitz ran the point after touchdown, knotting the score at 7-7.

Victory for Northern came late in the final minutes of the game when Nicklow took a handoff from Edwards and swept around right end for a five-yard touchdown play. Wilbur Hinebaugh placed the final touch on the game, taking a pass from quarterback George Edwards for the point after touchdown, giving Northern 14 to 7.

Another night game will be played Saturday night on the Oakland field when the Huskies will meet Valley High school of Masontown, W. Va.

Some people are getting ordinary tires when they ask for tiger paws.

Nobody says you have to buy tiger paws. You can buy something else.

But if you want tiger paws, you ought to get tiger paws. Not something else.

We're that kind of store.

So if you buy a tire at another kind of store, you'll be buying an ordinary tire. Not tiger paws.

Here's how different tiger paws are from ordinary tires (besides having a red circle):

They were tested at 120 miles an hour for a hundred miles without a stop. Without a failure.

They went 19,000 miles at a sustained speed of 90 miles an hour for 16 hours a day. Without a failure. (And at that speed tread wears out more than twice as fast as it does at fifty.)

Sure-footed tiger paws handle beautifully at high speeds. And corner as nimbly as tigers.

Now, do you want tiger paws? Head our way.

THE REPUBLICAN

Important Decision . . . .

There have been three national elections recently. First, the recent and almost unnoticed national elections in Finland and Sweden; both countries moved radically to the left. They were followed by England, which narrowly elected a Labor government.

Moscow did not even attempt to conceal its joy at these changes in government.

But these three elections were only side-shows for Moscow. November 3 is the big one. And if there is any doubt, read and re-read these instructions appearing in Moscow's "World Marxist Review" for September, 1964, page 66:

> "With the capture of the Republican Party by the ultra-Right, the main strategy and tactic is to do everything possible to unite all the Democratic forces to defeat Goldwater."

Our voters, do, indeed, have an important decision to make on November 3. These are thoughts voiced by Bob Taylor of the U. S. Press Association, Inc., which we present for consideration, in urging you to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Oakland Baptists Select Location For New Church

Purchase of property for permanent location of its branch church, the First Baptist church of Oakland was completed early this month by the Calvary Baptist church of Cresaptown. The building lot fronting on Broadford road in Mountain Lake Park, will provide the space for a church edifice, educational unit, parsonage and parking lot.

Special offerings received on September 27 by the sponsoring church, by the First Baptist church of Oakland, and the Eckhart Baptist church in Eckhart, near Frostburg, enabled payment in full of the property.

Investigation of building plans is underway to determine the most acceptable and practical unit to be constructed . Rev. E. H. Wilt, pastor of the Oakland church, said the first structure probably would be used as a combination auditorium and educational unit, but later an additional separate auditorium would be used in conjunction with the educational unit. Initial cost of the first unit is estimated between $20,000 and $25,000.

Pastor Wilt said the policy of the church would be to seek its support only through free-will gifts and offerings and that there would be no soliciting for money from house to house, or business to business. He also said the church would not sponsor sales or suppers, but that free will gifts would be gratefully received.

Any person wishing to contribute may send gifts to Donald C. Williams, Box 232, Mt. Lake Park, church treasurer, or given during any regular church service. Checks may be made payable to the First Baptist church of Oakland, designated for the building fund.

Antlerless Deer Season Is Okayed

The Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission has approved a state-wide antlerless deer season, December 18 and 19. Some 30,000 permits to kill a doe will be available for the two-day season, the first under a new law passed by the General Assembly at the last session.

The commission sought permission for the antlerless season as a means of controlling the size of the Maryland deer herd, which in places is said to be so large that there is an extreme food shortage.

Also at its quarterly meeting Saturday at Annapolis the commission voted to readopt for next season all of the 1964 fresh water fishing regulations, both as to seasons and size, and creel limits.

A new deer regulation was adopted requiring hunters to check each deer killed in the county in which the animal was shot. Previously the deer had to be checked at a state-operated station within 24 hours after it was killed, with no specification as to county.

The commission also adopted a regulation increasing the maximum number of regulated hunting areas in each county from three to five.

Called For Woods Fire

Oakland firemen were called out last Friday following a report of a woods fire in back of the Loch Lynn Heights school. The flames were out when the firemen arrived. There was no damage.

Two other fire alarms were answered in recent days which were not previously reported. One was early Sunday morning, October 11, when an Oldsmobile automobile owned by Richard Kulp, was on fire near Stone Tavern, on Deep Creek Lake. Estimated damage was placed at $250 by the firemen. An outbuilding of Darwin Fike, of Crellin road, was partially destroyed by fire on Saturday, October 10, about 11:30 a. m. Loss was estimated at $100.

4 Juvenile Cases Heard By Judge

Four juvenile cases involving six persons were heard Tuesday afternoon before Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill, sitting as juvenile judge.

In one case a fourteen-year-old male of the Grantsville area was brought before the court by Trooper first class L. E. Dunton, for theft of money from at least two families. He was found to be delinquent and ordered to the Children's center for an examination. He was placed in custody of the parole officer and ordered to make restitution of some $70.00 in money which had been stolen.

In another case three juvenile males were found to be delinquent after destroying property, also in the Grantsville area. Two of the youths were sixteen and one fifteen. They also were ordered to undergo examination at the Children's center and placed in custody of the parole officer.

A 21-year-old mother was brought before the judge charged with neglect of her minor child. She was found guilty and sentenced to serve six months in the Maryland Institution for Women but sentence was suspended on condition that she cooperate with the county welfare board in getting the child placed in a foster home.

Another mother of seven minor children was charged with neglect and found guilty. She also received a six months suspended sentence to the Maryland Institution for Women and ordered to cooperate with the county welfare board.

To Address Rotary

Meade Foster, of Mt. Lake Park, who spent fifteen years in the diplomatic service, will be the speaker at the Oakland Rotary club's Rural-Urban night Friday evening at the Hinebaugh dining room.

Mr. Foster, native of Pennsylvania, from 1944 to 1959, was an agricultural representative at the embassies in Brazil, Argentina, Canada, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa. He will speak and show slides on farming practices in New Zealand and South Africa.

Since 1959, when he retired, he has been residing in Mt. Lake Park with his wife, where they purchased a home.

The program has been arranged by the Rural-Urban committee headed by Maurice Brookhart.

Promotion Council Has Annual Session

Some forty persons attended the annual meeting of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, Inc., on Tuesday evening at the Will O' the Wisp resort on Deep Creek Lake.

Charles Nelson, of Carnegie Tech's School of Fine Arts, was the speaker and showed color slides of Aspen, Colorado, a community similar to that of this area, to illustrate the possibility of combining good taste in commercial advertising with beauty.

Earl Zepp, president, was in charge. Refreshments were served following the business session.

Recreation Is Theme Of Meeting Last Night

Some one hundred persons attended a joint dinner meeting of civic organizations last night at Southern High cafeteria, to hear Harry Hunter, recreation specialist with the Department of Forests and Parks, discuss various aspects of recreation.

The dinner and meeting were sponsored by the Mountain Top Civic Center, Inc., and was attended by representatives from the service clubs and other interested persons.

The value of recreation for the individual and for the community was stressed by the speaker.

Campaign To Push Action On Prayer Amendment Set

Local Persons to Participate In "Project America II" October 25, 26, 27

A number of Oakland area citizens and church goers are planning to join in a broad-scale national campaign Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, October 25, 26 and 27 to help return the Bible and prayer to the public schools.

They will participate in "Project America II" in support of a Constitutional Prayer Amendment. The immediate goal is to help to raise the issue in the closing days of the current political campaign.

The Rev. E. H. Wilt, pastor and coordinator of this second project, similar in character to a campaign waged several months ago, declared "the confusion created by the Supreme Courts decisions which ruled against the Bible and prayer in the schools, makes a constitutional amendment necessary to clarify and settle the issue at stake."

He continued: "At stake is not simply the question of reading the Bible in the schools. As the Becker amendment acknowledges, it is whether or not the United States may continue to give honor and respect to God as a Nation. Those who have succeeded in casting the Bible out of School have vowed they will not stop until they have Thrown God out of the Pledge of Allegiance, chaplains out of the armed forces, prayer out of Congress, Bibles out of the courts and the last verse out of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Area churches and Sunday Schools are to devote their sermons and Sunday School lessons to the general subject, "A Free Nation Under God," on Sunday, October 25. The project continues October 26 with a coast to coast closed circuit telephone rally in major cities across America featuring Congressman Frank J. Becker, Dr. Carl McIntire, Prof. Charles Rice, Dr. Bob Jones, Jr., and others. The rally for this locality will be in Allegany high school, Cumberland, at 7:45 p. m.

The project will conclude Tuesday, October 27, with an organized campaign of house to house visitation. Area residents are to circulate a pamphlet entitled, "Facts, Questions and Answers on the Bible Issue."

This program is a sequel to the one last spring which gathered more than two million signatures on petitions and post cards sent to Congress asking for a constitutional amendment. Sponsoring the activity locally are citizens favoring prayer and Bible reading in the schools. Additional information is available from the coordinator, Pastor Wilt.

Nationally the project is sponsored by International Christian Youth, a youth-student organization affiliated with the American Council of Christian churches.

2nd Super Market In Oakland Area Opened Yesterday

The Thomas Big Key Market, located on U. S. 219, just north of the town limits of Oakland, officially opened yesterday with a large number of customers. It was the second super market to open in the Oakland area since the latter part of May and now gives Oakland five grocery and meat markets.

The store is being operated by Charles Thomas, of Terra Alta, who also operates a Big Key market in that town.

Mr. Thomas leased the former International garage from Maurice Brookhart a few months ago and began remodeling the building in August. A large parking lot adjoins the building.

The market is offering a Hereford baby beef as one of the prizes to be offered during the opening days. An advertisement in today's issue carries the official announcement.

Another Hotel Key

Another hotel key showed up this week at the Oakland post office. This was key No. 7 for the Manhattan hotel, which for many years stood just across the railroad tracks from the business district. It was gutted by fire several years ago and finally torn down.

A few months ago a key of the former Pinwick Inn also showed up through the mail.

To Attend Demo Dinner

Carlton R. Sickles, Congressman at Large, and Democratic candidate for re-election to that office, will be in the county Friday night, October 23, and attend the Democratic fund raising dinner at Point View.

The public is invited. Mrs. Royce Hanson also will attend, representing her husband, who is a candidate for Congress from the Sixth District.

Deer Park Church Host To Convocation

St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, will be the setting for the Fall meeting of the Convocation of Cumberland on October 27th at 10:30 a. m. The Convocation of Cumberland is composed of Episcopal parishes in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties. The Rev. H. M. Richardson, Rector of Emmanuel Church, Cumberland, is Dean of the Convocation and will preside at the business meeting. Delegates are expected from all churches of the area.

The Convocation will convene with the celebration of the Holy Eucharist, with the Rt. Rev. Harry L. Doll, Bishop of Maryland, celebrant. During the Offertory, the United Thank Offering of the women of the Convocation will be presented at the Altar. This offering is used for the missionary work of the Church, and over the past three years $84,000.00 has been given by Episcopal Churchwomen in Maryland.

Honored guests will be the Rt. Rev. Cedric Mills, Bishop of the Virgin Islands, and the delegates from the Virgin Islands to the General Convention of the Church which recently met in St. Louis, Missouri. Bishop Mills will address the Convocation following luncheon in St. John's Parish House. The Episcopal Diocese of Maryland and the Diocese of the Virgin Islands recently entered into a "companion Diocese" relationship, and Bishop Mills will speak to the delegates about the work of the Church in his diocese.

Other guests expected are Mrs. Alfred Culley, President of the Episcopal-Churchwomen in the Diocese of Maryland, and Mrs. Wilmer Gallager, Custodian of the United Thank Offering. On the evening of October 26th, these ladies will meet with the officers of the women's organization from St. John's Church, and St. Matthew's Church, Oakland, to discuss the work they are doing.

Approximately 125 delegates and guests are expected. This will be the first time St. John's Church, Deer Park, has been host to a Convocation.

Man Pleads Guilty To Forgery Charges

Joe Smith, of near Swanton, who had been confined in the county jail since the middle of August on a charge of forgery, entered a plea of guilty yesterday afternoon in the Circuit court before Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill.

There were five counts in the indictment and Judge Hamill sentenced him to three years on each of the first four counts, sentences to run concurrently, and an additional 18 months on the fifth count, to run consecutively. However, he suspended the sentences, on condition he remain of good behavior, make restitution in the amount of some $35 to Leighton Brothers Garage, J. W. Jackson company and The H-P Store, where he had forged the checks.

The charge was on both forgery and false pretense. The man was represented by Jack Turney, Oakland attorney.

The man was placed under the supervision of the State Board of Probation and Parole. Sheriff Frantz said Smith also had similar charges against him in West Virginia and Allegany county.

Mounted Delivery In Mt. Lake Park Delayed To Nov. 21

Mounted mail delivery service, which was to be inaugurated for Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn Heights on October 24, has been postponed until November 21, due mainly to the fact that the citizens it will benefit, have not completed the arrangements.

There was to be provided street numbers, street signs and mail boxes. Walter Price, member of the Mt. Lake Park council, said a committee is working toward erection of the street signs and that Lester White, acting mayor, had made arrangements with Kenneth Ridder for mapping out numbering arrangements.

There is also yet to be decided just the route the motorized vehicle will take, with the mail boxes to be placed on a particular side of the street, depending on which direction the vehicle will travel.

The effective date announced by Guy William Hinebaugh, postmaster for the Oakland office. It is the plan for the Mt. Lake and Loch Lynn areas to be under a "classified branch" of the Oakland post office. The Mt. Lake office will not lose its identity and there will be no change in personnel. There will be shuttle service between the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park offices and mail will be accepted at both places.

Park officials said that the necessary work should be completed within two weeks.

Mathias Plans Tour By Bus October 29

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias, Republican candidate for re-election to Congress from the Sixth district, will bring his "campaign bus" to Garrett and Allegany counties for an extensive visit on October 29 to 31.

Just before each election Mr. Mathias, the "Black-eyed Susan Girls" from Hood College, and a bus load of supporters, campaign through all five counties of the Sixth district.

GETS RECOGNITION FOR SCHOLARSHIP TEST—Principal Robert F. Rodeheaver, center, of Northern High school, presents Paul Harman, senior student with letter of commendation for his high performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test given last spring. Looking on, at right is Stanley Beachy, who was named as one of the semi-finalists in the competition, and who had previously been cited for his high achievement. See accompanying story for details.

Two From Northern Hi School Place In Scholarship Tests

Two senior students at Northern High school were named in the national merit scholarship qualifying competition given last spring.

Stanley Beachy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Beachy, Grantsville, was named a semi-finalist, and Paul Harman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harman, of the Cove, was commended for his high performance in the tests.

Beachy was among 14,000 seniors throughout the country who attained semifinalist status. It is composed of the highest scoring students in each state. Each semifinalist is now a step closer to winning a four-year merit scholarship to the college of his choice. They will take another examination to substantiate their qualifying performance. In past years some 98 percent of the semifinalist have become finalists. The names of merit scholars will be announced sometime next April.

Letters of commendation such as the one Harman received was presented to 38,000 students in the United States in recognition of their "outstanding performance on the qualifying test." Attention to their high academic achievement is called in this manner.

Semifinalists and commended students constitute about 2 percent of all high school seniors.

Mr. Rodeheaver announced that all 1966 graduates of Northern High school who wish to enter the 1965-66 national merit scholarship competition should register now at the school office. The test is to be given March 9 or 13. Mr. Rodeheaver said a student's performance on the qualifying test also provides him with information that is useful in career planning or in selecting courses for college.

Three Men Receive Suspended Sentences

The three Friendsville area men who were arrested in late July and early August on charges of assault and disturbing the peace, and who pleaded guilty before Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill when tried in the court on September 15, were given suspended sentences on Tuesday, after Judge Hamill had taken note of a pre-sentence investigation report.

Those involved were Paul Everett Sisler, Marlin Ray Lawson and Edward Gene Frazee. Lawson and Frazee were arrested in late July while Sisler was picked up about a week later.

One of the charges originally had been assault with intent to murder, but this was dismissed by order of the states attorney, Fred A. Thayer, when they entered pleas of guilty to the second and third counts of the indictments, that of common assault and disturbing the peace.

At the September 15 trial Judge Hamill withheld sentence, pending a pre-sentence investigation. After reading the report Judge Hamill called men into court and sentenced each one to a year in the House of Correction and gave each man $100 fine. These were all suspended upon condition they remain of good behavior. All were placed under an indefinite probation period.

Three Teen-Agers Found Last Night

A several state search, underway for three teen-agers, two girls and one boy, who disappeared from their homes last Thursday night following a supposed dinner date of two of the parties, ended last night with a police report they had been found in Akron, O.

Authories were not notified of their disappearance until Friday evening, when the names of those involved also were broadcast in an effort to locate them. They are Richard Boyce, 18, Patricia Ashby, 17, and Linda Murphy, 14, the latter two of Crellin and Boyce, from Kitzmiller.

Wayne Wilt, deputy sheriff, said the trio had been seen in Kitzmiller on Saturday and later authorities received word they were in Ohio with relatives, but when this report was investigated, they were not located in that state.

Mr. Wilt said state police of several states had been notified to be on the lookout.

Uniform Time To Be Effective Sun. A. M.

The nation will be of one accord in regard to the time question beginning Sunday morning, October 25. Garrett county for the most part returned to standard time the last Sunday morning in September, but Grantsville, upon motion of its city council, decided to remain on fast time for another month.

In addition Allegany county and other parts of Maryland and most of the eastern seaboard also remained on fast time for the additional month.

Television will be back on standard time, schedules and railroad trains will return to normal.

Of course the time zones will remain in effect after Sunday.

The time change will be made officially at 2 a. m., October 25, at which time clocks in Grantsville should be turned back. The balance of the county will remain "as is." Up to this morning there had been no announcement of the fall schedule for B and O. trains.

Weather Is Varied With Spots of Snow

There was a brave attempt to provide snow during the week for the mountain top, and it succeeded briefly in a few spots, particularly on Monday. There were sprinkles of snow both Tuesday and Wednesday which were barely visible.

Scattered in between were clear and cold periods, and a temperature drop to 17 degrees early Wednesday. Otherwise weather went along in the normal fall pattern.

Friday began clear and warming but windy. The mercury mounted to 66 degrees by noon but cloud cover began to form and rain fell in the evening. Saturday was a continuation of the rain until shortly before noon, with temperatures in the mid-fifties. Sunday was clear and warming; but this was short lived with rain beginning to fall Monday with temperatures dropping. It was 40 degrees at 9:30 and did not get above 45 during the day. There was snow in some areas, covering the ground for a brief period. Tuesday was in the high 20's, clear and cloudy on occasion with some slight spitting of snow.

Temperature dropped to 17 early Wednesday but warming to 59 degrees by 4 p. m. It was alternately cloudy and clear. Today began around the frost line with a rise to 40 degrees by 11.

The American Way

ONLY THE PEOPLE ARE FOR GOLDWATER

By Tom Anderson

If you are among the millions of Americans who still believe that the Republican Party is the party of Big Business, vested interests and Economic Royalists, you are, to put it moderately, extremely behind the times. Daddy Bird Johnson has more Big Business support than any Democrat President in history. He received a tremendous reception to his speech at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Big Business is obsessed with being on the winning side, obsessed with profits, obsessed with "success". These Big Businessmen are for Johnson because they can trade with him. (Anybody can, who has the price.) The government is the Big Businessman's best customer. He'll do whatever, and whenever and to whomever the government dictates.

Some of our most dangerous collectivists are the corporate Socialists who help manage our planned economy and who wax rich off foreign aid. Some Big Businessmen have so many foreign plants that they're not sure which side they are on. Profits and patriotism become synonymous. All they want is the winning side. Many fatcats have decided that Socialism is the wave of the future, and they'll ride with the tide.

Middle Class Liquidation

America is the land of the great middle class. The collectivists are now urgently merging the middle and lower classes into one mass, under them. That's how collectivist societies must operate. The politicians, intellectuals and corporate Socialists running Big Business take over the whole show. The rest of us take orders. This is tomorrow's America unless the people wake up fast and act.

Lyndon Johnson is running our government like nobody's business. He is spending more of your grandchildren's money than any President has ever done, even in wartime. Johnson is spending $2 million a day more than President Kennedy and $50 million a day more than President Eisenhower. Why? To get elected. When campaigning for the Presidency, John Kennedy claimed 17 million Americans go to bed hungry every night. Now Johnson says 42 million Americans are hungry, but he doesn't say how it happened. His "answer" is more billions for subsidies, welfare. For after all the Big Unionists, and Big Businessmen are subsidized, the politician ponders, "How do we make the little man, who has the votes, continue to believe that we're doing all this for him?" Make a big play to end "pockets of poverty" and unemployment and to increase welfare.

Anything It Takes

Some very uninformed people accused Daddy Bird Johnson of not being a "liberal", to which he replied: "You say I am not a liberal. Let me tell you I am more liberal than Eleanor Roosevelt, and I will prove it to you. Franklin D. Roosevelt was my hero—he gave me my start." Lyndon Johnson is the new breed of leftist. His commitment is not an emotional, idealogical thing like Humphrey's but is opportunism rooted in lust for power. Talk moderate and move left is the creed of the Johnson Power Deal. "The real Johnson" will not emerge, some say, until his second term. There is no real Johnson. Johnson is anything it takes; westerner, southerner, easterner, poor boy, millionaire. The Communists are for Johnson, the Socialists are for Johnson, the Negroes are for Johnson, foreigners are for Johnson, Union Bosses are for Johnson, Big Business is for Johnson. Who does that leave for Goldwater? Just the people!

"I called the roofer in the Want Ads—he'll be here tomorrow!"

ASK YOUR PHARMACIST

Question

Can I get my prescription refilled by just calling you on the phone, or do I have to come in?

Answer

All you have to do is call us and give us the number on the label of your prescription (or give us the date on which you had it filled.) If your doctor's authorization is required again, we're glad to call him for his permission to refill it for you. If your doctor feels you should check back with him before he can order the same prescription filled for you, we will call you back and explain. It's just as simple as that!

Dog, Watch Out!

For years it has been "mailman, watchout," when it comes to delivering mail to homes where there are dogs. Now the slogan will be "dog, watch out".

Starting Tuesday all carriers of the Postal department began to carry a little "dog repellent," sprayer. It is about five inch long and 3/4 of an inch in diameter, this aerosol spray. It contains some 15 percent oleoresin capsicum (extract of cayenne pepper) and 85 percent mineral oil, propelled by an inert gas.

Dog bite injuries account for 18 percent of all injuries to postal personnel each year, or some 7,000, with an approximate expense of one million dollars involved.

The postman uses it to spray directly at the eyes of the attacking animal by pressing the control on top of the container. It has an effective range up to 12 feet. It is also supposed to be effective when applied to the nose and mouth of the animal.

A pamphlet informs people that the reaction of the dog is like this: "without a whimper the dog will put his tail between his legs and retreat." The effect wears off in ten to fifteen minutes.

So, dogs, watch out!

Tax Refunds Held Up For Proper Address

A list of 1,208 Maryland income taxpayers whose refund checks from their 1963 state income tax returns had been returned by the post office was released by State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. Only one had an address from this county. He was Rodger Savage, of Oakland.

The money represented by these checks is $15,962, an average of $13 per refund. It was apparent the taxpayers moved after filing their 1963 Maryland returns but failed to give the post office department their new address.

The refunds will be made if persons write the Maryland income tax division, state treasury building, Annapolis. Officials want the name, present address and social security number.

Listen, Americans!

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
Searcy, Arkansas

Your country soon requires a response from you as one of its citizens. The business of city, county, state and nation is your business. Are you going to shrug off your duty and leave it up to the other stockholders? Do you find the candidates unappealing? Does the noise of charges and countercharges annoy you? Are the issues too complex to clarify? Will you remain a "don't know" or "undecided" until after election day? Resist the inclination to let this one go by! Vote your convictions, and urge your neighbor to do so.

In doing this, every citizen should extend his powers of discrimination beyond the name-calling and vituperation that so often becloud the issues. Senator Mundt of South Dakota recently became one of the first to call upon the national candidates to put an end to the diatribe and dirt being thrown about. Such a low level campaign, he said, would "insult the intelligence of the American voters." The Senator asked party leaders to help restore some degree of decency and dignity to the contest for president and vice president.

All the candidates, he said, are "honest, able, dedicated, highly trained, patriotic individuals, not crooks, vote-thieves, dopes, dupes, trigger happy or warmongers." A madness must have overtaken them, he added, to cause them to apply cheap and dirty language to each other such as "raving, ranting demagogue" and "crook." If Senator Mundt's advice is heeded, he will have done a tremendous service to his country. Everyone of us should join him in calling for restraint in the political oratory.

Men prominent in public life, it seems, need especially to use restraint in referring to Senator Goldwater. Mr. George Meany, the nation's top labor leader, finds that the Senator resembles Hitler. Senator Fulbright considers Goldwater Republicanism the equivalent in American politics of Russian Stalinism. Negro civil rights leaders tell their people that election of Goldwater would bring war with Russia and a domestic police state. These statements may stir emotions and excite crowds, but they contribute little to intelligent voting and reflect no credit on those so "extreme" as to make them.

We should like fewer attacks on personality and fewer references to scandals. We should like more background treatments that establish bases for national conduct. Instead of the nervous and bitter caricatures of Herblock and Mauldin, we should like to see positive reasoning about the good things of our great country that we would like to keep. Since Communism challenges us on every front, we should like to hear how we may meet that threat at home and abroad. But we need also to hear more about inflation, our dwindling gold supply, and our general fiscal policies.

You're a free person in a free country. But if you don't go to the polling booth, you will have no right to complain about the losses of freedom that could come because of your negligence and lack of responsibility. If you believe in the idea of representative government, that our free nation exists because our founding fathers thought people could govern themselves, then go exercise your privilege of the ballot. The American who will not vote, or who cannot take the trouble to prepare himself to vote intelligently, is failing in his basic obligation of citizenship.

Horsemen assembled Saturday at 2 o'clock at the Sang Run community park where camp was set up. Riders took the Salt Block trail and the river hill road, covering some six miles. Participants were responsible for their supper and Sunday breakfast.

Harley Brenneman Family Takes Part In Farm Program

Mrs. Harley Brenneman, left, Bittinger community homemaker, shows Miss Ethel Grove, Garrett county extension agent, home economics, right, some of the apple sauce she has just canned. Mrs. Walter Killius, Grantsville, center, beams her approval of her daughter's skill. Over 500 quarts of fruits and vegetables were canned this year by Mrs. Brenneman.

The Brenneman's are enrolled in the Farming For Better Living program. They farm only 76 acres of land, but they are able to maintain a 28 cow dairy herd and around 20 replacement heifers and calves on this farm. They regularly follow a soil improvement plan developed by the Soil Conservation representative for their farm and use the amounts of lime and fertilizers recommended to get the best yields. They seek the advice of their county extension service agents and their power company rural representatives.

The Brenneman's are the parents of five boys and three girls. The family members are active in church, 4-H and school activities.

Accommodations Are Sought by Hunters

Prospective deer hunters by the score are contacting the State Game and Inland Fish commission, seeking information where they may be accommodated during the hunting season. This information was released this week by Malcolm King, public relations man for the commission.

Mr. King said he had a number of letters on his desk this week seeking such information. He suggested that farm people of Garrett county may be interested in furnishing accommodations which would increase income and make it possible for hunters who are interested to come to this county.

He suggested that farmers and other landowners who have places available at prevailing prices where hunters might stay, should write to him at the Game and Inland Fish commission office, in the state office building in Annapolis.

He said West Virginia farm people apparently had been capitalizing on this idea for several years and added that Maryland farm people could be benefited likewise.

Keyser crossed the goal line three times in the first quarter on a 50-yard run by Rotruck, a 49-yard run by Barr, and a 4-yard slash by Hart.

Hart added two more scores in the second quarter, crossing on a 45-yard run and a 60-yard gallop. Hardeman added the final counter on a 15-yard scamper.

Terry Imhoff scored for the Highlanders twice in the final period, once on a 15-yard run and again on a 55-yard return of a fumble he plucked out of the air.

Both clubs had eight first downs but Keyser had a total of 190 net yards gained compared to 129 for Southern.

The Highlanders now own a 1-6 record with a 1-3 conference slate. Keyser is 3-1 in the PVC and 4-3 over-all.

Walnut Bottom Church Plans Dedication Services

The new Sunday school rooms of the Walnut Bottom Assembly of God church, route 1, Swanton, will be dedicated on Sunday afternoon, October 25, at 2 o'clock, with special services it was announced.

Rev. Kelly Wigfield, superintendent of the Potomac district, will be the speaker, it was announced by Rev. Pete Saleskey, pastor.

All are welcome.

Disabled Persons May Be Eligible For SS Payments

About 20 disabled people and dependents in the Garrett County area will become eligible for social security disability insurance payments or will have payments they are now receiving increased, according to Edward G. Phelps, Social Security District Manager in Cumberland.

The increases are provided by a new amendment to the social security law which changes the rule for setting the date on which a worker's "period of disability" started.

The new law removes a time limit which went into effect in July, 1962, and permits the beginning of the "period of disability" for payment purposes to be set at the time the worker actually became disabled. The change affects only people who worked under social security for at least five of the ten years before they became disabled and who applied after July 2, 1962, or have not yet applied.

There may be former workers who are now disabled but who have never asked at the social security office to find out whether they may be eligible for social security disability insurance payments. Some people did not apply because they realized that they were not eligible since they had waited beyond the time limit for filing an application. Others may not have heard about disability payments.

Increases in payments now being paid will be retroactive to November, 1963, and will be paid with the checks to be delivered early in December. People newly eligible because of the amendment will receive back payments to November, 1963, if they apply before the end of November, 1964.

Take One, Take All

People who planned to "go with LBJ all the way", will have to take the following:

L—Lyndon
B—Baker
J—Jenkins

And it is difficult to say how many others.

To say nothing of Humphrey.

Concert Group Will Begin Season Oct. 26

The Tri-State Community Concert Association will open its sixth season on Monday, October 26, when Salvatora Accardo, a young Italian violin virtuoso, presents a concert at 8:15 p. m. EST. at the Fort Hill High School auditorium in Cumberland.

Francis D. "Pat" Verdery, president of the association, said that this is the first year that all 1500 seats in the Fort Hill auditorium have been sold in the spring subscription drive. A number of residents of Oakland and elsewhere in Garrett County are among the subscribers.

Mr. Accardo made his American debut last year and was called the "Amazing young man from Italy" when he appeared as soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

Subscribers to the concert series are reminded to reserve the four future dates for concerts as well as next Monday. Other dates are November 19, January 19, March 22 and April 5.

Two youths of Prince Georges county were found shot to death on a trash filled lot. They had head wounds.

EVERY PRESCRIPTION IS A MIRACLE DRUG

Because, after a personal examination and study of your problem, your physician has selected the one specific medicine he believes will help you most. The odds are it will.

That is why it is wiser to depend on your physician's prescriptions when sick instead of home remedies prepared for the average person. Also, when you treat yourself you can only treat the symptoms which distress. But a physician has the knowledge to find the cause of your sickness and cure it.

A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

All the new cars have a lot to offer . . .
but only Dodge has the Dodge Boys!
(so you get more car for less money)
The 1965 models are in and there's never been a better year for new cars. Styling has never been better. Engineering has never been better. All the new models have a lot going for them, but Dodge has an exclusive . . . the Dodge Boys. There are no dealers quite like them. They want to paint the town with Dodges and they're boosting trade-in allowances and lowering prices to do it. Prove it to yourself. Shop around and compare your head off. Nobody is dealing like the Dodge Boys. They've got a line of cars that fits right into their sales philosophy: More car for less money.
THE DODGE BOYS
DART☆ The '65 Dart is the only compact that tops the '64 model. It has all the features that won "Compact Buy of the Year" honors for the '64, plus some more surprises that you'll be glad to see. See them at the Dodge Boy showroom in your neighborhood.
CORONET☆ The Coronet is gleaming proof that a car doesn't have to look low price to be low price. It has all the styling and interior elegance of top-of-the-line models. It has all the built-in dependability of solid Dodge engineering. But it doesn't cost a penny more than the so-called economy cars.
POLARA☆ You don't have to come into an inheritance or double your salary to get out of the low price field. You can own a Dodge Polara for no more than you would pay for a Ford or Chevy . . . and you get a lot more car for your money. More style. More power. More lasting value.
and they all have the 5-YEAR/50,000 MILE WARRANTY ›››››
*HERE'S HOW DODGE'S 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1965 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings. REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

OH, MY ACHING BACK

Now! You can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that often cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on with over-exertion or stress and strain —you want relief—want it fast! Another disturbance may be mild bladder irritation following wrong food and drink—often setting up a restless uncomfortable feeling.

Doan's Pills work fast in 3 separate ways: 1. by speedy pain-relieving action to ease torment of nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains. 2. by soothing effect on bladder irritation. 3. by mild diuretic action tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years. For convenience, ask for the large size. Get Doan's Pills today!

You can read many things in the human face. It is often the mirror of our emotions. It is sometimes the reflection of our character.

But almost never does the face reveal the needs of the human soul. Like some artificial mask it can look satisfied when the soul is starving. It can look calm when the soul is troubled. It can look content when the soul is restless and yearning.

How then can we read our soul's needs?

We can read them in the Bible. And in the centuries of man's universal reaching for God. In the prayers that a hundred million lips have framed. In the hymns and psalms that generations have echoed.

God alone fully understands the needs of a human soul. He who created us knows what is essential for His creatures. And when we come to His House, trying to understand these deep spiritual needs . . . all the while He is supplying them, satisfying the hungers of the soul.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Keeping Fit

Lesson for October 25, 1964

Background Scripture: I Timothy 3:14 through 4:16.
Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 9:24-27.

AS USUAL, there is a great deal more in the passages of Scripture which have been selected for this study than we shall get out of it. But the reader will be rewarded for his own explorations. The topic chosen is one out of several that are to be found here.

Dr. Foreman

One striking thought in these few sentences is that there is a likeness between athletes such as you see in an Olympic contest, and athletes of the spirit. The first thing an athlete in any sport has to learn—and if he doesn't learn it he never learns anything else—is keeping fit.

Follow directions

When a boxer goes into training, or a swimmer is pointing toward the big meet, there is always a trainer. Whether it's bodybuilding exercises in general or working up a good backhand in tennis, or whatever, if you won't or can't take directions you won't go far. We can think of Paul as Timothy's spiritual teacher. Timothy was an unusually good man, you would think he did not need any one to tell him; but his friend Paul writes to tell him what to do to become a better Christian, a better man, a better minister. If you get to thinking you know more than the coach, you won't stay on the squad long. Yet a good athlete is not a mere robot, he thinks for himself. One of the jobs a trainer has is to cultivate, in the men he is training, independence of judgment, ability to act quickly in new situations. In the same way, growing in the spiritual life is going to be impossible for the person who refuses to learn from those who are better at it than he is.

Good food

Another essential in physical training is good food. You don't feed a football team on cokes and malteds all the time. You can't build up a strong body by eating and drinking half-spoiled food and drink. It's the same way with what is more important than your body, namely your soul. Your soul is just your real inner self, your soul even more than your body is you.

Train yourself

The old-fashioned word "godliness" means simply God-likeness. There is no higher aim possible to any man than to become like God. But Godlikeness does not descend on us like sunshine and rain. Timothy at any rate (and no doubt you and I too) was expected to train himself in Godlikeness. Remember Timothy was a good man. If anybody could grow spiritually without trying, surely it was he. But Paul talks about toiling and striving—he followed his own advice! It is not easy to grow as a Christian. Paul himself referred to the whole of the Christian life as a fight, a race. Anyone who sincerely wishes to grow more like the master has a fight on his hands. There is too much in this world that hates goodness, for goodness to be had just for the wishing.

Practice

Watch a pitcher warming up in the bull pen. Why does he do it? He's been on the mound scores of times before. Baseball is nothing new to him. And yet he, this seasoned pitcher, has to practice just as if he were a rookie. No matter how good you are as an athlete in any line, you need practice to improve. One pole vault is not enough to perfect your form. This is just as true in the inner life. One act of kindness does not make you a kind man. One deed of self-sacrifice does not turn you into a saint. It is only the beginner in golf who keeps thinking how to hold his wrist. Only after years of practice will he be able to hold his wrist right without thinking. How much more important it is to live rightly with God and other men! But if you don't practice you'll never learn.

The 'Jeep' Gladiator with 4-wheel drive has twice the traction of ordinary pick-up trucks.

The 'Jeep' Gladiator with 4-wheel drive can get through stormy weather and rough terrain that would stop any conventional 2-wheel drive pick-up. That's because it has twice the traction. 'Jeep' Gladiators plow through snow, slush through mud, sail through downpours and give better control on ice.

And because it is built to take it, a 'Jeep' Gladiator is worth a mint when you get ready to sell it. It holds its value because it stays versatile.

Go to your 'Jeep' dealer and test drive a 'Jeep' Gladiator. Notice its passenger car smoothness. Then find a hill. A steep one. Try it halfway in 2-wheel drive. Now throw the 'Jeep' Gladiator in 4-wheel drive. And hang on. You'll know then what separates other pick-up trucks from the "Unstoppables." KAISER Jeep CORPORATION 50 YEARS

Huskies Win 20-0; Keep Perfect Mark

Undefeated Northern High school notched its sixth consecutive victory in the 1964 season last Saturday night, dumping Valley High of Masontown, W. Va., 20-0 in a home game played on the Oakland gridiron.

The Huskies set up their first score in the opening period when a Valley punt attempt was muffed and a Northern player grabbed a fumble on the Valley four-year stripe. Halfback Gary Buckel barreled over from the one to net the TD and George Edwards passed to Wilbur Hinebaugh to add the extra point.

Muddy turf made for a sluggish ground game and Valley failed to sustain any long drives throughout the game.

Quarterback George Edwards earned the second tally for the Huskies in the third period, scoring on a one-yard plunge. Buckel chalked up his second touchdown of the game in the fourth period on a ten-yard sweep to make the score 19-0. Danny Nicklow added another in a run for the extra point, making it 20-0. Another Northern tally was called back on a penalty.

Leading ground-gainer for Valley was Strawser. Valley is now 0-7 for the season.

The Huskies will meet their seventh opponent Friday night, October 23, on the Oakland gridiron when they meet University High of Morgantown.

Local Air Patrol Aids In Mission

Members of the Oakland composite squadron Civil Air patrol, participated in a mission held early in October in most states east of the Mississippi. Termed the "Sarda Mission" this stands for "State and Region Defense Airlift."

The states monilized their light aircraft in a demonstration of the airlift capability in time of national emergency. Each state developed its own plans to prove that light aircraft would represent a vast resource in such a time.

The exercise was based on effects of a simulated nuclear attack. The area involved was presumed to be in a post-attack environment, 10 days after an atomic attack, where levels of radioactivity had diminished sufficiently to permit air activity.

The mission was to test six objectives, emphasizing importance of the aviation fleet as a vital transportation resource in support of military and civilian survival, providing a means of training in becoming responsible, to develop inter-state cooperation; to evaluate capabilities of federal and state agencies in employment of the aircraft; to provide a manner for developing and treating state SARDA plans; and to provide for development and testing of communications system for command control of aviation during an emergency.

"SINCE WE CONVERTED TO FLAMELESS ELECTRIC HEATING WE FEEL LIKE WE'RE LIVING IN A BRAND-NEW HOME"

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cline of Summersville, West Virginia, talk about the extra comfort and cleanliness they enjoy now that they're using flameless electricity to heat their 100-year-old home.

"Even though lots of folks think of West Virginia as being pretty well south, our winter temperatures here regularly run as low as 15° to 25° below zero," reports Jack Cline. "And believe me, when you're living in a home built back in the 1860's, weather like that can make things pretty tough.

"In fact, it's fair to say that we just never were really comfortable here until we decided to put in better insulation and convert our house to flameless electric home heating. Now, with electric heat, it almost seems as though we're living in a completely new home.

"And electric heat is also just as clean as it is comfortable. My wife, for instance, says the only dirt we get now is what the children track in. And I know for a fact that cleaning the house isn't the big job for her that it used to be.

"Another good thing about electric heating is that you pay only for what you actually use — no heat is wasted up the chimney. And considering everything it does for us, I figure electric heat is probably the best heating bargain I've ever seen."

Like the Clines, more than a million families all across America have already chosen to heat their homes with flameless electricity. If you're planning to build, buy or convert your home, think about the advantages of modern flameless electric home heating for your own family. Monongahela Power Company will help you get all the information you need to take this important step toward the joy of total electric living.

Sixteen Are Killed On State Highways

Sixteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week, according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.

Three of those killed were drivers; nine were passengers; and four were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in two of the deaths; speed in five; and "driver error" was present in fourteen of the fatalities.

"Last week fourteen persons lost their lives as the result of some driver's negligence or willful disregard of the laws of safety," commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "and eight of those killed were passengers - innocent victims of these errors.

"The driving errors which resulted in death were not unusual ones. Unfortunately, they were the same errors that show up in the accident picture week after week - violations of the fundamental rules of the road.

Adventure whispered in the wind and Glenn Robert, age five, heard its call. "Of course," his mother said, "you can go up to Marky's to play. Be home around lunchtime," she called after him.

But lunchtime passed. Glenn's mother went out and looked up toward Mark's house. There was no sign of Glenn. She called Mark's mother, "I thought they went back to your house." Two more phone calls—no one had seen him. Could some stranger . . . ?

She pushed the thought from her mind and quickly dialed another of Glenn's kindergarten friends, this one on Hollow Road, many streets away. "Yes, he's here. Hold on, I'll get him."

Problems have a way of disappearing when you lift your phone.

To Observe Youth Work

Catholic youth in the area will participate in the 14th annual National Catholic Youth week, to be observed October 25 to November 1, it was announced by Arthur Wolf, president of the Organization at Oakland. "Truth in Love, Bond of Union", is the theme.

The local organization will participate in a Holy Hour program on October 25, from 4 to 5 o'clock in Lonaconing. There will also be activity on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock for the Youth organization in St. Peter's, and again on November 1 during a Holy Hour session at St. Peter's.

The observances will stress the necessity for unity among churches, pointing to the meeting last year of Pope Paul VI and Athenagoras I, rulers of the Roman Catholic and the Greek Orthodox faiths. The local group is asking that churches and youth groups around the country pray for "unity and peace with charity for all, an ideal that demands real maturity in the full Christian sense."

Frantz, by the last will and testament of the said Benjamin F. Schroyer, dated October 22, 1943, recorded in Will Liber E, folio 473, one of the Will records in the Register of Wills for Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said last will and testament being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that your orators have endeavored to convey said land but prospective purchasers therefor have denied and disputed the title of your orators; that said Lot No. 23, Block U, was conveyed by G. Drive it now! Chrysler's all-new economy car—Simca 1000 with the 5-year/50,000-mile engine and drive train warranty*

It covers parts that could turn other cars with shorter warranties into expensive propositions: vital drive train parts, vital engine parts. And it pays for both replacement parts and labor.

No other economy import's warranty on these parts lasts even half as long as the warranty on Simca 1000.

What kind of car rates this protection? A family car with sports car features: Porsche synchronizers; 4 forward speeds; 4-wheel independent suspension; a 50-hp rear engine. And more.

*HERE ARE THE FACTS: Chrysler Motors Corporation warrants all of the following vital parts of the Simca 1000 for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material or workmanship will be replaced or repaired at an Authorized Simca Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, water pump, intake manifold, Trans-Axle parts and rear wheel bearings.

HERE'S ALL YOU MUST DO: Give your car this normal care — change engine oil and retorque the cylinder head at first 600 miles and thereafter change engine oil every 3 months or every 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; clean oil separator every 6 months (spring and fall); clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and clean the crankcase ventilator valve oil filler cap and change Trans-Axle lubricant every 6 months, or 8,000 miles, whichever comes first; AND every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to an Authorized Simca Dealer or other Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

VOLUME 88. OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., OCTOBER 29, 1964 PER COPY 10c NUMBER 35.

Two Ways of Life . . . .

The issues of this campaign were so clearly stated in the editorial comment of Carroll Streeter, editor of the Farm Journal, in the November issue, recently distributed, that we would like in this concluding statement prior to the election, to reproduce some of his reasoning. We hope it sounds convincing to you.

Since reprints of the page are available, we presume it would be agreeable with Mr. Streeter to quote a few remarks, He said:

"We will be choosing between two men. But more importantly we will be choosing between what they champion. We may or may not like everything about the man we vote for. We may or may not agree with everything he says. But which man represents more clearly the basic direction we want this country to go. That is the big question. Let's never lose sight of it."

"Will we lose sight of it in the face of the greatest character smear in modern times? Mr. Goldwater is being grossly libeled, his position falsified.

"Both candidates want peace—who doesn't? Both are responsible. Neither favors annihilation. Both candidates have compassion for the poor and have proved it in private life. Their only difference is in how to tackle the problem. Both want good times to continue. Don't we all? But what best assures them? Control by government or control by citizens of their own affairs? We agree with Mr. Goldwater that the way to "The Great Society" is not through the Welfare State toward which we are headed, but through individual enterprise left free to operate.

"We agree with Mr. Goldwater, too, in choosing principle over expediency. For us the attitude of the Johnson administration is too much "Peace at any price" with any substantial group of voters at home or any government abroad, Cuba included."

The editor then pointed out how Mr. Kennedy frightened people in 1960 with claims about a "missile gap". It turned out after election to be phony. The scares of this year are, he said, "just as phony". The TV flashes intimating Goldwater would abolish all farm programs, abolish social security, get us blown to bits, are just some of the phony scares, that are plain untruths. Can they continue to get away with it? We believe not.

Youth Is Absolved Of Hit-Run Charge

The 16-year-old Oakland youth who was arrested October 8 for the hit and run death of a Corinth woman on October 3, was absolved of any responsibility in her death, at a hearing in juvenile court in Kingwood, W. Va., on Monday afternoon.

Judge Melvin Snyder, sitting as juvenile judge, and after hearing a number of witnesses in the case, exonerated the Oakland youth. Witnesses testified they had earlier had to swerve to keep from hitting the woman, and that others testified they had also seen the Oakland youth swerve in an attempt to miss an object in the road. There were indications that another person may have struck her.

Police indicated from a test that the dead woman's blood showed an alcohol content of .23, 8 or 9 points above intoxication.

The dead woman was Mrs. Maude Esther Sylvester, 62, of Corinth.

Information which appeared in The Republican on October 15, had been obtained from West Virginia authorities and the Rev. Fr. Joseph Krach, assistant pastor at St. Peter's Catholic church in Oakland, said the information had been erroneous in reporting that the youth had confessed to his priest. This point was cleared by Rev. Fr. Krach who said that a confession, whether in a sacrament or not, was held as a sacred trust by both minister and priest. He wanted to rectify the notion in the minds of some that any violation of such a trust had been implied. He said further that the youth had made no attempt to hide any facts and had gone to the authorities voluntarily. The youth is not a Catholic, but had talked to the priest about the matter.

Sales Continue

The number of lot sales at the Youghiogheny Mountain club, on the Cranesville road, continued to increase with the total now numbering 200, it was stated this week by Don Reynolds, sales promoter.

He said one of the half-acre lots was sold during the week for $2,500. Some of the lots were sold earlier for around $500.

All of the purchasers up to this time have been from the Pittsburgh area, Reynolds said.

GOP Federation President To Be Guest At Dinner

The Republican Women's club will have Mrs. Kitty Massenburg as a guest at a dinner meeting at Edge O' Lake restaurant, on Monday evening, November 9, at 6:30 p. m., it was announced by Mrs. Christa Pratt, Kitzmiller, president.

Mrs. Massenburg is president of the Republican Women's federation. Members of the club have been sent notices and returns are to be made no later than November 6. Steak dinners will be served.

Tree Farm Awards Given At Forestry Field Day October 14

Some one hundred persons, interested in woodlot management attended a forestry field day held October 14, at Herrington Manor Recreation area, under sponsorship of the county's Forestry Board.

Clinton Irwin, district forester, welcomed the group. The care, handling and planting of tree seedlings were demonstrated, management and marking of a Red Pine plantation explained and the use and purpose of various forestry tools were demonstrated.

A tree identification contest was held with teams from Northern and Southern high schools competing. It was won by Northern and a trophy axe, donated by Harco Lumber company, was presented to the winners, by Max Messenger, vice chairman of the forestry board.

Forest fire fighting equipment was displayed. James C. McClellan, chief forester for the American Forest Products Industries, main speaker, explained the national tree farm program. Tree farm awards were presented to Mrs. Ethel Helbig, H. G. Shaffer and Lenwood Bittinger. McClellan was introduced by H. C. Buckingham, state forester.

There was a tour of a demonstration area in the adjoining woodlot of the Thomas Johnson farm, where the timber stand improvement program, sponsored by the Department of Forests and Parks, was explained. Steward Gregg, forester for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company, explained company policy in purchasing wood and pointed out characteristics of good and poor pulpwood.

The Forestry board plans to make this an annual affair. James Mallow represented the Maryland Natural Resources Institute and Chauncey Kuntz, Westvaco forester, also attended. Refreshments for the luncheon, eaten at the open air pavillion, were provided by the Garrett National Bank.

Local Pharmacy Incorporation Is Announced Today

Became Effective October 1—Officers Are Named

The corporation officers include Robert E. Proudfoot, president; Harold H. Harned, executive vice president and consultant; Joe M. Carlson, executive vice president; James V. Ashby, vice president for merchandising; Mrs. Darrell A. Malone, vice president for food management; and Mrs. Virgil T. Steyer, secretary.

The Oakland Pharmacy was established in 1893, being founded by Dr. J. Lee McComas in a building on Railroad street. His manager and pharmacist at that time was Joseph E. Harned who assumed proprietorship the following year and continued to operate the pharmacy until his death in 1951.

The pharmacy was moved to the McComas building in 1894 following a fire which destroyed most of the business buildings on the west side of Second street, where it remains in greatly enlarged form. Mr. Proudfoot joined the firm in 1953 and soon after this a modernization and expansion program was inaugurated resulting in the present establishment.

Mr. Proudfoot, a native of Rowlesburg, W. Va., is a graduate of the School of Pharmacy, West Virginia university, Morgantown, in 1950, when he received his degree as registered pharmacist. He resides with his wife and family at Monte Vista. Mr. Carlson, a native of Elkins, completed his work as a registered pharmacist in 1957, also at West Virginia university. He and his wife and family also reside at Monte Vista.

Mr. Ashby, a native of Crellin, has been with the company for four years. He resides with his wife and family on the Crellin road. Mrs. Malone, native of Philippi, joined the store in 1961. She is the wife of Darrell Malone, instructor at Northern High school, and they reside on old state road, north Oakland. Mrs. Steyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Yutzy, joined the firm in December, 1963. She resides near Oakland with her husband and family.

Mr. Harned, executive vice president and consultant, worked with his father for many years in the pharmacy. He and his wife reside on Second street.

New Math Teacher Begins At Southern

James Winters, a mid-term graduate of Frostburg State College, assumed the math teaching position at Southern High School, Monday. He has replaced Charles Bennett who became ill late last spring.

So far this year, Mrs. William Sharps and Mrs. Kenneth Johns have been holding down the position in hope that Mr. Bennett would be able to resume teaching early this semester. Mr. Bennett's illness, however, prevented him from returning to teaching.

Mr. Winters attended LaSalle High School in Cumberland. After graduation he furthered his education at LaSalle College in Philadelphia, Pa. There his major was pre-medicine. Later, in 1962, he switched to education and enrolled at Frostburg State College.

His student teacher's training has just been completed at Valley High School under a former teacher at Southern, Mr. Robert Jackson who was a physics and chemistry teacher. Mr. Winters will have a Maryland State teacher's certificate in science, including biology.

He commutes with three other teachers to Oakland. On week-ends he works at Sears Town in Cumberland. In the summer he plays baseball in a league. Basketball and hunting are also included in his favorite forms of relaxation.

Will Induct Two

Two persons were called for induction into the armed forces on Wednesday, November 4.

They are Frederick A. Glaze, Oakland; and Richard M. Holland, Mt. Lake Park.

At the same time thirty-eight persons were called up for their armed forces physical examination. They will go to the Fairmont induction station in Fairmont, W. Va., on that date, according to Mrs. Helen Bittinger, Selective Service clerk.

Garrett Gets 5,000 Antlerless Deer Hunting Permits

Some 29,100 permits to kill antlerless deer are being made available to the Department of Game and Inland Fish December 12 and 13. The two day season will be December 18 and 19.

George B. Shields, assistant director of the department, said the permits will be issued between 10 a. m. and 9 p. m., and that 5,000 permits would be available at the National Guard armory in Oakland.

Few Changes Noted In Train Schedule

The fall and winter schedule of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad shows little change from the summer schedule, it was announced last week-end.

Train No. 11, which ran under daylight saving time at 12:42, is still due at 12:42, standard time, so there will be no change in that hour. Train No. 1 will run at 11:07 p. m., during the winter months.

Eastbound, train 2 will run at 2:42 a. m., and train No. 12 will run at 5:34 p. m.

The changes were received too late to be included in last week's story on the time change.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad announced Sunday it had made effective a 31 percent reduction in passenger coach fares which are to apply on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

It was announced it would begin showing current-release Hollywood movies for entertainment of passengers in mid-November. They will be offered without charge on the Capitol and National limiteds.

Aiken President Of Farm Bureau

Members Approve Six Of Seven Resolutions Offered

Some three hundred dinners were served to persons attending the twenty-seventh annual banquet of the Garrett County Farm bureau, held in three churches in Grantsville last Thursday evening.

A business meeting followed in the Grantsville school gymnasium with James McHenry, county agent, serving as master of ceremonies.

B. O. Aiken, Accident, was elected president, to succeed Robert O. Glotfelty. Robert Buckel was named vice-president. Directors elected included Robert L. Glotfelty, Glenn D. Frazee, George Shawley, L. W. Brenneman, Wilbur Myers and Ross Crowe.

Convention delegates were listed as Robert L. Glotfelty, Wayne B. Hamilton, Harry Hummel, I. William Umbel and Foster Yost, with Leslie Guard and John Beachy as first and second alternates.

For the Associated Women Mrs. Aiken was elected president, succeeding Mrs. Ross Crowe. Mrs. Webster Brenneman was reelected as vice-president. Directors are Mrs. Walter Harmon, Mrs. Merrill Wilburn, Mrs. Kenneth Buckel, Mrs. Leslie Guard, Mrs. Ross Crowe and Mrs. John Beachy.

Mrs. William Beachy was named as convention delegate with Mrs. Carl Miller as alternate.

Brief remarks were made by the retiring presidents, Robert Glotfelty and Mrs. Crowe. The farm queen, Linda Fike, was introduced and Rankin Lusby, editor of the Farm Bureau's state magazine, spoke briefly. Main speaker was John Datt, whose remarks are contained in a separate story in this issue. Invocation was by Oren Bender and group singing was led by Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty.

Six of seven proposed resolutions were approved by the farm bureau members while in business session. The members did not approve of a special doe season set up by the Game commission.

The following proposals were approved:

1. Recommend that farmers be more careful in operating farm equipment especially on public highways, feeling carelessness on the part of farmers would lead to more drastic laws, curbing the operation of farm machinery on the highways.

2. Recommend strong opposition be taken against the legislative reapportionment of the state senate.

3. Recommend that the Farm Bureau support the redistricting plan as proposed by the Legislative Council which they plan to submit to the General Assembly in January.

4. We realize rural electrification was the turning point in rural living. However, while we are greatly appreciative of the services rendered in the past we believe it would be good for farmers to work for privately owned utilities instead of expansion of R. E. A.

5. Recommend that a portion of the Assessor's salary continue to be paid by the county commissioners thereby retaining some voice in local assessing.

6. Recommend that a uniform time be observed for the entire state.

Friendsville Man Overcome By Smoke

Ervin Savage, who occupied the home received a quantity of smoke when he attempted to enter the house after firemen began battling the blaze.

The man was given oxygen and artificial respiration three times during a half-hour period, in order to restore his consciousness, and he was then brought to the Oakland hospital where it was reported he had a satisfactory night.

Friendsville firemen said the blaze was caused by defective wiring. James Lininger, fireman, said the two-story frame building was owned by John Grove, who resides in Ohio. Grove had just arrived in Friendsville to make some repairs to the building when the smoke was discovered. Ervin Savage, occupant, was not at home at the time but arrived shortly afterward. Firemen said damage to the building and the furnishings amounted to around $1,000.

The firemen were called about 5 o'clock last evening.

Fauber Is Recipient Silver Beaver Award

Ralph Fauber, scoutmaster of Oakland boy scout troop 31, was one of four persons honored at the Potomac Council Appreciation dinner held Tuesday night in Cumberland. Some twenty scouters attended from the Deep Creek district.

Mr. Fauber was one of those to be awarded the Silver Beaver award, highest in scouting for adult workers. His activities were listed as follows in the printed program:

"Machinist for Craig Motor, Oakland, for 23 years. Active member of St. Paul's Methodist church, Oakland. Served as teacher in youth department for years and is now secretary-treasurer. Also a member of the church official board.

"Has served as scoutmaster of troop 31, sponsored by Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club, since 1950, except for one year when he served as district Commissioner. He preferred his work with the troop so returned as scoutmaster and continues in that capacity. He also served as assistant scoutmaster for four years prior to becoming scoutmaster.

"Under his leadership Troop 31 has made the scouting program available to a large number of boys. He regularly uses part of his vacation to serve as leader of his troop's summer camp experience. They participate in all district and council activities. Mr. Fauber also lends his experience and leadership to helping other units as well as assisting with training courses, roundtables, etc. In addition he has given leadership to other community youth programs, particularly in his church and the athletic programs of his community.

The three others to receive the award were William P. Durland, Celanese corporation superintendent, Cumberland; Roy Eves, railroad superintendent, Cumberland, and Okey Michael, store operator in Westernport. Previous award winners include George F. Stuck, in 1961, Ross O. Decker and the late Jack Towler, in 1958. Both Decker and Towler were former Oakland residents.

Another Unique Award

Wood badge training awards also were made to Melvin Sisler, scoutmaster of troop 95, Loch Lynn and Robert Moreland, of LaVale. Sisler's award provided a unique situation in that his wife and two sons also are recipients of scouting awards. The Wood badge which he earned was only the sixth ever given in the Potomoc council. His wife received a Den Mather's training award last May. Their son, David, 17, won his Eagle badge in May, and another son, Kyle, 13, a star scout won his God and Country award during scout week in February. This makes a complete scout-award winning family.

Voters will trek to the polls next Tuesday, November 3, to select a president, vice-president, U. S. Senator, a congressman at large and a congressman from the sixth district. They also will vote for or against five proposed constitutional amendments.

Polls will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until seven o'clock p. m., in the twenty polling places throughout the county.

For the first time in a number of years there are no candidates for the communist, socialist or labor party, only candidates for Republicans and Democrats.

Republican candidates are Senator Barry Goldwater, for president; Congressman William Miller, for vice-president; J. Glenn Beall, for U. S. Senator; David Scull, for Congressman at large in the 89th Congress; and Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., for Congressman from the sixth district, to serve in the 89th Congress.

Democratic candidates are Lyndon B. Johnson, for president; Hubert H. Humphrey, vice-president; Joseph D. Tydings, for U. S. Senator; Carlton L. Sickles, for congressman at large; and Royce Hanson, for Congress from the sixth district.

Voters also will cast their decisions on five proposed constitutional amendments. Amendment 1 concerns the creation of a charter board, giving the board more time in which to prepare a charter for a county going through this procedure. Question 2 concerns abolishing the Orphans court in Montgomery county.

Question 3 would make it permissible for a person who is designated as a notary public to also hold a public office, which at present is prohibited. Question 4 proposes to revise present sessions of the general assembly from 90 and 30-day sessions to 70-day sessions annually, and certain other changes. Question 5 is a state-wide referendum concerning adding a new section to the state code and repealing a section. The law made it unlawful because of race, creed, color or national origin of any person to refuse or deny any such person any of the facilities or privileges of a place of public accommodation.

The official registration as of September 22, showed 9,816 persons eligible to vote. This included 3,900 Democrats and 5,871 Republicans. Of this number there were 2,111 Democratic males and 1,789 Democratic females; 3,011 Republican males and 2,860 Republican females. There were 17 Independents, 27 undesignated and one socialist male. It was anticipated there probably would be some 6,800 ballots cast or about 70 percent.

Fifteen Are Killed On State Highways

Fifteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.

Seven of those killed were drivers; three were passengers; and five were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in three of the deaths; speed in nine; and "driver error" was present in twelve of the fatalities.

"Last week nine persons lost their lives because of speed" commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police. "This is tragic evidence of the difficulty of controlling a motor vehicle which is being operated at a rate of speed too great for existing conditions.

"Very few operators have either the training or the skill to drive at extremely high rates of speed, even under the most favorable conditions. Chances for survival are reduced considerably by the driver's need to cope with the unexpected—a problem which faces every driver every minute he is on the highway.

Complete Testimony

Testimony was completed yesterday in a case charging unfair labor practices, filed by local 886, Retail Clerk's union, against Browning Foodland. The case was heard by National Labor Relations trial examiner, Saunders.

The local food market officials denied the charges. The union was endeavoring to set aside an election which was held several months ago at the store. The Foodland was represented by Gunter and Geppert, Cumberland, assisted by Fred A. Thayer, local attorney.

No decision was handed down.

QUESTION:

We got into an argument here at the office, and I'm betting you carry more than 300 different drugs. Who's right?

ANSWER:

You win! And by a big margin because we stock nearly 3,000 different drugs. There are between 800 to 1,000 frequently-used prescription drugs. Every year we stock at least 20 to 30 or more new drugs. There is a high rate of obsolescence in the drug business because the powerful, new "wonder drugs" are replacing the old standbys of the past.

They Should Win

A letter to the editor of a Greensboro, N. C., newspaper put it plainly enough in the following comment:

"If the Republicans can't win in November, then they'll never win.

—On the day the Kennedy-Johnson administration took over, the dishonorable Bay of Pigs betrayal had not occurred.

—The Berlin Wall had not been built. Then, when Khrushchev built the wall, scorning our warnings, we did not knock it down.

—The giveaway of Laos had not occurred, giving the Reds their sanctuary on the flank of South Viet Nam.

—There were no Soviet missiles in Cuba. The Kremlin did what the present administration claimed they would not do. Then "on-site" inspection demanded in the "confrontation" was abandoned.

—Racial tensions and public disorder have never been so widespread, tragic and severe since the Civil War.

—Little PT boats felt free to attack an American warship on the high seas.

—Respect of the United States is virtually gone. Zanzibar assassin, Abdulla Kassim Hanga, fresh from Moscow's Patrice Lumumba University can march the U. S. consul to the dock with a gun at his head. Castro-trained thugs attack U. S. soldiers in the Canal Zone. Our dead are quietly returned to America. Nkrumah insults and expels our helpless teachers. Americans flee Cyprus, for our embassy is bombed while the Sixth Fleet stands by unaiding: Americans flee Haiti, Honduras, Cambodia, East Africa, West Africa, and heaven knows where, while at the rate of one a month American embassies, consulates and agencies are attacked, burned or looted by petty tyrants whenever they please.

If this administration can still rule after a record like that, and after fifty years of free compulsory education we are now ready to accept the above President Johnson's admonition, "Let Us Continue" then we say, education is in vain and our days of freedom are numbered.

Listen, Americans!

Searcy, Arkansas

It is no secret that U. S. Communists and their fronts are working feverishly to sabotage Candidate Goldwater. They wouldn't dare come out in public and pick their candidate, but their leader Gus Hall, in an election year pamphlet, advises the comrades "to work with all the forces who make up the legions of the broad people's democratic movement against the ultra-Right fascist conspiracy."

Comrade Hall did not have to travel to Moscow to find out that the Soviets are opposed to Goldwater. The Russian leaders, like most Democrats and some Republicans, very early called for the defeat of that "wild man," whose warmongering finger on the nuclear trigger could never be tolerated. Just why it is that Russia feels compelled to participate in American politics is something that the Democrats might be called upon to explain. Perhaps President Johnson can ask the Soviets this if and when the proposed meeting materializes.

But the amount of help being extended to the Democratic ticket by the American radical left is a significant matter. It appears to be their great opportunity to make political hay, and as Comrade Hall has said, drive the ultra-Right (read anti-Communists) "into generations of paralysis." So, freed by the Supreme Court to scatter their propaganda and set up the "100,000 committees" that Hall called for, the U. S. Reds seem to be as busy in America as the Viet Cong is in South Vietnam.

They are encouraging, supporting and applauding activities such as Group Research, Inc., which the liberal New Republic recently hailed as "a valuable agency", that is keeping tab on whether any "extremist" organizations (read anti-Communist) are coming out for Goldwater, if you can imagine that. The liberal left is in the same frenzy, as far as we can see, with Mr. Hall. The late Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, who before her death in Moscow recently headed the U. S. Communist Party, left these instructions: "Our Party is mustering its forces and all people under its influence to defeat Goldwater."

The standing instructions of the Kremlin to the world Communist movement are to destroy the anti-Communist efforts. Unquestionably many Americans have carelessly drifted with the tide of things political and do not know about this. But any patriotic American who today has the temerity to go out and oppose Communism will very soon feel the wrath of Moscow, I can assure you from personal experience. Just how it is that the Red influence is making itself felt on mainstreet America is one of the hottest political stories of 1964.

There seems to be a feeling on the part of some in America that the leftwing in our politics is sacred, that it has even become the standard of acceptability, and that centralized power of the welfare state is here to stay. The "norms" become more socialistic with each passing election, producing a curious blindness in many well-meaning citizens. This may be the real reason why the Communist power of smear and attack can reach right down to your hometown and ban anti-Communist films and blacklist other patriotic efforts of conservative Americans.

Sen. Goldwater Supports Neighborhood Schools

In a major campaign speech in Chicago, Ill., Oct. 16, Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican Presidential candidate, outlined his position on civil rights.

In his speech, Goldwater said he opposed the busing of school children from schools near their homes to other schools for the purpose of achieving an artificial racial "balance."

This reaffirms his statement made earlier in a letter to Mrs. Rosemary Gunning, a leader of "Parents and Taxpayers," a group in New York City opposing compulsory busing of students to other schools. At that time, Sen. Goldwater said:

"I am firmly opposed to the transfer of children from their home neighborhoods to achieve racial balance without the consent of their parents. It is my sincere conviction that the fundamental right of parents to determine the proper education of their children must be preserved."

In his Chicago speech, Sen. Goldwater declared:

"It is wrong to compel children to attend schools restricted to members of their own race, however that may be defined. It is also wrong to forbid children to attend schools restricted to members of another race. I condemn that sort of segregation because it is compulsory.

"To me, it is wrong to take some children out of schools they would normally attend and bus them to others—just to get a mixture of ethnic and racial groups that somebody thinks is desirable. This forced integration is just as wrong as forced segregation.

You have 639 muscles in your body. You can exercise and develop them for life-long health and vitality.

But there's so little incentive to exercise now—what with push buttons and sedentary pastimes—that flabbiness begins in early childhood.

Yet, more than half of our children do not get at least 15 minutes of planned, vigorous, body-building activity during each school day!

What about the physical education program in your child's school? Is it planned mainly for students interested in varsity sports? Or is it geared to the development of average boys and girls—those most in need of physical conditioning?

The President's Council on Physical Fitness urges you to take as much interest in this phase of your child's development as you do in his academic development. Work with your school officials and community groups to establish a program that emphasizes vigorous activity daily. Bringing up youngsters with strong, agile bodies is essential to their future—and the future of our country.

To help you evaluate the program in your school, the President's Council on Physical Fitness will send you a free booklet. The address is Washington 25, D.C.

The American Way

VICTORY OVER COMMUNISM

By Harry Browne
Editor, Freedom Magazine

Cures for communism are a-dime-a-dozen. Everything is advocated from an invasion of Cuba to greater foreign aid to the Soviets. Meanwhile, American men are drafted to fight and die before the dreaded enemy in Vietnam.

What is communism? In effect, it is the theory that man exists solely for the benefit of the state. Its high-sounding phrases about "victory of the proletariat" and "collective strength" soon degenerate into simple slavery; man exists for the benefit of the state.

Such a concept is not new. It has existed since the beginning of time. And all historical evidence points to the fact that men do not create and produce abundance in such a stifling atmosphere. Soviet Russia can be no exception.

And yet, here we find ourselves today in a position where our own government takes $50 billion out of the economy every year for the purpose of defending ourselves against the "threat of communism." And pundits and thinkers around the world treat the U. S. and USSR as productive equals.

How?

How could this be? What threat could come from a weak economic system like communism? All else equal, the "free enterprise" U.S.A. must be a hundred times stronger than the weak Soviet Union.

But, unfortunately, all else isn't equal. There's a distortion imposed upon this simple equation. It seems that the 100-1 ratio has been seriously diluted.

The distortion comes from the fact that the American taxpayer has been assessed by his own government to help prop up the Soviet economy. For a few examples: the recent wheat sale in which the Soviet's credit was guaranteed by our government's Export-Import Bank; similar sales of critically-needed machine tools where our government has guaranteed the credit; arming the Yugoslavian Army and Air Force.

Perhaps worst of all is the direct foreign aid sent to Communist Poland. For Poland has its own foreign aid program, and one recipient is North Vietnam. Recognize the name? That's the Communist country that's waging war against South Vietnam — where American soldiers are dying.

So our own money is being used to finance the deaths of our own citizens. And it becomes rapidly apparent just why communism has become such a formidable threat.

What To Do

We can now see a much more lasting cure for communism. The answer isn't to invade Cuba, nor to fight to the death in Vietnam, nor to send more foreign aid to Brazil, nor to improve the quality of our diplomats.

The total answer to the Communist threat is to simply stop helping them!

Without our help the Communists couldn't keep their inept system going one year. Without our nuclear secrets, our agriculture knowhow our scientific knowledge, and our money — the Communists would be forced to either change their system or suffer inevitable collapse.

If victory over communism is the goal, it's true that there's a simple solution: stop helping them.

The Unorthodox Politician

"Barry Goldwater is a phenomenon. Before California's grand finale presidential primary, he was counted out. But he won. . . .

"Now, Goldwater is being counted out once more. But he goes on doggedly—even cheerfully—leaving President Johnson to fret because things look too good to be true.

"What makes Goldwater phenomenal, that is to say, a unique politician? Basically, it is because he is unorthodox. He breaks the rules by daring to shake the political icons—criticizing the sacred cow of social security, talking about the unmentionable subject of nuclear strategy, questioning the economic holiness of the TVA, declining to join the chorus that says equality can be legislated, refusing to accept the proposition that the supreme court, and not the people, is the last word on what is constitutional. . . .

"That Goldwater has the courage and integrity to defy the rules of political expediency has, at one and the same time, bewildered and delighted his enemies. . . .

"The efficiency with which the Goldwater-Miller campaign has been organized and is being run bespeaks well of the way a Goldwater administration would organize and operate the federal government. Infinitely more than the Republican Party, our federal government is in need of the revitalization and reorganization that a Goldwater administration would bring. . . .

". . . We look forward to Goldwater's victory in the belief that it will breathe new life into the spirit of America and restore the vitality that once characterized the nation but which we seem to have fumbled and fiddled away."

WELFARE, FREEDOM AND INFLATION

The phenomenal recovery made by the West German economy after World War II has been the subject of much discussion. The German prosperity has been attributed to both free enterprise and foreign aid — obviously two different things.

Americans now have an opportunity to get a firsthand look at the philosophy that built postwar German prosperity. For one of the chief architects of that prosperity, Wilhelm Ropke, has written a book outlining his views on economic development. Entitled "Welfare, Freedom and Inflation", it is a well-written case for the enterprise in opposition to big government (published by Univ. of Alabama Press, Drawer 2877, University, Ala.; $2.95).

While the author seems reluctant to eliminate all governmental intervention from the economy, he does prove his simple equation that free men are much more capable of running their own lives than any bureaucrat can ever be.

American Application

Ropke's book was originally written in German for European consumption, but it hits home in America. Its effect upon our own affairs is brought out clearly in a foreword written for American readers by Roger A. Freeman. He points out that the principles involved are the same everywhere. He defines the issue as that between two ideologies: "those who feel that government in this day and age ought to do far more than it is now doing, and those who believe that government has already gone too far in assuming responsibility for — and authority over — the individual and should retrench or at least henceforth use greater restraint in extending its reach."

Ropke's ability to explain the complicated makes his short (70-page) book very stimulating reading. Although his concern seems to be primarily with preventing things from getting worse, his ideas have within them the seeds of making things better. For the principles he cites cast as much criticism on our present welfare-state policies as on those proposed for the future — with which he appears to be more preoccupied.

Property Issue

He closes his book with an excellent thought that reduces the issue of freedom to one of property. He points out throughout the book that the taking of property from individuals by the state merely diminishes the incentive to produce new property and increase our wealth.

And he concludes his treatise by tying the inflation problem to property: "It requires no special astuteness to realize that the vanishing respect for property is very intimately related to the numbing of respect for the integrity of money and its value. In fact, laxity about property and laxity about money are very closely bound up together; in both cases what is firm, durable, earned, secured and designed for continuity gives place to what is fragile, fugitive, fleeting, unsure and ephemeral. And that is not the kind of foundation on which the free society can long remain standing."

Bruce High School's Bulldogs struck three times in the closing minutes of their homecoming game with Southern last Friday night at Westernport to win their third game of the season and third in the Potomac Valley conference 19 to 0.

Neither team could get going in the first three quarters, the deepest penetrations being Bruce to the Highlander 18 on a fumble recovery by Skull Edenger, and Southern to the Bulldog 21.

Midway in the fourth quarter however, Morris Pempepinto boomed a long punt to the Southern ten yard line. After losing nine yards on the first two plays the Highlanders quick-kicked with the ball coming to rest on the 28-yard line. Three plays later Prado broke the scoring ice on a 21-yard pass to Newcomb.

Newcomb added another touchdown on a 25-yard run after Shaw, a third-string fullback, had made one of his four interceptions at midfield. Southern then launched a drive of its own with the help of a penalty and a long pass play. The drive ended, however, when Shaw intercepted a flare pass at the 20 and returned it all the way for an 80-yard touchdown run.

Shaw, Moran, Safino and Clark starred on defense for Bruce. Richard Lemley, Bob Lohr, John Minnick, Jack Rowan and Ray Burton were standouts for Southern. The Highlanders will close their season at Petersburg on Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Honor Local Pastor On 83rd Birthday And Long Ministry

A special service was held Friday evening October 23rd. at the Deer Park Assembly of God Church, Deer Park for Rev. John Carroll Skipper who was 83 years old on October 20th. and had completed his ministry of 50 years.

On October 20, 1881 nine miles from Oakland near Swallow Falls John Carroll and Henry Murry, twin sons, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skipper. There were 9 boys and two girls in the Skipper family; the twins, John Carroll and Henry, along with Charles, age 89, all of Oakland, survive.

John Carroll's aunt, Mary Shaffer of Baltimore wanted John Carroll to enter the priesthood of the Catholic Church; however her offer to finance his education for the priesthood was passed-up.

At Sines, (now Deep Creek village) on January 14, 1912 John Carroll Skipper was married to Nora D. Friend.

From 1910 to 1918 Mr. Skipper taught school at Bray, Deep Creek, and Swallow Falls.

Rev. Skipper preached his first sermon in 1914. He was ordained an Assemblies of God minister in 1916 at Westernport, by Rev. A. B. Cox, Superintendent of the Potomac District Council of the Assemblies of God. His lifetime of ministry to the local mountain-top area has included pastorates at Rockydream, (where he now preaches) Glendale, Davis, W. Va., Breedlove, W. Va. (Now the Horseshoe Run Assembly) and Crellin where he pastored thirty-four years. Rev. Skipper was the founder and first pastor of the Sandflat Assembly. He started a church at Painter which later moved to Deer Park to become the Assembly there.

For ten years Rev. Skipper "walked" his circuit. On many winter days when he started for church service in the snow and cold friends would advise that he stay home but his reply was, "The Lord has given me a message for this service and people will be at church to hear it; I must go." Rev. Gail Hixon, pastor of the Deer Park church, had this to say about him: "To know Rev. J. C. Skipper is to realize that his intimate relationship with the Lord has kindled a flame of devotion, love, and compassion that shall never go out."

Among the overflow crowd attending the October 23rd. meeting were many relatives of three generations including two brothers, Henry and Charles.

The 21 ministers present included Rev. R. A. McCauley of Martinsburg, W. Va., under whose ministry Rev. Skipper was converted; Rev. Frank Fratto, sectional presbyter, and Rev. Kelley Wigfield, district superintendent, from Springfield, Va. who was the main speaker. Rev. Gail Hixon is the pastor of the host church in Deer Park.

Payton Is Recalled As A Tourist Guide

St. John's College, Annapolis, has recalled Boyd Payton, a former president of Local 1874, Textile Workers union, of Cumberland, from his temporary job as tourist guide for Japanese labor leaders in this country.

The U. S. Labor Department recommended the recall. Mr. Payton is employed by the college to conduct tours for labor leaders. John W. Leslie, Labor Department's director of information, said the recall was requested because Mr. Payton was on parole from a prison sentence.

A graduate of Oakland High school and a former resident of Mt. Lake Park, Payton had pleaded innocent to a charge of conspiracy to dynamite the Harret-Henderson Cotton Mills, Henderson, N. C., about two years ago. But a jury there found him guilty and he was given a prison term. After serving only a fraction of the term he was released and placed on parole.

Mr. Payton had been serving as director of Upper South operations for the Textile Workers Union during the time of organization efforts at the Henderson mills.

After leaving Local 1874 Mr. Payton served as an organizer before being made Upper South director. Mr. Leslie, the Labor Department's director of information, said Mr. Payton's parole status was brought to the department's attention after the former local man had been acting as a tourist guide for about one month. The department said St. John's college is coordinating the Japanese exchange tour.

Cumberland TWUA sources pointed out that after Mr. Payton was released from prison he was transferred to the Washington office of the TWUA with the status of international representative. He resigned as a staff member on September 19, apparently to take the guide position.

Northern High School's undefeated Huskies used an 80-yard return of a pass interception and an intentional safety to win their seventh football game of the season without a loss last Friday night at Oakland over University High school of Morgantown, W. Va. The final score was 20 to 15.

George Edwards picked off a pass in the first quarter and ran it back for the long touchdown score. Edwards also ran one yard for his second tally and pitched to Owen Umbel for the third six-pointer on a 40-yard play. University high scored in the first few minutes of the game.

Northern's lead was threatened in the late moments of the highly defensive second half but the Huskies pulled out of trouble deep in their own territory when Edwards alertly took an intentional safety to give University High two meaningless points and set up a free kick.

Northern held inside the 20 yard line three times, stopping U. High drives on the three six and eleven yard lines. Key men in the defensive pack were Craig Rush, Jerry Fike and Ron Durst. Durst, a 150-pound tackle, played the entire game across from a 238-pounder, but managed to hold him at bay.

University High made its second touchdown in the second quarter and gained the extra point on a run.

The Huskies have two more games. The one Friday, October 30, will be played at Berlin, Pa., while the final game will be another night game at Oakland against St. Francis High of Morgantown.

EXERCISE TO HELP YOUR HEART

When you do no exercise, a portion of your blood tends to accumulate in the veins of your legs. Eventually, this accumulation causes aches, pains, swelling and, in severe cases, leads to varicose veins.

You don't have to be an athlete to improve your circulatory system. Moderate daily exercise each day helps take a load off your heart. Your physician will advise how much you need.

HOW DOES LIFE GET SO TANGLED?

Interesting thing about a rope—it rarely becomes tangled when it's serving some useful purpose. It stretches firm and taut . . . reaching . . . holding.

But lay the rope aside . . . waiting without a purpose . . . and it becomes so tangled you can't even find the ends.

Life is like that! For some folks it seems an impossible tangle of conflicts, worries and disappointments. They haven't discovered how to devote their strand of years to a vital, constant purpose.

But for others life stretches firm and taut from birth to Eternity. The tangles disappear as men reach across time to hold certain the truths by which God would have us live.

Life without tangles . . . life with purpose . . . discover it in Church next Sunday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

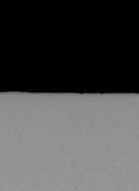
Truth About Money

Lesson for November 1, 1964

Background Scripture: I Timothy 6.
Devotional Reading: Proverbs 3:10-21.

IF YOU add up the people in the world who are rich and the people who want to be rich, you will just about have the sum total of the people in this world. Even those who want to be rich don't always hope to be rich, but that is another story. Now the Bible's attitude to money—meaning God's attitude to it—is surprising to the average American. Because the average American will say Yes with enthusiasm to three ordinary questions about money. Is money a good thing? Is it all right to want all the money I can get? If I get rich will I be happy?



Dr. Foreman

Those who want to be rich

Suppose some one tells you he has an ambition to make big money. You would be likely to say, "Fine, I hope you make it. More power to you!" But in the Letter to Timothy we read what Saint Paul has to say to his young preacher-friend about what to say and preach to people about money. Paul has no illusions about wealth. He had seen wealthy men and was not impressed. He has some pretty hard things to say about wealth. Perhaps he knew that Jesus had said, "You cannot serve God and Mammon" (meaning wealth) Paul says money is a temptation and a trap. He even says that money, or rather the love of it, is the "root of all evils." He doesn't mean that every wrong act and sin is done for the sake of money. Anybody knows that would be an exaggeration. But if you want to see how right Paul was, just look over a newspaper and see if money doesn't figure in a majority of the crime stories.

Those who are rich

You can hear members of Timothy's congregation the first Sunday after he got his letter from Paul. Maybe the first Sunday, surely some time Timothy would talk along lines that Paul's correspondence had suggested. He would be preaching away about the dangers of wealth, how we can bring nothing into the world and take nothing out,—saying that the love of money is a soul-destroying thing, and so on. You could almost hear some man thinking: "What's this got to do with me? I made my pile before these missionaries converted me. I can't see that wanting money or having it ever hurt me. Am I a sinner just because I'm rich?" Timothy's answer to that question (if it was ever put to him in so many words) might have been to point out what Paul said about contentment, for one thing. The happiest people you know are not often the richest people you know. This doesn't mean that poverty is the best state for everybody. It does mean that if we look to our bank accounts for happiness, that is not the right place to look.

The conversion of money

Is a man ever converted until his money is converted? That is something that can be debated. But how do we convert money? Money is just a thing, and things can't have faith, hope or love. True; but in the strict meaning of the word "convert," meaning to change, money can be turned into something else. Money can be and is a tool, an instrument. It can be used to crush other men, it can be used to build up pride and selfishness; it can be a dagger to stab the soul to death. On the other hand, money used as a gift from God, carefully used in stewardship, not as if we owned it apart from God, such money (or possessions of any sort, for that matter) can be converted into good deeds. The question for Christians to ask is not, What would I do with a million dollars? The question is, What do I do with the money I have? It is just as easy to be selfish with a dollar as with a million dollars. And it is just as possible to be generous with your few possessions as it would if you were a millionaire.

A Test On How To Vote Nov. 3

If you believe in constitutional government; if you believe in having the Federal Government live within its income; if you are looking for a man dedicated to peace — peace through strength; if you are seeking a true conservative who is really more forward-looking than those who try to claim he is "trigger happy" and "irresponsible," then you will vote for Senator Barry Goldwater for President of the United States.

	Goldwater Miller	LBJ Humphrey
Do you believe we should stop giving billions in foreign aid to the Communist nations and their sympathizers? If you do, you are a Goldwater man...	☐ Yes	☐ No
Do you believe a candidate should "cover up" or "whitewash" Bobby Baker, Billie Sol Estes, Matt McCloskey or any one who betrays the public trust? If you don't, you are a Goldwater man....	☐ No	☐ Yes
Do you approve of "smear" campaigns to terrify mothers and children by TV scenes of nuclear explosions? If you don't, you are a Goldwater man. Since LBJ refused to protect Negroes against lynching and was called a "racist" in 1963, is his 1964 Civil Rights stand a "Johnny-come-lately" stunt to gain votes Nov. 3? If you answer yes to this you are a Goldwater man.	☐ Yes	☐ No

Socialism wants to destroy our "Free enterprise" system so should the "darling" of the Socialist-tinged A.D.A. be elected vice-president (one heart beat removed!)? He will be if you vote for President Johnson.	☐ No	☐ Yes
Should Walter Reuther, who set up a Socialist cell in a Michigan university, be allowed to force all his union members to contribute to his "captive" democratic party? If you do not favor this you are a Goldwater man.	☐ No	☐ Yes

Was it statesmanlike for LBJ to urge that race riots and strikes be stopped just "till after the November 3rd election"? If you say no, you're a Goldwater man.	☐ No	☐ Yes

Senator Goldwater's Stand On Social Security

I favor a sound Social Security System and I want to see it strengthened. I want to see every participant receive all the benefits this system provides, and I want to see these benefits paid in dollars with REAL purchasing power.

Social Security is a system of basic protection for the aged. In addition, most Americans now participate in private pension plans while many have their own savings and investments. Social Security was never intended to replace voluntary programs. Its prime purpose was and is to supplement them, to provide a basic floor. I am convinced it can do this job, the job for which it was created.

We will not preserve the Social Security system if we saddle it with unnecessary burdens, such as medicare. We penalize every aged citizen if we thus bankrupt the system which protects them.

Proudfoot's OAKLAND PHARMACY, INC.

1870 - 1951

The Oakland Pharmacy was established in 1893 by a man of medicine—and although many things have changed since then, the primary purpose has remained the same—"Serving doctor and patient."

Originally, the business was located on Railroad Street, and was founded by Dr. J. Lee McComas. His manager and pharmacist at that time was Joseph E. Harned, who was to assume proprietorship the following year, and who continued to operate the pharmacy until his death in 1951.

In 1894, following a fire which destroyed most of the business buildings on the west side of Second St., the pharmacy was relocated in the McComas Building, where it remains today in greatly enlarged form. Here Mr. Harned, together with his son, Harold, continued the professional tradition. In 1953, shortly after the death of the senior Mr. Harned, the business became a partnership, with Robert E. Proudfoot joining the firm. Soon after this, a modernization and expansion program was inaugurated, which resulted in the present establishment, tripling the floor space of the original store to provide all of the services expected of a modern pharmacy.

Now, as of October 1 of this year, the business has become a corporation: Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy, Inc. Stockholders of the corporation are Robert E. Proudfoot, Harold H. Harned, Joe M. Carlson and James V. Ashby.

The Oakland Pharmacy is the oldest continuously operated retail drug store in Western Maryland. It is not only a place where folks come when they are ill, but a pleasant spot where folks can gather, where problems are aired and solved, where one can feel "at home away from home." Besides its primary purpose of providing accurate and reliable prescription service, the Oakland Pharmacy has such exclusive features as the drive-in window, pleasant air conditioning, and the famed Allegheny Room, providing a complete fountain and restaurant service.

The name Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy, Inc., , has real meaning—and it keeps abreast of its larger city neighbors because of its modern equipment and merchandising. Reliable drug service, coupled with friendly and personal attention, have contributed to the success of the business, and these qualities will continue to be of primary concern to all of us at Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy, Inc.

Virginia Newspaper For Sen. Goldwater

The Richmond, Va., News Leader, editorially on October 16, came out in favor of Barry Goldwater for president.

The newspaper declared: Goldwater believes devoutly in limited government, curbing growth of grants in aid, and declaring that massive federal authority constitutes a danger to character and liberty.

He believes in a strict construction of the Constitution, and because of this he voted against the Civil Rights act and here is his statement on this: "No member of Congress felt more strongly than I that the discrimination against which the bill was directed was wrong. But I did not feel that I had an unrestricted right to employ the Federal government to legislate my moral convictions.

Mr. Goldwater believes in freedom. He believes in free enterprise, a free market and calls for a return to greater personal responsibility as distinguished from continued dependence upon the state.

He sees the threat of communism with a clear eye. He believes what they say when they say they intend to dominate the world. He takes them at their word and feels the one best way to preserve a lasting peace is by constant preparation for war. He is a realist.

His belief in state's rights is a part of his belief in limited government. His criticisms of the Supreme court arise from his belief in the constitutional system of separation of powers.

"The choice November 3 is between two men, two tickets, two sets of attitudes, instincts, approaches to the problems of our time," says the Richmond newspaper.

PHYSICAL FITNESS DISCUSSED—Glamorous actress Abbe Lane, national Jaycee director Tom Turner (left) and John Schiminger, president of the Marvland Jaycees call on U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall (Md.) to discuss the Jaycee's Physical Fitness Leadership Awards program, conducted to recognize outstanding individual efforts in furthering fitness programs and to encourage greater citizen participation in fitness activities. The state program is cosponsored by the Bacharch Raisin company of Baltimore. Both Miss Lane, who is remarkably "physically fit," and Senator Beall are actively supporting the Jaycee effort to find Maryland's "Physical Fitness Leader of the Year."

Named Crew Leader, Agriculture Census

Mrs. Helen L. Hinebaugh, of Oakland, has been named a crew leader for the 1964 census of agriculture, it was announced by John C. Gibson, director, regional office, U. S. Bureau of Census, Philadelphia.

She will supervise a team of census enumerators who will visit farms in the county to collect official census questionnaires from farm operators. It will take place in November and early December.

Shortly after November 5 the Bureau of the Census will mail questionnaires to all rural boxholders. They should be filled out and held until the census enumerator arrives. The latter will assist in answering questions that prove troublesome.

The census of agriculture is taken every five years to gather information on the nation's agricultural resources and production, claimed to be vital in making decisions affecting segments of the U. S. economy. Data will include number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock inventories, information on farm equipment, improvements and income and production expenditures.

Democratic Rally Is Well Attended

Sickles was accompanied by a committee from both Allegany and Garrett counties, representing organized labor and other party workers. George Browning, chairman of the Democratic State Central committee, was master of ceremonies. The dinner was arranged by Mrs. Harry Seggie, Accident, and members of the Accident-Friendsville Democratic club along with groups from Oakland and other sections. Mrs. Robert Coffey and Mrs. James Nally were in charge of tickets; Miss Isabel Hamill and Mrs. Frances Matthews, decorations. Mrs. Beeson Snyder recited a poem "Congressman at Large for Maryland". All joined in singing "Johnson All The Way" to the tune of Maryland My Maryland", with words by Mrs. David Humberson.

Congressman Sickles cited several campaign issues and urged party leaders and workers to support the election of Johnson-Humphrey on the presidential ticket, Joseph Tydings for U. S. Senate, Royce Hanson for Congress and himself as congressman-at-large. He emphasized the importance of getting people to the polls.

6th District Puppies

Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) finds little time for relaxing with his two sons during this season of campaigning for re-election to a third term in the U. S. House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland. The camera caught him early one morning recently with Charlie (R) age 5, and Robbie, age 3, admiring their five new Chesapeake Bay Retriever puppies.

Mathias, a life-long resident of Frederick County and an avid student of Maryland history thinks the puppies are a good omen. The Chesapeake Bay Retriever was named the official State Dog of Maryland by the State Legislature last Spring. The puppies' parents are the Mathias' dogs, Cham and Imp of Bullskin. The puppies were born on September 12, Old Defender's Day—a legal holiday in Maryland in memory of the gallant defenders of the city of Baltimore in 1814. And there were just five puppies which Mac and the boys have named for the five counties in the Sixth District—Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, Montgomery and Washington.

Former Resident Speaker At Nazarene Revival

Revival Meetings at the Church of the Nazarene at 8th and Alder, began Tuesday evening and will continue until Sunday night.

Rev. Leroy Stewart from Cincinnati, Ohio, is the Evangelist. A native of the area, Rev. Stewart attended schools in Oakland, graduating in 1933. Also a graduate from God's Bible School in Ohio, he has pastored churches in Kingwood, Ky.; Greensville, Ohio; Port Clinton, Harrison, and Cincinnati, Ohio. He is presently pastoring in the latter city.

He is the son of Mrs. Sylvia Stewart, Reese St. Two brothers, George and Harrison Stewart reside in Oakland also.

Parole Officer Is Civic Club Speaker

Mr. James F. Lewis, Cumberland, Parole Officer with the Division of Parole and Probation of the State of Maryland, was guest speaker for the luncheon meeting of the Oakland Civic Club on Tuesday, October 27th, in the Hinebaugh Dining Room.

It is Mr. Lewis' belief that the Probation Officer should be allowed to have a workable plan with the parents, when juveniles are apprehended, and not the juvenile. This plan would take altered legislation. However, he said if the parents would show more love and affection, and channel the efforts of the boys and girls in the proper direction, we would have far less crime. "Our Institutions are crowded and lack funds, and it is the duty of parents and law abiding citizens to help direct juveniles toward a useful life, rather than one of idleness," he stated.

Mrs. Charles Briner, Public Affairs Chairman, introduced Mr. Lewis, who is Probation Officer for this District, which includes the southern sections of Garrett and Allegany Counties. He travels over 28,000 miles a year making suggestions, and giving aid when possible to offenders of the Law, and investigation for the Courts.

Mrs. Robert Wooters, President of the Club, introduced DeCorsey Bolden, who spoke of plans for a new Civic Center in this area.

Mr. Bolden said that an organization had been formed, and has adopted the name of Mt. Top Civic Center Corporation, although it is a county project. This organization has not begun a fund raising campaign as yet, since the land for the building has not been procured, and it is the desire of the organization to obtain at least ten acres of land for the building, parking facilities and playing fields.

Mrs. Meade Foster, Chairman of the Home Life Department, presented the National Organizations family bond campaign to the Club. The slogan is, "If one family buys a U. S. Savings bond between Labor Day and Thanksgiving, the family and the country will be stronger, the community more secure and the organization will be honored for patriotic achievement".

Mrs. Orville M. Marquis of Cumberland, was a guest, and new members of the organization include Mrs. Clint Englander, Mrs. Marvin Jones and Mrs. Guy William Hinebaugh.

Luncheon arrangements were made by Mrs. Hugh Echard, Mrs. Stuart Hamill, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Flaherty.

He is a son of Mrs. Richard Hertzog, the former Dolores Harvey. They were former residents. Paul attended Accident Elementary school.

Grantsville Man Offers Collection To Springs Museum

The Springs Historical Society decided at a meeting October 19 to establish a natural history museum in the near future.

The first division of this additional segment will be a rock and fossil collection which has won acclaim by a leading geologist of the east, Dr. Paul R. Stewart, chancellor of Waynesburg college, Waynesburg, Pa.

George Diefenbach, Grantsville, has collected local fossils and interesting rock formations for a number of years. Since the Historical society now has adequate space for additional collections, Mr. Diefenbach expressed interest in donating his collection to the Springs museum.

It was pointed out that the only hitch now was there were not enough cases to display the collection adequately. Dr. Alta Schrock, of Penn Alps, said four eight-foot glass cases were needed before the collection could be transported and she was hopeful some interested person might be able to furnish these items. They may contact Mrs. Lewis Oester, Springs, hostess, or Dr. Schrock, at Penn Alps.

Prior to the introduction of the 1965 Fords, the country's leading automotive writers drove the new models at Dearborn. Most of these experts remarked about the extraordinary quietness and smoothness of the Ford ride. An automotive writer, in Mechanix Illustrated, said ". . . if there is a quieter car made in this country—I haven't driven it."

Quiet Means Quality . . . Since quiet is a traditional measure of car quality, Ford engineers designed the '65 Ford for maximum quietness. To illustrate this quality achievement, Ford chose to make a documented test against the world's finest luxury car—Rolls-Royce.

Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc., world's leading acoustic consultants, conducted the tests under supervision of the authoritative United States Auto Club. All cars were tuned to factory specifications.

The Difference . . . The sound level difference, to be sure, is small—but it is there. At 60 miles an hour, Ford was actually 2.8 decibels quieter than Rolls-Royce. At 40, Ford was 5.5 decibels quieter. At 20, Ford was 4.9 decibels quieter. (Decibels are the universally recognized units for measuring volume of sound.) However small these advantages over Rolls-Royce may be, they are significant evidence of quality—important to anyone buying a car in Ford's class.

Take A Test Drive . . . A key—and a warm welcome—await you at your Ford Dealer's. The key, incidentally, fits in the lock no matter which side is up—symbolic of the hundreds of advances you'll find in any Ford you road-test. Come in and see for yourself. You'll be pleasantly surprised.

SOUND LEVEL (All readings in decibels)

MPH	FORD	ROLLS-ROYCE	FORD QUIETER BY
20 mph	67.4	72.3	4.9
40 mph	75.9	81.4	5.5
60 mph	82.6	85.4	2.8

CONDITIONS: Dry, level, moderately smooth concrete divided highway; light, quartering wind. All cars operated at steady 20, 40 and 60 mph with all windows and vents closed. EQUIPMENT: Bruel & Kjaer precision octave band analyzer, recording through direct observation and through Nagra precision tape recorder. Data expressed in Perceived Noise decibels. TEST CONDUCTED September 24, 1964, by Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc., of Cambridge, Mass. CARS TESTED: Two Rolls-Royce Silver Cloud III sedans, V-8 with automatic transmission, list price in New York $16,655 each. Three 1965 Fords, each with 289-cubic-inch V-8 engine and Cruise-O-Matic transmission: Galaxie 500 LTD, Galaxie 500/XL and Galaxie 500 4-Door Sedan.

Certified by UNITED STATES AUTO CLUB

The Result . . . The Fords proved to be slightly quieter at all moving speeds.

The official test report reads, in part: "At all moving speeds, on both courses, the Fords were quieter than the Rolls-Royces."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Charles A. Barkman, who passed away one year ago, October 28, 1963.
Sad and sudden was the call,
Of one so dearly loved by all.
A bitter grief and shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you,
And speak of how you died.
But God saw the way was getting rough,
And the hills were hard to climb.
How long each day can really seem
To the ones who loved him so dear.
When the evening shades are falling, dear,
And I am sad and all alone for you, my darling.
In my heart there comes a longing for you, and wish you could come home to us.
To think you could not say goodbye to us
And your smiling face is gone forever.
For us you did your very best.
O God grant you eternal rest.
Your loving wife and daughter,
Betty and Carol Ann.

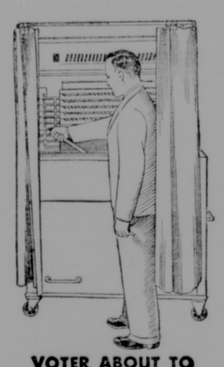
FACSIMILE OF OFFICIAL BALLOT

General Election, November 3, 1964



VOTER ABOUT TO CLOSE CURTAIN

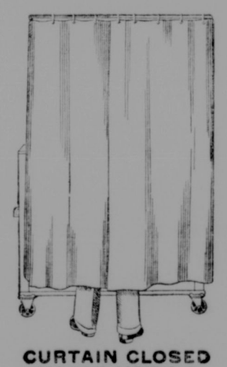
Each candidate's voting pointer is located just above his name; a voting pointer must be turned down over the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote, and left down.

The machine is so arranged that you cannot turn down more than the proper number of voting pointers for each office. You cannot spoil your ballot by voting for too many candidates.

In an office to which more than one candidate is to be voted for, you can turn down the proper number of voting pointers, but no more, even if one is directly under the other.

No votes are registered until the Red operating lever is moved to open the curtain. You can make as many changes as you desire while the operating lever is at the right side.

No one will know how you have voted, because the movement of the Red operating lever returns the voted voting pointers to their unvoted position before the curtain begins to open.



CURTAIN CLOSED VOTER VOTING

DIRECTIONS FOR VOTING

1. Move the Red Operating Lever to the right (till bell rings)
2. Turn down a Voting Pointer over the CANDIDATE name of each candidate you wish to vote for.

LEAVE THE POINTERS DOWN.

3. Move the Red Operating Lever to the Left.

Letters to the Editor

October 20, 1964

Editor
The Republican,
Oakland, Md.
Dear Sir:

The Constitution of the State of Maryland in Article III, Section 1, says: The legislature shall consist of two distinct branches; a Senate and a House of Delegates, and shall be styled the General Assembly of Maryland.

In Section II it states in part: Each County in the State shall be entitled to one Senator, who shall be elected by the qualified voters of the legislative districts of Baltimore City and of the Counties of the State, respectively.

There is one significant word in the first section of Article III. That word is "distinct", meaning "not the same". At the present time, the two bodies of the Legislature are not the same. Senators are elected from a political and geographical subdivision, and members of the house are elected on a population basis. I believe that is in keeping with the intent of the writers of our Maryland Constitution.

A recent Supreme Court ruling has said that both Houses in State Legislatures must be re-apportioned according to population. Rural Counties would be the biggest losers if this decision is upheld. Members of both parties from rural counties are opposing it, and believe it should not be allowed to stand

When you go to the polls to vote on November 3rd, bear these facts in mind. Royce Hanson, Candidate for Congress from the Sixth District has been one of the champions of this reapportioning idea for both houses. I have been told would-be Senator Tydings is also in agreement with it. What would it do to Garrett County? With our small population, we would probably be lumped with Allegany for a Senator. How often do you think we could elect one from this County if that happens? We would lose our Senator's voice, and with it not only prestige, but also would weaken our county in every way. Look back and think of the many arrogant decisions that have already been made over our protests, both on a State and County level. It would get even worse, without a Senator to speak for our interests. I shall support legislation to give a minimum of three seats to each rural county, when we proceed with plans to re-apportion the House of Delegates on a population basis. We are agreed that this body should have some readjusiment.

City newspapers have said at times that rural people dominate State Legislatures. Let's look at the facts in our State. Baltimore City has six Legislative districts, and elect from those districts 39 members. The entire House has 142 members. To be on a voting par with just Baltimore City alone, we would need all of the following rural counties, Garrett, Howard, Kent, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico, Worchester, Charles, Cecil, Caroline, Calvert, Dorchester and Harford. Do these figures sound to you like the Maryland Legislature could possibly be dominated by delegates from rural areas?

Once again let me remind you that a vote for Mr. Hanson, especially is a vote against the best interest of your own county. If you are a Republican, and think you will not bother to vote, take another thought. You, too will be, by abstaining helping to weaken your own county and its future interests.

The State of Maryland needs a vigorous two party system to promote and maintain good government. It helps to make appointive jobs based on merit, helps to curb a tendency to hand out special favors because you happen to be a Democrat. Most of the evils we see in government stem from the very fact that a vigorous two party system does not exist.

Vote Republican and help to keep Garrett County in control of its own affairs.

Sincerely,
Martha Glotfelty
Member-Md. House of Delegates

Dear Sir:

I have been reading about "Extremism" and "Trigger Happy" in our present campaign. The only extremes I see are in our present administration namely, High Taxes, Bankruptcy, Poverty, Low Farm Income, High Cost of Living, Deficit Spending. Trigger Happy? We had three wars under Democrats, no war under Republicans. Give the Government back to the people to whom it belongs. I consider myself a loyal American concerned with the welfare of my country. That is why I am for Senator Goldwater one hundred percent.

Charles E. Bowser,
Accident, Md.

To The Editor

I proudly belong to that distinguished group of Senior Citizens, who have been blessed with many years of experience, and study of our national problems and dangers.

Recently we lost one of our most beloved Senior Citizens, and outstanding Statesmen, The Honorable Herbert Hoover. Just before his departure, Mr. Hoover listed our greatest national dangers as follows: the communist world, inflation, overspending by the Government, unbalanced national budget, and the growth of crime.

As Mr. Hoover saw it, the dangers of the Kennedy-Johnson administrations are, and have been, OVERSPENDING BY THE GOVERNMENT and THE UNBALANCED NATIONAL BUDGET.

I started this Election year in the Johnson Camp, thinking that Mr. Johnson would make the best President, for the next four years. But when I began to investigate the records of the past four years, I was surprised to learn that the National Debt had been HIKED SIX TIMES, from $290 Billion to $325 Billions in a time of peace and prosperity.

I found the Budget for this year, is set for around $100 billions, the highest budget we have ever had, higher than any Wartime budget. I could not help asking the questions WHY? WHY?

I was shocked to learn that the INTEREST on our National Debt, is now costing TAXPAYERS, OVER $11 Billions each year, and that Mr. Johnson says 'In the light of our National prosperity, the National Debt could safely go higher.' To me, that is dangerous thinking.

I was forced to the conclusion, that if the Democrats are sent back to Washington, for four years more, we can expect the National Debt to be hiked still higher, and still more of our TAX DOLLARS wasted for INTEREST on Borrowed Money.

Then I took a look at the other side and I was surprised to learn that Senator Barry Goldwater, instead of being an "irresponsible" "Trigger happy man" wanting war, is very definitely a man of peace; peace based on Strength, National Strength.

I found that Goldwater is a Major General in the Airforce Reserve, and that he still flies jet planes, that he is a top notch Author, and that his last two books were immediately "Best Sellers"; and that Senator Goldwater is more in demand as a public speaker than any other man in America, today.

I find that Goldwater believes in running the Government in the same way any good businessman would run his own business.

I was delighted to find, that Goldwater is OPPOSED to over spending by the Government; That he wants the budget balanced each year; and believes that federal spending, should be limited by the National income. Goldwater looks upon our National debt, as a national danger; and wants it liquidated as soon as possible.

Then I took a look at the Congressional records, and find that the last time the budget was balanced was by the Republican 80th Congress, which balanced the budget, reduced taxes, and also reduced the national debt. That only $13 billions of our national debt is chargeable to Republican Administrations, and that $312 billions are chargeable to Democratic Administrations.

Since the Republicans have proven themselves better Business men for the Government, than the Democrats I am leaving the Johnson camp, and moving over into the Goldwater camp. To me, Mr. Johnson is a clever politician, and Goldwater is a Statesman, with Presidential qualifications.

I am a retired Presbyterian minister, and have a Master of Arts degree, and two Doctor's degrees.

Your truly,
C. R. Thomas

Dear Sir:

President Johnson has repeatedly charged Sen. Goldwater with inconsistencies in what he is for and against. Some of these charges are false and some may be true but let's not let President Johnson get away lily white. It was LBJ who spoke of how he used to dream on the ranch of the brotherhood of all men. Then he pulled a switch of thought in congress by consistently voting against equal rights legislation. When he became president he completed his double switch by backing the 1964 civil rights legislation. It would seem that a man who pulls a double switch would be a little bit more understanding.

LBJ's running mate Sen. Humphrey is also far from lily white when he accuses Sen. Goldwater of extremism.

The Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) is an extremists group of the left as is the John Birch Society of the right. Sen. Humphrey is founding father of the ADA. Sen. Goldwater does not even belong to the John Birch Society because he doesn't agree with some of its views. Basic logic tells me that Humphrey is more of an extremist than is Goldwater. Sen. Goldwater is honorable enough to let the American people know where he stands. I cannot say as much for Sen. Humphrey.

Very truly yours,
W. Dickson Nace

What is a fair price for an Egyptian cat?

The ancient Egyptians were fond of cats. They made numerous statues of them. These are in museums throughout the world. If you tried to buy one, the price would be a small fortune.

The dollar value of an art object such as an Egyptian cat is determined by the desire of someone to own it. The price has no relationship to what it cost to make.

On the other hand, the price you pay for natural gas service is determined by known factors. It includes the actual cost of the gas and the cost of the equipment and labor necessary to bring the gas service into your home.

These costs are evaluated by the Public Service Commission. The Commission determines their fairness and permits your gas company a limited, but not guaranteed, profit.

Your gas company must earn its profit by careful management and efficient operation.

Birds Of A Feather Flock Together!

The Democrat candidate, Lyndon Johnson, has within the last two years, had his two closest associates exposed as men of disreputable character. Bobby Baker, his erstwhile secretary, is still under investigation by the U. S. Senate for unethical conduct. Just recently, Johnson's administrative assistant, Walter Jenkins, was arrested for the second time on a perverted morals charge.

Deviates and perverts should have no place in the government of the United States.

The Johnson Administration is the perfect example of the "handwriting on the wall" and the ruler who was "weighed in the balance and found wanting," as recorded in the 5th chapter of Daniel.

If you want a clean, honest government, headed by men of integrity, then cast your vote for the party of peace and prosperity and vote the straight Republican ticket on Tuesday, November 3.

Top Seniors Are Named

According to Ernest Spoerlein, guidance counselor at Southern High school, Oakland, Ron McDaniel, Janna Naylor and Linda Ritchie ranked at the top of their class in the first three places respectively at the beginning of their senior year. All seniors have been notified of their class rank. After the first two term grades are complete they will be again ranked.

The top twelve listed in order of rank—Ronald McDaniel, Janna Naylor, Linda Ritchie, Robert McIntire, Linda Oursler, Christine Umstot, Barbara Hull, Donna Shaffer, Sue Repetsky, George Evans, Barbara Michael, and Jay Rice—were separated by only ten points. Linda Oursler and Christine Umstot were tied for fifth place.

The points were figured by using the final grades earned in the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades. They were derived in the following manner: an A was given four points; a B, three points; a C, two points; a D, 1 point; and an E gave no credit for that subject.

Ronnie McDaniel

Ron, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDaniel in Oakland, is following the academic course at Southern. When he graduates from high school, Johns Hopkins, he hopes, will be his goal. His plans include graduation in pre-law and then going on to law school. When this goal has been reached he will make New York City his practicing grounds.

Janna Naylor

Taking the academic course is the second ranked senior Jan who follows Ron by one point. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Naylor, in Oakland.

The University of Maryland is her college goal upon graduation. There she plans to major in chemistry or some form of science. Maybe a doctor's or Master's degree will be her final goal.

Linda Ritchie

Linda is taking the academic course at Southern and plans to attend West Virginia Wesleyan College or Western Maryland. She plans to seek a major in social work.

The Unknown Heirs, Devisees and Personal Representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife,
Defendants

No. 5332 Equity In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Order of Publication

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree declaring absolute ownership of Lot No. 23, Block U, in Steele's Plan of the Town of Friendsville in Garrett County, Maryland, to be vested in the complainants and that the heirs, devisees and personal representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife be enjoined from asserting any claim to said Lot No. 23, block U. The Bill states:

That they are in constructive and peaceable possession under color of title of Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the Lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, which was devised by Benjamin F. Schroyer, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, to Nancy Elizabeth Schroyer, widow, and upon her death to Cecil W. Schroyer, Ada Blanche Lewellen and Ruth R. Frantz, by the last will and testament of the said Benjamin F. Schroyer, dated October 22, 1943, recorded in Will Liber E. folio 473, one of the Will records in the Register of Wills for Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said last will and testament being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that your orators have endeavored to convey said land but prospective purchasers therefor have denied and disputed the title of your orators; that said Lot No. 23, Block U, was conveyed by G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, to William H. Friend, by deed dated February 3, 1893, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 34, folio 98&c., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 2" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof, and was inadvertently described as Lot No. 23, Block B. but described as being at the end of 25 feet from a point on Maple Street and Morris Avenue where Lot No. 23, Block U is situate and located; that by mesne conveyance said Lot No. 23, Block U was ultimately conveyed by Blanche Guard and C. V. Guard, her husband, to the said Benjamin F. Schroyer by deed dated April 13, 1919, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 76, folio 155, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, which said deed is filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 3", and prayed to be taken as a part hereof and in said deed incorrectly referred to as Lot No. 23, Block B; that said Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, was not conveyed by said G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, except as herein before set forth; that there is no action at law nor any proceeding in equity pending to enforce or test the validity of the title to said lot; that the contentions of prospective buyers of Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the Lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, are without merit and constitute a cloud upon the title of the owners.

It is thereupon ORDERED this 20th day of October, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a cpoy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, one a week for four successive weeks before the 13th day of November, 1964, giving notice to the unknown heirs, devisees and personal representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, of the object and substance of the Bill of Complaint and warning them to be and appear in this Court either in person or by solicitor on or before the 14th day of December, 1964, to show cause, if any they may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

"THE FAMILY FRATERNITY"

The 1965 Dodge Coronet!

The Coronet is gleaming proof that a car doesn't have to look low price to be low price. It has all the styling and interior elegance of top-of-the-line models. It has the 5-year/50,000 mile warranty* and all the built-in dependability of solid Dodge engineering. But it doesn't cost a penny more than the so-called economy cars. If you want to break the Ford or Chevy habit, see the Coronet at the Dodge Boy showroom in your neighborhood.

*HERE'S HOW DODGE'S 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1965 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings. REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

Court Decision Far Reaching For Farm People, Speaker Says

The U. S. Supreme Court's ruling that representation in state legislatures must be solely on a population basis has "serious and far-reaching implications to farmers, ranchers and other residents of rural areas", John C. Datt, assistant director of the Washington Office of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the annual meeting of the Garrett County Farm Bureau at Grantsville last Thursday night.

"Many rural people have not completely realized the full implications of the Court's ruling," Mr. Datt said. "What the Court really said is that the judges know better than the residents of an individual state how state government should be conducted. If this decision is allowed to stand, the states will be denied the time tested and successful pattern of representation that exists in the U. S. Congress where representation is on an area basis in the Senate and on a population basis in the House of Representatives.

"Our forefathers, in establishing the Constitution, considered this to be an essential part of the system of checks and balances. It assured a truly representative government with consideration for minority and area interest.

"Many rural people have felt the Court's ruling was confined only to representation in the state legislature," Mr. Datt said, "but recent events show it may be the basis for forced reapportionment of local governing boards for counties, cities, and school districts—strictly on a population basis."

Change Already Underway

"This has already happened in Kent County, Michigan," he explained. "An action was brought in a state circuit court in Michigan by the citizens of Grand Rapids, asserting that the city's voters were under-represented on the county board of supervisors.

"On September 12, Circuit Judge Fred N. Searl ruled that the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment, as construed by the U. S. Supreme Court in June, required that the same basic standards he applied with respect to representation on the Kent County board of supervisors as for state legislatures, and that it was therefore necessary that Kent County be redistricted solely on a population basis. Judge Searl said he would leave it up to the 1965 session of the Michigan legislature.

"If this decision stands, it means a major change in county government with either at-large elections or county districting, probably ignoring township lines.

"County boards of supervisors, under this setup, would likely be smaller bodies. If apportioned solely on population alone, cities like Grand Rapids would have more than half of the representation on the county board. This might eventually bring about a merger of city and county governments in many or all respects. The township as it is now known in many states could, for all practical purposes, be eliminated."

Mr. Datt said "bosses of big city political machines, such as Mayor Daley of Chicago, and their labor union allies are jubilant over the Supreme Court's decision as they look forward to taking over the state legislatures."

He cited a statement of the Committee on Political Education of the AFL-CIO which summarized the Supreme Court decision as "curtains for rural-dominated, horse-and-buggy state governments, unresponsive to the needs of an increasingly urban nation."

"1965 will be the year of decision as far as this question is concerned," the Farm Bureau spokesman predicted. "There will be a determined drive to secure corrective action in Congress next year," he declared.

"It will involve the passage of a Constitutional amendment under which the states could continue to apportion one legislative branch on the basis of population and the other branch on a basis other than population, such as area.

"Whether corrective action will be taken will depend upon the organized efforts of farm, ranch and other rural people. If we sit idly by and do nothing, we shall have only ourselves to blame for what happens to our local and state government in the years ahead.

"If, on the other hand, we realize the seriousness of this ruling and go to work we can get the type of corrective action needed. This is our challenge."

Turning to farm program legislation, Mr. Datt said 1965 will also be a year of decision. "During the next session Congress will have to consider wheat, cotton, feed grains, wool, and sugar legislation. There has been talk that some type of dairy legislation may also be considered.

"In recent months we have seen the federal government take action to dump its stocks of grain onto the market, depressing prices for both wheat and corn. During the first three months of the current marketing year Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has dumped 136 million bushels of government owned wheat in an effort to keep the market price low. Maryland farmers realize what this has done to wheat prices," he said.

"Earlier the government dumped feed grains in an effort to intimidate farmers into participation in the feed grain program. The result of this disastrous government action was a big increase in livestock numbers. This, plus increased imports, resulted in a serious collapse of beef prices.

"These are only two of the many instances where increased intervention into agriculture by the federal government has done serious harm.

"It is for this reason that your Farm Bureau policy development activities are so important," Mr. Datt told Garrett County Farm Bureau members. "Your discussion and judgment as to how these important agricultural issues should be handled are important if we are to have souad solutions," he said.

"Every American citizen has an important decision to make on November 3. On that day we as individuals have the opportunity of casting our votes under our representative type of government. We have the responsibility as individual citizens and as farmers to study the voting records and statements of the various candidates.

"We need to have our own individual beliefs and then we must be prepared to have them carried out by our votes on election day.

"The privilege of voting is one that not every person in the world has. We ought to realize this and see that we use it wisely," Mr. Datt concluded.

Regular Deer Season Nov. 27 To Dec. 5

The regular male deer season when hunters may use both firearms and bow and arrow will be open Friday November 27, the day after Thanksgiving and will close Saturday, December 5. Both dates are inclusive, except Sunday, November 29.

Hunters will be permitted to kill one male deer, providing the deer has two or more points to one antler and a spike buck which has a 3-inch antler.

Hunters killing a deer during the bow and arrow season will not be eligible to hunt deer in any county during the regular season.

Any person killing a deer under the provisions of this regulation may not kill or attempt to kill another deer by any means during the same calendar year, unless otherwise provided. This would mean that anyone killing a deer during the regular season, would not be able to participate in the antlerless season on December 18 and 19.

We ask Simca owners:

Why did you trade in your VW for a Simca 1000?

William Botkin, Columbus, Ohio: "On impulse, I took one out for a spin. Was delighted with the way it handled. Much better all around, especially on the turnpikes. My wife liked the all-synchro gearbox. Last week, for the 30th time, I taught a VW humility in the traffic light Grand Prix. Simca's heater—which really heats—is a godsend..."

George Stevens, Martinez, Calif.: "The VW didn't seem to fill the bill for my wife and me. The 1000 is roomier, easier getting in and out of. The day after we bought it, we took a long trip and couldn't have been more delighted with the comfort or the economy..."

Mrs. Audrey Stein—Maplewood, N.J.: "My VW needed a lot of repairs, so naturally the 5-year Simca warranty* looked awfully good to me..."

Larry Drake, Pineville, West Va.: "Extra room, better visibility. It handled better. I've been well satisfied with the change to the 1000..."

Jack White, Albany, Ohio: "I had two VWs. Now I have one, plus your Simca 1000. The 1000 rides smoother. And I get better gas mileage from it. With your warranty* I'm not afraid of an engine bill using up all the money I've saved on gas..."

THE REPUBLICAN

Congratulations . . . .

There isn't much we can say this week except to offer congratulations to President Lyndon B. Johnson for his victory and to offer him best wishes for a successful term in office.

He received commanding majorities in 44 states and his total majority will be some fifteen million more than Senator Goldwater obtained. President Johnson captured all but six states and his advantage of electoral votes is much greater than the late John F. Kennedy received when he was elevated to the presidency four years ago.

He will have a greater Democratic majority to work out legislation in the Congress than was the case during the past year which may give him the opportunity to force through legislation that some twenty-five to thirty million people or more do not favor.

That being the case we don't plan to go into mourning, for the vote certainly indicated that many Republicans for some reason or another were fearful of what would happen should Goldwater be elected. It was editorially indicated in many newspapers it wasn't so much enthusiasm for Johnson as it was lack of it for Goldwater, that resulted in the overwhelming vote.

We know that President Johnson is a patriotic American who will do his utmost to keep his country prosperous, strong and respected. In his struggle for these things he can rely on all Republicans, we feel sure.

We do ask people to remain alert and never fear to voice their beliefs to their Congressmen and Senators when they are displeased with legislation and trends. Only by remaining alert to the constant threats against the Republic and its constitution can this nation hope to survive for any length of time.

So we repeat, congratulations! Be assured that all Republicans will back the administration in power in its efforts for peace, justice, prosperity and good government.

Farming Banquet Set For Nov. 12

Calvin D. Johnson Will Address Group On "Opportunities Unlimited"

The seventeenth annual Farming for Better Living dinner is to be held next Thursday evening, November 12, in the Southern High school cafeteria. The seventy farm families who completed their FFBL project reports for this year will be guests of the FFBL council and the businessmen of the county.

Calvin D. Johnson

R. Thomas Thayer, Jr., council chairman, will be master of ceremonies. Speaker will be Calvin D. Johnson, special assistant to the president for public affairs, of the New Holland Machine company. His topic will be "Opportunities Unlimited".

Recognized as an outstanding public speaker Mr. Johnson has served as a representative from the 22nd district of Illinois in the U. S. Congress. A native of Kentucky and a resident of Belleville, Ill., he specializes in addresses to business, civic and fraternal organizations.

He has been described as a "20th Century Lincoln" and as having "a deep understanding of the problems and issues of modern times and an almost unmatched ability to impart to people the principles of good Americanism".

While in the Illinois General Assembly he was sponsor of the "Johnson Work or Don't Eat Law", which forced every able-bodied man on relief to work and earn the amount of his budget.

In Congress he forced abandonment of the program whereby the American taxpayers' money was used to pay farmers of Peru not to raise cotton. He forced abandonment of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration's European Farm Machinery program under which a half million pieces of farm equipment were scheduled to be shipped to European countries, many of them behind the Iron Curtain.

His understanding of the problems and issues of these days is reflected in the constructive program he advocates. It is said that few men today can match him for his ability to impart to the people the principles of the American Way of Life.

Fix City Tax Rate At 90c Per $100

The Mayor and City council of Oakland fixed the city tax rate at 90 cents on each $100 of assessable property, at the regular monthly session Monday evening. This is the same rate as set for the past many years.

The assessable basis is in the neighborhood of $5½ million and the tax rate is calculated to bring in some $50,000 in tax revenue. Receipts from every source reach in excess of $150,000 per year.

The city council decided to charge the information on the parking meters, making it unnecessary to pay for parking after six o'clock on Saturday evenings, but changing the regulations to make it necessary to pay for parking on Friday evenings up to 9 o'clock.

This was done to coincide with the change of hours of business places. Business places now remain open until 9 o'clock on Friday evenings but close at 5:30 o'clock on Saturdays.

Five permits were granted. One was to Beachy Lumber company to construct dwelling with garage, 28 by 56, with split siding, and 28 by 42 basement, approximately cost $9,000. One was to Mrs. Lula A. Stark, 4th street, to improve basement, rebuild kitchen, replace porch, roof and other damage, caused by fire, approximate cost $1,000. Mrs. Stark recently purchased the home formerly occupied by Carlton "Tick" Hinebaugh and family.

A permit was granted to Lester Mullens to place trailer 56 by 10 on property in Davis addition owned by John Adams, Jr., approximate cost $6,000. One was approved for Mrs. Estelle M. Treacy to place a trailer 35 by 10, on the property of Dennis Rasche, Water street, approximate cost $2,000. One was approved for William A. Shirer for Garrett National Bank to construct drive-in bank 12 by 20, of stone veneer, on Green street, approximate cost $4,500.

Receipts for October amounted to $20,187.90 with $13,903.03 from water accounts, $112.04 from taxes and $6,172.83 from miscellaneous. Among miscellaneous items was $3,024.11 from the gasoline tax fund.

Expenditures amounted to $11,-343.21. Among expenditures was $136.74 to the Cemetery committee, $25 to the Boy Scouts and $100 to the Chamber of Commerce. The report by Mrs. Gladys Nordeck, clerk-collector, showed a balance of $25,015.57 after bills were paid.

County Remains In GOP Column; Mathias Is Tops

With almost seventy percent of the citizens in Garrett county voting on Tuesday they remained solidly in the Republican column, but only by the "skin of their teeth" in regard to the presidential. Sen. Goldwater carried the county by a majority of only 152 in unofficial returns, while Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., led the ticket with 4,315 votes against 2,294 for Royce Hanson.

Garrett county thus gave an assist to keep the GOP Congressman in his present position. He carried every county in his district.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, although having a healthy majority in this county, lost his seat to Joseph Tydings by more than two to one.

President Johnson was high in seven districts in the county, having a majority vote in Swanton, Friendsville, Bloomington, Johnson, Deer Park, Kitzmiller and Crellin, and almost took Accident which had a count of 208 to 213, and 41-1, West Oakland with a count of 225 to 227. East Oakland, Sang Run, district 6 and district 7, had the most solid vote for Goldwater. Sang Run gave the Senator 219 to 72 for Johnson, while East Oakland gave Goldwater 370 votes compared to 271 for Johnson. Grantsville also swung solidly for Goldwater with 352 votes against 263 for Johnson.

Sen. Goldwater polled 3,541 votes throughout the county compared to 3,389 for President Johnson. It was very evident that many Republicans crossed party lines.

In the race for United States Senate, incumbent Sen. J. Glenn Beall, of Allegany county easily out-polled the young newcomer, Joseph D. Tydings, having 4119 votes to 2560.

It was in the Sixth District race where the Republicans showed their strength. Mathias had 4,315 to 2294 for Dr. Royce Hanson, of Montgomery county. Mathias carried every county in his district and had an unofficial lead of more than 2,000 votes.

On the questions on the ballot Garrett county citizens voted against four of the five. Amendment No. 1, pertaining to the county home rule charter, was favored by a vote of 861 to 767. Others were unfavorable to Garrett countians as follows:

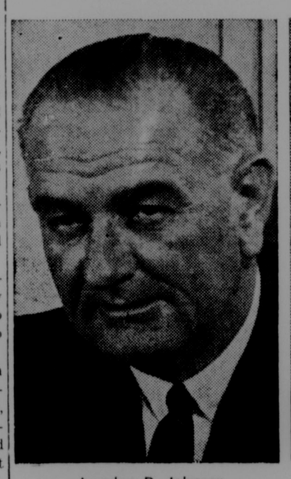
Amendment No. 2, to abolish Orphans Court in Montgomery, 618 to 789; Amendment No. 3, to consider Notary Public office as one of profit, for, 849, against 845; Amendment 4, to change sessions of the General Assembly, 817 in favor, 895 against; question 5, public accommodations, 760 in favor, 1001 against.

In the only other race, Carlton Sickles, incumbent congressman at large was victorious in the state but in Garrett county his opponent David Scull, had 3227 votes compared to 2905 for Sickles.

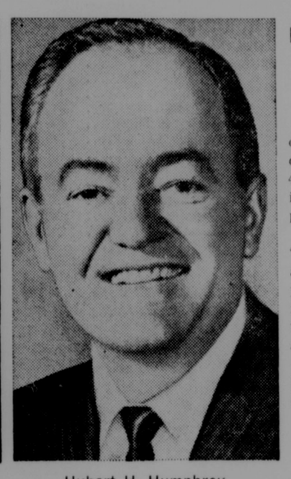
Election day was mostly fair and both parties were out in force during the time that the polls were open. Voting machines worked smoothly and apparently the only difficulty was at Sang Run where there was a flue fire that temporarily interrupted activities. It was extinguished with only slight damage.

The official count is being made today, and some 200 absentee ballots will also be tallied.

Johnson Wins Presidency Over Sen. Barry Goldwater



Lyndon B. Johnson



Hubert H. Humphrey

Popular Vote Near 40 Million Against Some 29 Million For Goldwater

President Lyndon B. Johnson compiled history's greatest presidential victory Tuesday by winning 44 states and a whopping majority in electoral votes, and taking 61 percent of the biggest vote ever.

He declared his determination "to make this nation whole again", after a bitter campaign. He interpreted the results as a "mandate for unity" and a "command . . . . to move forward toward peace and a better life for all people." He has as his successful running mate Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota, for vice president.

A year ago he had inherited the office of President from a martyred President. But now he has earned the White House in his own right.

The election shattered established voting patterns. Goldwater won five states in the traditional Democratic South and led in a sixth, his native Arizona. But Johnson won all the other 44 states including traditionally Republican Vermont and New Hampshire, and also won the District of Columbia.

The tide of votes also gave the Democratic party its greatest majority in the House of Representatives since the election of 1936 of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Vermont had never voted Democratic before. It encompassed suburbs which normaliy vote Republican and rural regions which in the past had been distrustful of Democrats.

The vote on Wednesday showed 39,536,457 for Johnson compared to 24,897,284 for Goldwater. These figures increased as the final precincts drifted in. Johnson won 45 states with 486 electoral votes. Goldwater had 47 and possibly 52 electoral votes.

The Democrats won 287 House seats and were leading for 8 others for an indicated total of 295 in the new Congress, a gain of 38. The Republicans had captured 135 seats and were ahead for 5 for an indicated total of 140. The make-up of the 88th Congress was 257 Democrats and 178 Republicans.

In the Senate there were 35 elections. Democrats elected 26 and had 40 holdovers for a total of 66. Republicans elected 8 and had 25 holders for a total of 33. Democrats gained one in Maryland, New York and New Mexico. Republicans gained two, in California and Ohio.

In the twenty-four races for governorships there were 24 Democrats elected and 7 Republicans.

The scoreboard showed more than 65 million votes counted with 41,513,737 for Johnson, 26,162,920 for Goldwater, a spread of 15,350,-817. This included 98 percent of the precincts recorded. The electoral votes was 486 from 44 states and District of Columbia, Goldwater 52 from 6 states. Needed to elect, 270.

Expansion of the Maryland public accommodations law to cover all of the state won approval by a margin of less than 30,000 votes out of more than 600,000. Also approved but by a wider margin was a constitutional amendment which will provide for annual 70-day sessions of the legislature.

State Gives Big Vote To Johnson

Joseph Tydings Takes U. S. Senate Seat From J. Glenn Beall

Maryland gave its 10 electoral votes for President Johnson by a record majority of votes cast in Tuesday's election and carried an extra United States Senator into office for the Democratic party.

President Johnson had a margin of more than 320,000 votes over Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater. He piled up a huge early lead in traditionally Democratic Baltimore City and led in nearly all counties, except Garrett. The Eastern Shore, scene of violent racial troubles, and regarded as a possible source of Goldwater strength, went for Johnson.

Joseph D. Tydings, step-son of the late former U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings, ended Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall's dream of a third term. Tydings had an unofficial edge of 636,256 against 372,-583 for Beall.

The five Democratic members of the House up for re-election, and a sixth bidding for a seat vacated by Rep. Lankford, were swept into office. The Republicans managed to maintain their hold on the 1st and 6th Congressional districts where Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton defeated Harry H. Hughes on the Eastern Shore and Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., turned back Dr. Royce Hanson in western Maryland and Montgomery county.

Carlton Sickles was also another Democratic victor, to win a second term in the House. He defeated David Scull in the at-large race.

Rep. Mathias Takes 6th District Race

Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., incumbent Republican, won re-election to Maryland's Sixth Congressional district in Tuesday's voting by more than 20,-000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Dr. Royce Hanson.

The complete unofficial count in all five of the district's counties was 126,569 for Mathias, and 106,-267 for Hanson. Mathias carried every county including Hanson's home county of Montgomery, which despite a heavy Democratic registration, went to the Republican by a vote of 71,849 to 69,404.

Over 100,000 cubic yards of soil and rock have been excavated from the hillside and not less than 45,000 cubic yards are yet to be removed. Additional cuts from 17 to 23 feet in depth must be made on the high section of the road, just west of the curve at the end of Front street, to bring it to the level of the new road along the new retaining wall and highway bridge across Georges creek.

To facilitate the work of excavation the highway from Westernport to Luke, a temporary road and detour have been constructed and will be used during the winter.

When the work of excavating, filling and paving has been completed, the new road will continue over the lowered cliff down to the new bridge, and eastward on Church street. This is the highway many persons from the Oakland area use to travel to Cumberland.

Picks Up Hitchhiker; Hits Him on Head

West Virginia authorities are searching for a motorist who allegedly picked up a hitchhiker on Monday night on U. S. route 50, and then struck the hitchhiker over the head, apparently with robbery as a motive.

He was ordered to halt by Trooper First Class Donald Tucker for a speeding violation and chased into West Virginia where the car was wrecked and the man fled on foot. West Virginia authorities were notified and a lengthy search failed to turn up any person. It was thought he had circled around and caught a ride with another motorist.

The hitchhiker was identified as Norman Richard Armolt, of Hartmansville, W. Va. He was treated in the emergency room at Garrett County Memorial hospital and released.

Trooper Tucker said it was learned that tags on the automobile had been stolen and that the car also was a stolen one. Police have one person under surveillance but West Virginia state police said this morning that no arrests had been made thus far.

Questions By You and Your Friends Answers From Clinton W. Englander

QUESTION:

How can I learn to read what is in the prescription my doctor writes? I want to know what he's giving me.

ANSWER:

Let's just answer your question in a straight-forward manner and say, "You can't." At least, you won't be able to read your doctor's prescription and "know what he's giving" you unless you can qualify to study pharmacy for from four to five years and then pass a very stiff licensing examination. You see, your doctor is writing in a form of shorthand which we have been trained to read and understand.

Letter to The Editor

Mr. Editor:—

You have been running an interesting series of "Pictures out of the Past."

Be sure and get a good picture of the crowd at the Oakland Armory picking up their 5000 permits to kill antlerless deer in Garrett County this Fall. Unless I misjudge the greed of human nature, there will be a big gang there on Dec. 12th.

I do not see how you can take 5000 antlerless deer out of our County deer population and have much left for the future. And REMEMBER that you will kill all the young bucks (they are most inquisitive at this age) that normally would be our legal deer 2 or 3 years hence.

I honestly believe that the citizens of Garrett County like to see deer around. They are proud of their deer population.

If these game officials had confined their edict to State owned land, private property owners would not have to post their land in order to preserve a few deer. This posting is their only defense.

Why should our State legislators give power to a few game officials sitting in Annapolis to invite hunting hordes onto our privately owned land to kill off our DOE and young BUCKS?

Why should the same group have power to impose a $1.00 trout stamp just so they can count the number of trout fishermen? What do they give in return?

Do we citizens realize what is going on?

Futcher P. Smith
(Former member of State Game and Fish Commission)

(I was responsible for the game commission buying mature bucks from Wisconsin and Michigan some 30 years ago and releasing them in Garrett County to improve our deer herd.)

The American Way

"LET EACH MAN STEP TO THE MUSIC WHICH HE HEARS"
By Harry Browne
Editor, Freedom Magazine

"If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away".
—Henry David Thoreau

The above is more than a pleasant platitude. It is really the heart of the American way of life.

We know that no two people are exactly alike. The Creator has designed an infinite variety of human beings.

Because of this, happiness is relative. We each find satisfaction in different forms of achievement. Truth is relative, too—in the sease that what one man sees as an absolute truth may not be what another man, equally as thoughtful, may see.

Unfortunately, many people do not wish to recognize these differences. They believe that their own concepts of happiness and truth must apply to all. They assert that their own "divine knowledge" of truth must be enforced upon all.

So all of us are expected to live by the religious political and economic standards of the "chosen few". History is filled with examples of the tyranny that results when people gain the political power to enforce their concepts. The inquisitions, heresy trails, thought control, absolute dictatorships, economic regulation, etc.—these are the result of one portion of the population forcing their beliefs, through the government, on all.

But can we afford to let each man listen "to the music which he hears"? Wouldn't this allow evil people to inflict their evil upon us? Don't we need to protect ourselves?

Yes, we do need to protect ourselves. The ideal society is one in which each person's property — including his life and liberty — are protected completely. Each person establishes his own "moral island," living by his own truths, his own understanding. With this, he is prepared to defend his own property, his own island, against those who would invade it by force.

Starting with this "moral island", with this understanding of himself and what he believes, the individual can then venture forward to associate with those whose standards are compatible.

The closest the world has come to this concept was in the early days of the American Republic. The founding fathers wisely rejected the idea that people must be forced to live as the rulers saw fit. They left each man free to work out his own destiny, in his own self-interest — and the result was the highest degree of freedom and prosperity ever known. Freedom influenced people to be rational and "good" — in a way that coercion could never have accomplished.

When we are depressed by the evil that exists in the world, we must resist the temptation to want to force people to change to suit us. Instead, we must work diligently to bring about a society in which no one has the political power to force his will upon others. Then the immutable laws of nature can work freely to lead us to higher standards of freedom and prosperity than we have ever known.

Let each man "step to the music which he hears." Let each of us understand ourselves, and live our lives according to the highest morality of which we can conceive. And let us establish the means of protecting ourselves against those who would enforce their wills upon us.

This is the political ideal. It should be the purpose of every political act and program — not to change others, but to give ourselves the right to grow and develop in freedom.

Mt. Lake Dump Will Be Controlled

At the October meeting of the town officials of Mountain Lake Park, it was found necessary to authorize blocking the roadway to the town dump with a gate. This barrier has now been installed and use of the community facility will be controlled. Failure to keep the unloading area open for the town truck, and the dumping of trash and garbage carelessly, made it necessary to block the roadway. Permission for use of the three-acre tract, which lies north of Pittsburgh Avenue, can be arranged by contacting the mayor or William H. Bell, supervisor of the disposal service.

K. of C. Observes 50th Anniversary

Oakland Council No. 1771, Knights of Columbus, celebrated the 50th anniversary of its formation with appropriate ceremonies on Sunday, October 25. Members of the Council and visiting State officers and members from Baltimore, Cumberland, Cresaptown, Mount Savage and Piedmont attended Mass at St. Peter's Church at 10:00 a. m., receiving Holy Communion in a body. The Council Chaplain, Rev. Michael K. Carney, welcomed the members and emphasized the services rendered to Church and State by the Council in its fifty years' existence.

After Mass a Communion Breakfast was served in Hinebaugh's restaurant. Dr. M. D. Gilligan, State Secretary, of Westminster, discoursed upon the history of the Knights of Columbus since the founding of the order in New Haven, Connecticut in 1882. He emphasized the part that should be taken by the members during these trying times when so many dangers threaten both Church and Country.

In the afternoon the First and Second Degrees were exemplified by the Cumberland Degree Team for the benefit of candidates from Oakland and neighboring Councils.

A buffet supper at Hinebaugh's was served at 6:00 p. m., to about 65. Among the visitors were Francis G. MacFarland, State Deputy, Leonard D. McEvoy, State Advocate; and Frederick M. Gossman, Executive Secretary, Baltimore; Dr. M. M. Gilligan, D.D.S., State Secretary, Westminster; George W. Lovenstein, District Deputy; Carl L. Firlie, Past District Deputy and John J. Rorick, District Warden, Cumberland; James E. Van, Grand Knight of Cumberland Council No. 586; William Thompson, Grand Knight of Piedmont Council No. 685; John J. Kreidler, Grand Knight of Pope John XXIII Council No. 5450, Cresaptown; Raymond J. Beckner, Faithful Navigator, Chief Justice Taney General Assembly Fourth Degree, Cumberland.

Local historian and author Felix G. Robinson of Oakland Council acted as Toastmaster, introducing visitors. The principal address was by State Deputy McFarland, who outlined the explorations of Christopher Columbus and his predecessor, Leif Ericsson. He compared the two men noting both were Catholics and intent upon spreading Christianity throughout the new world. He pointed out that although the Norsemen founded settlements in the north, these settlements disappeared long before Columbus made his first voyage to the New World, and it is only in recent years, with the aid of Vatican records, that their existence has been authenticated. What happened to the inhabitants is still a mystery.

Of the 41 Charter Members of the Council, only three are still members, all the others being deceased or no longer live in the area. Since its formation, 70 members of the Council have died. The present membership is 48. Charter Member buttons were presented by the State Deputy to Edward R. O'Donnell, of Mountain Lake, who has been a member of the Order for 55 years; Robert E. Helbig, of Oakland, a member for 50 years; Robert B. Garrett, of Deer Park, the latter being the only remaining member of the class of 22 who received their degrees the day the Council was formed, December 31, 1914. A 50 Year button was presented to Francis R. Shaffer, of Oakland, long time Council Treasurer.

The date of the celebration was advanced in order to take advantage of weather and avoid conflict with the Christmas-New Year's holidays.

Firemen Are Called

Oakland firemen were called to answer two alarms during the week, but damage was slight.

A defective flue caused a fire Monday afternoon about 4:10 o'clock at the Oakland Tire service on Third street in Oakland. Damage was estimated at about $20.

Another flue fire sent the department to Sang Run on Tuesday morning about 7:15, which took place in the election building. The flames were quickly extinguished before the arrival of the department and no damage resulted.

The American Way

"THE TOOLS OF PROSPERITY"
By Harry T. Everingham
President of "We, The People!"

Isn't it time we put up an argument — against those people, both here and abroad, who insist on calling Americans "lucky" because we have "more natural wealth" than anyone else? They call us lucky and say that's why we should take care of the rest of the world!

What kind of talk is that? We didn't get our wealth by luck, we found ways to produce it. It's the rest of the world that's lucky that we happen to be around to lend a helping hand.

In the Middle East, so many things are still provided by the same animal power that has been used for thousands of years. While in America we use machine power. Their way produces so little — ours, so much. There's all the difference in the world between those two systems, just as there is between their economic system and ours; that's why we are the wealthiest people in the world.

Natural Wealth

They say about two-thirds of the world's people go to bed hungry every night. Yet, in many of their lands throughout Africa, South America, India, China and Southeast Asia, there may be more natural wealth buried under the ground than there is in the U. S. Think of that!

For nearly 180 years we Americans have had a form of government which leaves everyone free to dream his own dreams, and to work to make his dreams come true. In most other countries, the average man is seldom free to make the best use of his God-given abilities. He must depend on a master for his security—usually the government—and do whatever the master planner thinks is best.

But here in America where men are free, they can make the best use of their abilities in order to get ahead. To improve their competitive position, our people strive to invent new products, develop new methods and improve their machinery to produce a better product or render a better service at a better price.

You see, our American system is a competitive race to see who can "get thar fustest with the bestest"—and the customer picks the winner when he decides which one offers him the best buy for his money. It's this competition between everyone trying to do a better job that has raised our standard of living and made America both wealthy and great.

Freedom Required

It won't help to aid other countries until they can get rid of the socialism that robs them of freedom of enterprise. Any people, to become prosperous, must have a form of self-government that gives them freedom to compete in business. To make progress, people need modern machinery, the tools of prosperity. But they have no chance to save their money to buy these tools if the government takes most of their earnings away in excessive taxation.

We'll never have world peace and prosperity until the benefits of individual freedom are enjoyed by people throughout the world. Then their governments can say to their people: "Plan your own future . . . improve your own worth . . . produce your own wealth . . . provide your own security . . . and manage your own life!"

Many people throughout the rest of the world hate our system of American capitalism, and yet they continue to beg for the fruits of that system. Let's help them learn that they, too, need capitalism to provide them with the tools of prosperity—and freedom to use these tools.

Gov. Tawes To Ask Tax Increase Repeal

Gov. Tawes, acting on reports of a booming Maryland economy, announced he would ask repeal of a controversial state income tax increase scheduled to take effect next January 1.

The legislature has been called into session Friday morning at 10 o'clock to take official action.

Gov. Tawes and the House and Senate leaders who met with him for nearly two hours Monday, expressed hope that the legislature's business could be wound up at a one-day session. It costs $12,000 to $15,000 for the first day of a special session, including round-trip mileage for legislators, and approximately $9,000 a day after that.

The session is being held one week earlier than originally indicated.

The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates reported that the state should end the present fiscal year next June 30 with a surplus of $19,832,876 even if the tax hike doesn't go into effect. And it said present tax rates should produce $360,196,566 in general fund revenue for next fiscal year. This would give Tawes a total of $380,029,442 for balancing the next budget, enough to absorb a $36.6 million rise in spending over the current year.

Tawes had pushed the tax increase, from 3 percent to 4 percent of net income through a reluctant legislature last March in order to finance a $16.2 million aid to education program and other items.

Action on the repeal bill is expected to be swift, once the assembly is in session. But mechanics of organizing the two houses, the necessity to act on votes of bills from the last regular session, and other routine matters will take up much of the day. The governor vetoed 12 bills from the regular 1964 session and a short special session held the week afterward.

North Glade 4-H'ers Meet

Training in parliamentary procedure was featured at a meeting of the North Glade Boys' 4-H club which met at North Glade school with nineteen attending.

The program will consist of greetings from the various branches of the Pythian order. The representative from the Supreme Temple will be Mrs. Nellie Miller, Supreme Guard of Lonaconing, who will be the principal speaker. Special music will be provided by William DeWitt, soloist, and a male quartet composed of some K. of P. members.

The staff of Garrett Temple and the Sunshine Girls will also pay tribute to Mrs. Browning. The committee on arrangements is Vera Mussard, Ellen Turney and Edith Riley. The refreshment committee is Carrie Shaffer, Mabel Friend and Patricia White. Visitors from other Pythian organizations in Maryland and West Virginia are expected.

Grantsville Co-op Announces Merger And New Facility

Southern States Cooperative is announcing the merger of Brenneman Farm Supply and Southern States Cooperative, Grantsville Branch, into the newly completed facilities just off Route 40 on Springs Road in Grantsville. According to A. H. Booth, Regional Manager of Clarksburg, West Virginia, the merger was arranged to provide better service to patrons of the area. The store will open to the public on Saturday at Grantsville. E. Webster Brenneman will join the staff of the Branch on November 16 but will continue to maintain his business on Keyser Ridge for an indefinite period.

Booth stated that the new property in Grantsville will have a total tax valuation of about one hundred thousand dollars. In breaking this down he indicated that the building, constructed by Joseph Anaya, Salisbury Contractor, had cost about forty thousand dollars. The white masonary structure provides over six thousand feet of shopping space.

An additional twenty five thousand dollars are invested in an up to date mill and bulk grain storage system.

The final block of capital investment is in merchandise carried in inventory and credit extended to patrons on a month to month basis.

The Grantsville branch will continue under the management of Harold G. Loughrie, a former Vocational Agriculture teacher and native of Aurora, W. Va.

In addition to the milling operation that will start and the continuing farm supply sales the Grantsville outlet will provide bulk feed service on a car to farm basis through delivery of thirty ton hopper cars by William DeBerry, bulk feed truck operator. The petroleum and fuel service have been expanded by a pump island at the store. Fertilizer service has been improved.

The Grantsville Branch is charged with the responsibility of sales and service of all heavy equipment distributed by the Cooperative in Garrett, Allegany, Somerset counties, and half of Preston County. Dennis Alt is in charge of this part of the operation.

Volumn of the Grantsville Branch has risen from sixty five thousand dollars in 1962 to two hundred seven thousand for the year completed in July.

NEWS FROM THE Ruth Enlow Library

BY EDITH BROCK

Books have been given to the library during the past few weeks in memory of Jay C. Davis, Harry Porter, and Nelle C. Lee.

Books have been presented to the Grantsville Branch Library in memory of Henry L. Durst.

The personal memoirs of men and women in government, business and the professions have caught the interest of many readers in recent months. The newest of these and one likely to be in continuing demand is "Reminiscences" by General Douglas MacArthur.

"Diplomat Among Warriors" by Robert Murphy, "Confessions of an Advertising Man" by David Ogilvy, "My Years with General Motor" by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., and "Red Carpet at the White House" by Wiley T. Buchanan are other recent books which give an inside view of interesting events.

"Portrait of Myself" by Margaret Bourke-White is the colorful and exciting autobiography of a famous photographer whose work has brought her close to many of the outstanding personalities and happenings of the twentieth century.

Rotarians, Wives Tour Paper Company

Members of the Oakland Rotary club, their wives and guests, numbering 79 in all, had dinner at the Potomac Valley motel dining room near Keyser, and then went on a conducted tour of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company mill at Luke, for an informal Ladies' night program.

The entire process of paper making, from the time the pulpwood entered the woodyard, until it came out as coated book papers, was observed by the group. The paper mill has some 2,400 employes at present, due to its $50 million expansion program, and these employes receive almost $18 million a year in wages.

With two new paper making machines the mill now turns out over 254,000 tons of high grade paper a year. The mill uses 362,000 tons of coal annually to produce high pressure steam and manufacture electricity. Over $6.2 million was spent last year for the wood supply, of which Garrett county pulpwood producers received some half a million dollars.

Guests were greeted by Mr. LeFew, public relations department, who explained the tour before it was actually made. The tour lasted some two hours or more.

At this Friday's meeting Robert Shaffer, who toured several European countries this spring and summer, will speak about the countries of Germany, Switzerland and Holland and show colored slides. Wayne Graham is chairman of the programs for November.

FREEDOM'S DISCOVERY

There is joy in giving to God. That is freedom's ultimate discovery. And the hundreds of thousands of churches which we have built and supported bear testimony to the fact.

But when there are nations who despise God . . . who tear down churches . . . or forbid their support, how shall we teach this Christian joy to the boys and girls who will be our nation—tomorrow?

Of course, what Karen and Paul and their classmates can give will hardly pay for an altar. But our world of tomorrow cannot be built on Kremlin economics.

A mighty generation must learn to worship in prayer and faith and sacrifice. There is joy in giving to God!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Witness

Lesson for November 8, 1964

Background Scripture: II Timothy 1:3-18. Devotional Reading: Psalm 27:1-3, 7-14.

THE BEST advertising is not in print. Manufacturers set aside enormous sums to full-page ads in newspapers or slick magazines, for posters and billboards, for spots on TV, and so forth; but what no company can buy is the best advertising of all — word of mouth. One person telling another; I've tried it, and it's great! is the surest way of getting the truth — if it is true — spread around among the population. You can pay to have lies printed; but you can't pay people to lie about your product; word-of-mouth advertising is generally truthful.

Dr. Foreman

For Truth, not trifles

Christian life is more than talk. It begins with faith, and this is a matter of attitude, of response to God, not of words. The real test of a Christian is never first of all. What does he say? Nevertheless words are a part of the Christian life, and an important part too. Man is a word-using and word-making creature, and if Christianity were a silent wordless thing, it would be unfitted for the life and needs of men. The amount of words poured out in conversation every day is enormous, no one can count them; but how many of those are Christian words? This brings up another question: What kind of talk is Christian? For one thing, the Christian speaks up for truth, not lies, — of course. Many books today, many speakers from public platforms, many editors, feed the public with lies or half truths. The Christian man will not ask first of all what is pleasant and popular, but what is true. A lying Christian is no Christian at all. But the truths for which Christians speak are the important ones.

For those who have no voice

A communist will tell you that all religions, including Christianity, are gigantic frauds; tranquillizers to make people forget their fears and troubles; and that only communism has any real interest in the people on the bottom levels of society, the poor, the depressed, around the earth. This is one of the communist lies. A great deal was said and done for the oppressed and voiceless of the world long before any communists were heard of. For example: In England, when machines were first used in industry, much of the work was done by little children, as young as seven years. Their working hours were from five A.M. to eight P.M., standing all that time. In the mines it was even worse; little children five years old, boys and girls, had to drag tubs of ore out of the mines, through roadways often under 28 inches high, — for a sixteen-hour day. Those child workers were voiceless, they needed a voice to speak loudly for them; and it was Christian voices, especially that of Lord Shaftesbury, one of the great Christians of any century, who roused the conscience of England, and changed the laws. A "Christian" who is silent about injustice when he has a chance to speak, a "Christian" who is blind to injustice hardly deserves the name of Christian.

For Christ

A Christian's witness, then, is always for truth; always for justice; and also, first and last, for Christ. Speaking up for Christ seems often more difficult than speaking for truth and for the victims of injustice. Don't we often leave all the witnessing for Christ to the preacher? But the fact is, if we do that we are dodging what can be not only our duty but our delight. What does it mean, really, to "witness to Christ?" It just means speaking up for him. When you hear some one talking down a Christian truth, whenever you hear some one denying that Jesus was right, whenever you hear Jesus ridiculed as long out of date, or hear Christians caricatured as starry-eyed fools, then is the time to to speak a good word for him. Speaking out for Christ means letting people know you are a Christian.

Northern High school's undefeated football team for this season took another victory under its belt last Friday, defeating Berlin High 7 to 6. With only one more game to go there was hope that the Huskies would have its first undefeated season. They will conclude their nine game season next Friday night, November 6, on the Oakland gridiron against St. Francis High of Morgantown, W. Va.

In last Friday's game the Huskies received outstanding performance from quarterback George Edwards and fullback Dan Nicklow as both men proved giants on offense and defense in the conquest at Berlin.

For the past several weeks Berlin had loomed as the chief obstacle of the determined Northern team, but Edwards threw for a touchdown and extra point in a third period rally and also turned in a pair of interceptions as Berlin was handed its second setback of the year compared to seven victories.

Berlin threw a scare into the Huskies when it scored in the first quarter on a 25-yard pass play; however Nicklow fought off a cut forehead and torn jersey in his all-out effort to make sure that Berlin did not do any further scoring damage. Berlin's try for the extra point failed.

The ball-hawking Edwards checked in with the 1st of his interceptions early in the second half, then went on to lead a Northern march which ended by his two-yard touchdown pass to Ohlen Umbel. He also passed to Wilbur Hinebaugh for the extra point.

Edwards' second interception was equally important, occurring as it did on the Huskies' two-yard line to stop one of many Berlin drives.

Nicklow and Dick Rounds were in on numerous tackles throughout the spirited second half which saw Berlin lose the ball on the twenty yard line and again on the fifteen late in the game.

14 Persons Killed On State Highways

Fourteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.

Three of those killed were drivers; eight were passengers; and three were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in six of the deaths; speed in five; and "driver error" was present in thirteen of the fatalities.

"Last week 'driver error' was present in all but one of Maryland's highway fatalities", commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "and these errors were generally the same ones we see week after week—willful or negligent disregard of the fundamental rules of safe driving.

"Every driver must be constantly aware of his responsibility to eliminate these errors from his own driving practices; he must also be prepared for the probability that driving errors will be committed by other users of the highway."

7 tricks to keep your car looking like new

1. Use sand to help take dents out of hubcaps. Cover some sand with a cloth. Place the hubcap, face down, on the cloth. Gently pound the dent out with a household hammer. Note: cover the hammer head with a chamois or cloth to soften the blow.

2. Never wash your car with strong detergents. They may leave permanent streaks in the paintwork. Use a cleaner made especially for cars instead. If your car is just dusty, hose it and rub down with a chamois.

1937 Packard 12-Cylinder Club Sedan

4. Remove stubborn tar spots with this handy item. Pour some Shell Lighter Fluid on a cloth and rub the tar. Spots come off easily. Won't harm paint. But use sparingly, and wash off with soap and water.

5. Clean the headlining with household cleaner. Fingerprints and greasy marks have a way of getting on the headlining—the ceiling fabric. Sponge right off with household cleaner.

6. Paint a new set of tires on your car. Make old, but perfectly good white or black tires, look like new with a product called tire dressing. Spreads on like paint. Ask your Shell dealer to suggest a good brand.

7. Choose the right stain remover for each kind of upholstery and rug stain. CANDY: pick off dried residue with a dull table knife. Sponge spot with lukewarm water, starting from outside and working in toward center to avoid spreading stain. Dry. Sponge again, this time with detergent suds. SOFT DRINKS, COFFEE: sponge with lukewarm water. Dry. Repeat several times. Sponge with detergent suds. Rinse with water. MILK: sponge with cleaning fluid. Soak stain into absorbent cloths. Caution: use only a nonflammable cleaning fluid when removing stains inside the car. ICE CREAM: sponge with cool water. Dry. Then use cleaning fluid, working on spot from the outside toward the center. MUD, DIRT: allow to dry. Then pick off dried crust. If spot persists, clean area lightly with cleaning fluid.

The Unknown Heirs, Devisees and Personal Representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife,
Defendants

No. 5332 Equity In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Order of Publication

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree declaring absolute ownership of Lot No. 23, Block U, in Steele's Plan of the Town of Friendsville in Garrett County, Maryland, to be vested in the complainants and that the heirs, devisees and personal representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife be enjoined from asserting any claim to said Lot No. 23, block U. The Bill states:

That they are in constructive and peaceable possession under color of title of Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the Lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, which was devised by Benjamin F. Schroyer, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, to Nancy Elizabeth Schroyer, widow, and upon her death to Cecil W. Schroyer, Ada Blanche Lewellen and Ruth R. Frantz, by the last will and testament of the said Benjamin F. Schroyer, dated October 22, 1943, recorded in Will Liber E. folio 473, one of the Will records in the Register of Wills for Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said last will and testament being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that your orators have endeavored to convey said land but prospective purchasers therefor have denied and disputed the title of your orators; that said Lot No. 23, Block U, was conveyed by G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, to William H. Friend, by deed dated February 3, 1893, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 34, folio 98&c., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 2" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof, and was inadvertently described as Lot No. 23, Block B, but described as being at the end of 25 feet from a point on Maple Street and Morris Avenue where Lot No. 23, Block U is situate and located; that by mesne conveyance said Lot No. 23, Block U was ultimately conveyed by Blanche Guard and C. V. Guard, her husband, to the said Benjamin F. Schroyer by deed dated April 13, 1919, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 76, folio 155, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, which said deed is filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 3", and prayed to be taken as a part hereof and in said deed incorrectly referred to as Lot No. 23, Block B; that said Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, was not conveyed by said G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, except as herein before set forth; that there is no action at law nor any proceeding in equity pending to enforce or test the validity of the title to said lot; that the contentions of prospective buyers of Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the Lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, are without merit and constitute a cloud upon the title of the owners.

It is thereupon ORDERED this 20th day of October, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a cpoy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, one a week for four successive weeks before the 13th day of November, 1964, giving notice to the unknown heirs, devisees and personal representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, of the object and substance of the Bill of Complaint and warning them to be and appear in this Court either in person or by solicitor on or before the 14th day of December, 1964, to show cause, if any they may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Magazine Article Has Praise For Agent

The October issue of The Hartford Agent, magazine published by the Hartford Insurance company, had praise for Harold Holsopple of Oakland, an agent of the company who befriended a client in an ususual manner some few months ago.

The story concerned Charles P. Abell who was driving with his family in Oakland, 160 miles from his home. He was involved in an accident resulting in about $500 damage to each car. He contacted Holsopple for assistance.

Holsopple had the car towed to a garage, had an adjuster look over the damaged car and when the accident report was completed he drove the Abell family to Cumberland, 50 miles away so they could rent a car and return to their home near Washington. This was on a Saturday afternoon.

We ask Simca owners:

Why did you trade in your VW for a Simca 1000?

William Botkin, Columbus, Ohio: "On impulse, I took one out for a spin. Was delighted with the way it handled. Much better all around, especially on the turnpikes. My wife liked the all-synchro gearbox. Last week, for the 30th time, I taught a VW humility in the traffic light Grand Prix. Simca's heater—which really heats—is a godsend..."

George Stevens, Martinez, Calif.: "The VW didn't seem to fill the bill for my wife and me. The 1000 is roomier, easier getting in and out of. The day after we bought it, we took a long trip and couldn't have been more delighted with the comfort or the economy..."

Mrs. Audrey Stein—Maplewood, N.J.: "My VW needed a lot of repairs, so naturally the 5-year Simca warranty* looked awfully good to me..."

Larry Drake, Pineville, West Va.: "Extra room, better visibility. It handled better. I've been well satisfied with the change to the 1000..."

Jack White, Albany, Ohio: "I had two VWs. Now I have one, plus your Simca 1000. The 1000 rides smoother. And I get better gas mileage from it. With your warranty* I'm not afraid of an engine bill using up all the money I've saved on gas..."

THE REPUBLICAN

Brace Yourself . . . .

Since no cause would be served by continuing political arguments this week, we want to suggest an entirely new topic. So brace yourself!

This ideal fall weather can't last forever, so we had our snow treads mounted yesterday afternoon, ready for the worst.

Reports from practically all points around the nation where great store is set by the traditional portents, embolden us to predict that we are on the threshold of a ring-tailed peeler of a winter. Woolly bear adherents tell us these harbingers are now appearing in force—in the heaviest overcoats in many years. Squirrels, what there are of them, are said to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown from overwork, storing up the undersize acorns. Oystermen who reported on the fatness of the season's first bi-valves, are bracing for bitter cold work in the months ahead.

What lies ahead for the rest of us—sniffles and sneezes and runny noses above the usual number—if you don't watch out. Over 20 million Americans will have colds; more than 125,000 workers will stay home to nurse them on any designated winter day. Since the health service says we average one to three colds in a normal year we can look forward to more than half a billion attacks this season—at a cost of over $5 billion in lost production, lost wages and medical expense.

Since we are no smarter about colds in this missile age than in horse and buggy days, the only protection against a cold is not to catch it. We are supposed to dress warmly, keep our feet dry, avoid chilling, overheating and weariness.

When that cold catches you and you can't avoid it, proper treatment can minimize discomfort and play an important part in preventing it from developing into more dangerous diseases such as laryngitis, bronchitis, sinus, or pneumonia, which often follow.

Whatever you do, don't take any stock in that yarn about the mythical doctor who exposed his cold patients to pneumonia—because he knew how to cure that!

Still Biting!

Yes, the fish are still biting. At least they are for Ray "Simon" Cogley. These two pictured were caught in the Red Run area, from Cogley's dock and are just two of ten that were caught on that day. The two shown were caught on the same minnow.

They measured 28 inches in length and weighed seven pounds.

James Thayer Hurt In Auto Accident

James O. Thayer, 19, star route, Oakland, was seriously but not critically injured in an automobile accident on Oak street in Oakland early Monday morning.

Thayer sustained severe lacerations of his head in the one-car mishap. A dozen or more stitches were required to close the head wound. A patient in Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland, he was expected to be released this week.

Thayer was driving west on Oak street when his vehicle struck a parked car on the north side of the street. Police said the young man apparently fell asleep at the wheel. He is employed by Vetter Brothers, and is a son of J. Phillips Thayer.

Write In Mayor Declines To Serve

There was an unusual development in the Loch Lynn election results. Last week Charles Shafer was elected mayor by a write-in vote of 49 ballots, as compared to 46 votes for the candidate, Elwood Lawrence Groves, the only one for that office appearing on the ballot.

This week Mr. Shafer announced that he did not feel that he could serve because of a conflict with business interests and urged support for the present mayor, Mr. Groves. Mr. Groves said last night he felt a responsibility to the town and would continue to serve in the capacity of mayor.

Edward Callis and John King were the candidates elected to council, but there was also a write-in campaign here. Stanley Callis got 41 write-in votes, which was four short of displacing anyone. There had been 111 votes cast.

The tomboy, Miss Haenftling, termed a college misfit, runs away from a finishing school, poses as a male farm hand and makes love with a pitchfork. She causes considerable trouble before the comedy concludes. The play is under direction of Mrs. Lucille Sines. It is centered about the title song, "My Tomboy Girl", with the theme song, "The Song of Love". The price of admission is 25 and 50 cents.

Mounted Delivery Is Ready to Go In Mt. Lake Nov. 21

Mounted mail delivery service will be ready to begin in Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn Heights on Saturday, November 21, it was announced this week by Guy William Hinebaugh, postmaster of the Oakland office.

The Mayor and Council at the Park completely mapped the area and assigned numbers to all property owners. Persons may find out their house numbers by inquiring from George Perrine, postmaster of the Mt. Lake Park office.

Mr. Perrine also knows the direction the motorized vehicle will take so that patrons may also learn from him which side of the street they should erect the mail boxes.

Mr. Hinebaugh suggested that patrons put their house numbers on the mail box in addition to having them on the house to facilitate the delivery. He also suggested that the mail boxes be 38 inches from the ground.

Donald Scott, who has been a carrier at the Oakland office, has been transferred to Mt. Lake Park and will operate the motor truck. He will have a run of some 18 miles each working day in order to cover Loch Lynn Heights and Mt. Lake Park. The route also includes the Dennett Road and Broadford areas. The route will start from the Mt. Lake office, covering Loch Lynn first. Patrons will number approximately 600. The vehicle was obtained through bids from Ralph Pritts garage.

Mr. Hinebaugh said the delivery would include parcel post as well as other regular mail, and that pick-ups would be made.

Under the plan worked out Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn areas will be under a "classified branch" of the Oakland post office. The Mt. Lake office will retain its identity and no change in personnel is anticipated. There will be a shuttle service between the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park offices and mail will be accepted at both places.

John Ruff is taking the place of Mr. Scott as an Oakland carrier and he will begin work next Monday.

Letter Delivered After Twenty Years

A personal letter, mailed at New Market, Va., in December, 1944, just arrived at its destination about three weeks ago, in Mt. Lake Park. The letter was written by a Mrs. Alcie Goode and was addressed to Mrs. A. A. Callis. Mrs. Callis died in 1954, but it was finally delivered to her son, Stanley Callis

The letter was found on a ledge over a stairway in the town hall at New Market. The post office had been moved from that location several years ago and the letter was discovered in the midst of some cleaning operations.

Callis said the letter was found by a Mrs. Sellers, who started the letter on its long-delayed journey. Additional postage would have had to have been added.

Expansion Program Slated For Company

A program of expansion for the Sherman Enterprises was announced this week by Kenneth Sherman, owner of the Sher-Wood Products, Inc., which would include the probable construction next spring of an entirely new facility along state route 135.

The concern recently purchased some 13.812 acres of the Myrtle McKee estate, on the south side of the highway east of Mt. Lake Park.

Mr. Sherman said the actual production of bowling pins would be started next week, and this activity would eventually cut down on the space now used by the bowling lanes in the Sher-Wood Products building, at the southeast edge of Oakland.

The new facility that would be constructed probably next spring would include bowling lanes and possibly a roller skating rink, Mr. Sherman said.

The Sher-Wood Products building now has a dozen bowling lanes where both ten pins and duck pins are being operated.

Huskies Being Feted

The undefeated and untied football team of Northern High school is being lavishly feted and entertained. Plans for several activities have been made during the week and the team members, cheerleaders, coaches, etc., will begin tomorrow evening at Deep Creek Lodge where the owners have invited the team members, their dates, cheerleaders and coaching staff to be guests at an informal party.

On Saturday the team and cheerleaders have been invited to be guests at the University of Maryland homecoming football game. On Sunday they will be guests at the professional football game in Pittsburgh between the Redskins and the Steelers. Upon their return to Friendsville they will be given refreshments at Mrs. Cupp's drive-in.

The climax will come on Saturday evening, the 21st when the Boosters' Club is having a steak dinner for the team members and the cheerleaders and coaching staff. Parents also are being invited but they will pay $2.50 per plate. A large trophy will be presented to the team, provided by the First National Bank of Oakland.

It was learned last night that the ball used in the final game against St. Francis High school has been gilded, all the boys have signed their names to it and it is being placed on display at Jan Florists in Oakland. The flower shop is also furnishing the centerpiece for the banquet table on the 21st.

Golf Club Elects Four New Directors

Four directors were elected as the Oakland Country Club, Inc., held its annual Stockholders' meeting in the Clubhouse on Saturday, October 31. Those named for a three year term were Mrs. Phyllis Helbig, Ira Whetsell, Paul Hilton and James Compton. The Board of Directors met at Cornish Manor to elect officers for the 1964-65 season. They elected Ron Mills, President; Cheston Browning II, Vice President; Harold Yutzy, treasurer; Charles Briner, secretary.

The Oakland Country Club hopes to expand its 9 hole Course to 18 holes by 1966, it was announced. Improvements also will include enlargement of the Clubhouse and construction of a Swimming Pool for non-golfers. Appointments of committees will be made by President Mills at the next meeting.

Nine Enumerators Named For Census

Those named were Irene Rodeheaver, William Goehringer, Mark Horchler, Edwin Robeson, Ruth Glotfelty, Ethelrae Snyder, Virginia Upole, Earlene Evans and Wanda Maphis.

They are among the 23,000 persons throughout the nation to be employed temporarily by the U. S. Bureau of the Census.

The census of agriculture is taken every five years to gather needed, up to date information on the nation's agricultural resources and production. Enumerators are to be trained in a special four-day home study course.

Official Returns Show No Changes

223 Absentee Ballots Added To Various Totals

The official returns which were canvassed in the Board of Supervisors of Elections last Thursday showed no appreciable change in the results of the election locally.

There were 223 absentee ballots added to the unofficial totals of the previous week with President Johnson and Congressman Sickles the only Democratic candidates to obtain a majority of them. Johnson polled 126 votes among the absentees compared to 83 for Sen. Goldwater, while Sickles got 104 compared to 93 for David Scull.

In the other races Glenn Beall had 113 to 90 for Joe Tydings, for U. S. Senate, and Congressman Mathias got 119 votes as against 81 for Royce Hanson. It was a record absentee vote with 126 civilians and 97 military personnel returning their ballot requests.

These figures left Sen. Goldwater with a majority of 109 in this county with the figures 3515 to 3624. Tydings ended up with a total of 2650 compared to 4232 for Sen. Beall. Sickles wound up with 3009 compared to 3320 for Scull, while Mathias came away with 4434 votes as against 2375 for Hanson. Mathias continued to lead the ticket with 102 more than Sen. Beall.

The final tabulation on the amendments showed amendments one and three carrying in this county while the majority of voters were against amendment two, amendment four and the referendum on public accommodations. All of them carried in the state, however.

The totals were Amendment one, 949 in favor, 793 against; Amendment two, 706 in favor, 811 against; Amendment three, 950 in favor, 877 against; Amendment four, 899 in favor, 936 against; referendum, 857 in favor, 1091 against. The complete official returns including absentee ballots, appear in today's issue.

The dam is located in rear of the homes of Richard O. Glottelty, J. William Glotfelty, Joe Jack Glotfelty and Wilbur Close. Behind the dam there will be a permanent pool of some 5½ acres, which in case of torrential rains could increase to as much as 18 acres.

Present for the official turnover of the dam were Robert Swofford, state administrative officer for the Soil Conservation service, College Park; Bruce Douglas, vice-president of the construction company; Harold H. Harned, secretary to the Wilson Run Watershed association; W. W. Nace, district soil conservationist; William DeBerry, Cecil Kight, local soil conservation workers, Richard Kerslake, and H. B. Bauer, of Frederick; and Emory Smertzler, conservationist engineer, College Park.

The contract price was $52,310.37. The contract was awarded on July 8 and called for completion in 120 days. Specifications called for an earth-fill floodwater retarding structure.

The completion of this dam finished the Wilson Run series in the soil conservation program to prevent flooding of the Oakland business district. There are two other dams and channel improvement project still to be done.

Two other dams on the Cherry Glade run were completed, one of about 5 acres, and one for 4.4 acres. One was completed about two years ago on the former Casteel property, along U. S. route 219, north of Oakland. The other is on the Loomis property, in rear of the Garrett County Memorial hospital.

Also completed is a dam on the headwaters of the Little Youghiogheny river, near Deer Park, which has a permanent pool of about 9½ acres. One of the two dams yet to be built would be in the vicinity of the E. O. Wonderly farm near Loch Lynn, Pleasant Valley, and the other, largest of all the dams, would be on Broadford. The channel improvement would be on the Little Youghiogheny river, from Oakland to where the waters empty into the Big Youghiogheny river.

Seeding for grass will be done next spring.

Driver Hits Fence

Floyd Rounds, 18, of Franklin, near Westernport, was admitted to Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, Saturday night with minor injuries sustained in a motor vehicle accident at Savage River dam in this county.

Harry Bittinger, caretaker at the dam, said the youth evidently lost control of the car and ran across the breast of the dam and struck a fence. The accident was investigated by Trooper Paul Fiorita, of the Maryland State police.

Over 50 At GOP Dinner

Mrs. Kitty Masenburg, Baltimore, president of the Federation of Republican Women's clubs of Maryland, was the speaker. She was introduced by Mrs. Christa Pratt, Kitzmiller, president of the Garrett county club, who also presided at the business session.

Merchants Plan For Holiday Business

Members of the Merchants' committee of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce made plans at their Tuesday luncheon for the coming Christmas season, which included business hours, a special pre-Christmas issue of The Republican, and the erection of special Christmas decorations in the business district of Oakland.

The committee agreed that business places would remain open in the evenings, beginning Monday December 14, remaining open until 9 p. m., until Christmas. All business places would be closed on Saturday, December 26.

Street decorations are to be erected shortly after Thanksgiving. Approximately $1,000 was spent this year for additional Christmas decorations which would be added to those which have been in use the past several years.

County Woodlands Remain Very Dry

Neighboring West Virginia had closed all state forest land for any hunting for the duration of the emergency and that state's small game hunting season was suspended.

Over the week-end in Western Maryland there were five minor fires at Big Curve along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

District Forester W. A. C. Irwin submitted a report on October fires which burned over 9.55 acres. The district includes the four Western Maryland counties.

In this county 1/20th of an acre burned one-fourth mile south of the Browning dam caused by burning of debris in a new development; and ¼ acre on Elder Hill.

Hunters were said to be the main cause of fires. The forester's office indicated that persons illegally smoking bees and squirrels from trees was adding to the danger because of dry forest conditions.

Gas Production Further Reduced For Three Months

County Receives Check For $4,493.81 For Period Ending September 30

The production of natural gas in Garrett county for the quarter ending September 30, showed further reduction in the output.

The report received during the week by the County Commissioners' office showed checks totaling $4,493.81 for the 90-day period which was $4,630.35 less than the previous three months period.

The report published in the Republican July 30, showed receipts of only $4,866.23 which was the amount due from the Texas Eastern corporation. However, an additional report was received a few days later from wells of the C. and A. Gas company, showing receipts of $4,257.93, which would have made the total for that period $9,124.16. This report from the C. and A., was not published.

This week's accounting was the second period of the fiscal year. The money is used to pay back the school bond issue of a number of years ago. A portion of the check always goes to incorporated towns where producing wells are within the corporate limits.

The report this week showed that 261,175,000 cubic feet of gas had been taken from the wells of the area showing an average of some 2,903,055 cubic feet per day. The amount received for marketable gas was $64,197.35.

Thirty-four wells were listed on the report as producing wells. Largest producer was the Herman and Hanlin well of Texas Eastern with 47,644,000 cubic feet. The Black and Frazee well was the second largest with a production of 40,670,000, while the Earl Knox well was third with 29,844000. These two also were Texas Eastern. Largest well in the other group was the N. K. Welch well with 9,191,000 cubic feet. This was the area's first producer.

A breakdown showed that $1,797.53 of the check was from the purchaser's proportion of tax at 2.8 percent of the marketable gas, and $2,696.28 from the producers' proportion of the tax at 4.2 percent. Some checks received by the commissioners in previous periods had amounted to as much as $28,000 but the production has been decreasing steadily for the past several years.

Since the first check for the tax on marketable gas was received in July, 1961, the county's governing body has received $713,405.35.

Auxiliary To Meet

A regular meeting of the Loar Auxiliary to Garrett County Memorial hospital will be held in the board room on Thursday evening, November 19, at 7:30 p. m.

A question and answer period will be held with guests from the Springfield state hospital.

It was announced two memorials were presented to the hospital, one in memory of Mrs. Grace Chisholm, and one in memory of Cheston H. Browning, Sr.

Dinner Nov. 19th To Honor Foster Parents

A dinner and reception at Edge O' Lake restaurant, at Deep Creek on Thursday, November 19, at 6:45 o'clock, will honor Foster Parents in this county, it was announced by Clarence Penman and Mrs. Leo Helbig, co-chairmen for the Garrett County committee for Foster Parents.

The affair will coincide with affairs throughout the state that will pay tribute to Maryland's 3,500 foster parents during the week beginning Sunday, November 15.

There are 17 approved foster homes in the county, and there are 71 children being cared for in these foster homes.

A special feature will be the presentation of testimonial certificates signed by J. Millard Tawes, governor, to the men and women who have served as foster parents for five years or more.

Mrs. Helbig said all of the foster homes were in rural areas. Some of the foster parents have been active in the program for twenty years.

Foster Parents Week also is being observed in an effort to interpret the Foster Home program to the community and to recruit additional foster parents.

"THE CHRISTIAN HOME TODAY"

What is a home? What makes it a Christian home? What are the elements that go to making up a home?

In the next few lines, we shall deal with these questions and see what we can find in the scriptures to answer these questions. But first let us ask ourselves the question, what is a home? Is it a building made of mortar and brick? Is it a structure made of wood and plaster? Truly we can call this description a house, but a house is not a home, although a home is in a house. Webster gives us the following description. I quote: Home-The place where a person or persons live: A place where one likes to be. A restful and congenial place. God's word has the beginning of the home with Adam and Eve, a perfect union with God the creator and the maker of the man, woman, and the institution called the home.

A Christian home today is family under God. A family living in divine revelation with the laws of God. A familiy where God is the center of the entire life; both of the woman, the man, and the children that God has endowed to these, the man and the woman.

Over in the book of Matthew, chapter 7, verse 24 through 29 tells us of the two foundations which we may have in building our homes. I do not believe that this is speaking of mud and bricks, stone and stubble, but rather that the word of God is speaking of our lives, as a spiritual family living here on this earth.

As we read these verses carefully, we see that the first foundation is built on solid rock which is Christ Jesus, the Lord, who should be the supreme commander of life in all its entirety, in all of our decisions as a family under God. A home which is the members of the family, within the walls of a house, as a Christian home is like to this that is mentioned in Matthew 7:24-25 as the house that is built on a rock with a solid foundation, which is Jesus Christ

We move on to the second thought which we find, and that is the elements which go into making up the Christian home. 1. The father, 2. the mother, 3. the children and Christ the head of the family.

A christian father is a man of God. He is a man of prayer that will be able to lead his family into a worship with God, through the means of prayer. He is the teacher and guardian of spiritual riches and reliefs. God who is the father of all, leads the Christian father to a genuine faith in God through Jesus Christ.

Gensis 18:19. "For I know Him, that He will command His children and his household after Him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment, that the Lord may bring upon Abraham, that which he hath spoken of Him".

As a Christian mother in the home under God's direction her role is honored by God. In the book of Proverbs 31:28: "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed." Genisis 17:16: "God's promise to Sarah. "Yes I will bless her and she shall be a mother of nations." Both in the old and the new testament, the home is mentioned in many ways.

Motherhood is a serious position that should not be taken lightly, because God honors a mother who is faithful to Him in rearing the family and along with the Christian father are held in esteem.

God did not complete the home circle until he sent children into the midst to complete His holy plan. Children are to honor their mother and their father, and in doing so, honor God in their expression of love and devotion to their parents.

This completes the institution of God as the home under the direction of God and under His divine laws, as a Christian home in the 20th century era. It is sad to see so many families go on the rocks and perhaps end up in one of our divorce courts, or worse, when all it takes to have a Christian home is for the family to come to Jesus Christ and then live for Him eternally. God bless our homes.

ASK YOUR PHARMACIST

QUESTION:

I've always had trouble swallowing pills. Is there an easy way to do it?

ANSWER:

Yes, there is an easy way to do it. First raise your tongue and place the pill on the floor of your mouth just behind your lower teeth. Keeping your tongue raised (so there's little or no taste sensation) drink a glass of water, forgetting the pill behind your teeth. While you're engaged in swallowing, the pill will be washed down your throat, usually with no taste or feeling. Do it this way and even the most bitter medication gives no taste unless you wait too long.

Well Deserved Honor . . .

Northern High School's football team has achieved a well deserved honor. They have provided the county with its first undefeated and untied team in the history of football.

Southern High has had football teams since 1953 and Northern High came upon the scene two years later. There was no doubt that this year's eleven had some of the best players in its ten-year history. The teams they played were certainly no push-overs but were some of the better teams in Somerset and Preston counties. Two of the teams were from high schools in Morgantown.

Never once did the players become discouraged, or if they did they didn't show it. Upon several occasions opposing teams started out like the score would be lopsided against the Huskies but each time their determination to come out on top prevailed.

They were a fighting team from the start of the season and the results have brought commendation from football lovers all over the area. The difficulties of day after day practice sessions were overcome by the faithfulness of members of the Boosters' club who saw that the players were returned to their homes each evening.

The undefeated season was not entirely due to the players. The coaching staff must come in for its share of the glory, and here too, Jack Lear must take his bow.

The Huskies had very fine offensive power, scoring 173 points in the nine-game season, compared to 60 for the opposition. They rose to great heights also on defense.

The net result should be to stimulate interest in the years ahead, thus making for better rivalry between the two schools of the county. It was Northern's year and they certainly made the best of it. We add our congratulations to the many we know they have already received.

Letter to The Editor

Dear Editor:

Yes, I will be among the crowd of people at the Armory to get a permit for anterless deer and so will my friends. I'm sure it is my privilege to do as I please with the permit and my friends and I will be getting one merely to destroy it, and by doing so, trying to save some of our deer here in this county.

Where has the sport of hunting gone? Yes, I am a lover of deer hunting, but for the fun and enjoyment my friends and I get by hunting together for bucks, certainly never to kill the mothers and destroy our deer population. Go ahead! Kill them all this year and be sure to have lots of fun, because this will be the end if you do.

I have seen a good example of what doe season has done in nearby W. Va., if it weren't for some of our deer going into W. Va., from Md., they wouldn't have any to hunt now. Where will our deer come from after you help kill them all ? ?

After Buck season is over, my land will be posted and I will see that no hunting is done here for I want to keep the does on my property. By posting your land, you too can help save some of our deer.

Why did you and I sit back and let this law get voted in? I suppose I thought the people who were involved were good sportsmen and would want to preserve our deer so all of us could continue to enjoy this great sport.

If anyone knows how we can get rid of this dirty law, please tell us how and let's do it now before it's too late. Or, is it already too late? We didn't speak up soon enough, now look wnat we have done.

Remember dear friends, every permit each of us gets and destroys may save a deer life.

Huskies Conclude

Buckel started Northern on the road to victory in the first period when he skirted right end for 30 yards and a touchdown. Edwards hit Wilbur Hinebaugh with a pass for the extra point.

In the second period Edwards sneaked over from the one for the game's second six-pointer and then Edwards passed to Ohlen Umbel for the additional point. Halftime score was 14-0. Buckel climaxed Northern's third period drive by running over from the three. The try for the extra point failed.

The Huskies stopped several drives of St. Francis throughout the game, until late in the closing moments. St. Francis had won an earlier game from Southern Highlanders at Morgantown 25 to 6.

The victory enabled Coach Jack Lear's eleven to give Garrett county its first unbeaten and untied team. Northern has fielded teams since 1955 after Oakland came into the grid picture in 1953.

Danny Nicklow who paced the ground gainers with 108 yards, set up the second touchdown with a 55 yard gallop. Buckel sprinted 58 yards prior to the third TD and wound up with a total of 83 yards.

Edwards picked up 48 yards on the ground. St. Francis had the edge in first downs 10 to 7 but couldn't maintain a sustained drive until the fourth period. The Huskies completed three of eleven passes while St. Francis completed three of five.

In gaining the undefeated season the Huskies took Valley high of Lonaconing 21-6; Terra Alta 19-7; Kingwood, 19-6; Southern 33-6; Thomas 14-7; Masontown Valley 20-0; University High of Morgantown 20-15; and Berlin 7-6, in addition to their final victory over St. Francis 20-7.

Five of Northern's home games were played on Southern's lighted field, providing much larger attendance than would have been possible with afternoon games.

Approximately 1,500 fans were on hand for the final contest.

The Huskies' dressing room following the contest was a scene of wild rejoicing. It also was a wet one as the members celebrated by giving clothes-on showers to coach Lear, athletic director Lilburn Brown and Robert Rodeheaver, principal, apparently a traditional custom with undefeated seasons.

County athletic rivalries were forgotten in this contest which saw many Southern Highlander rooters pulling for the Huskies in their perfect season bid. One of the first persons to extend congratulations to coach Jack Lear was Dick Travis, Southern's athletic director.

Election Analysis

The true meaning of the election was not a rejection of conservatives but merely a sign that people did not want to "change horses in midstream". At least, that is the opinion of David Lawrence, editor of U. S. News and World Report, and also a syndicated columnist. His appraisal appeared in daily newspapers one day last week.

He felt that many people were of the opinion that President Johnson was a conservative at heart—one opposed to radicalism. Results of other contests were listed to point out that where Goldwater was not endorsed by a number of candidates, they still were defeated. He cited Senator Keating of New York; Robert Taft of Ohio; Charles H. Percy, for governorship of Illinois. Against that there was George Murphy, conservative Republican, who was victorious in California. Conservatism was not rejected in Virginia, with Senator Harry Byrd being re-elected by a greater majority than Mr. Johnson received.

Mr. Lawrence said President Johnson recognized the point when he selected Senator Hubert Humphrey to be his running mate, so as to satisfy liberal sentiment.

The theory that the election was a repudiation of conservatism and victory for liberalism or moderate point of view, will be disputed. Votes at the next sessions of Congress would provide a better criterion than the recent presidential election.

Americans generally do not vote for a change in administration when peace and prosperity prevail. People vote on conditions as they are at the time, and not as they might be in the future.

He felt the American electorate was affected by a public impression, inaccurate though it may be. On radio, TV and in the press Senator Goldwater was pictured as a rash and irresponsible person who might precipitate a war.

The voters demonstrated that two basic issues usually influence them most—economic, insofar as employment or profits are concerned, and emotional, such as the fear that American youth soon might be drafted for war.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my husband, Ray Nicklow, who died three years ago, November 14, 1961.

I thought I would take time to write you a letter, and tell you how you are sadly missed by all.

I am still by myself, and when night comes I get pretty lonesome. God knew best when he took you away.

Sadly missed by wife and children.

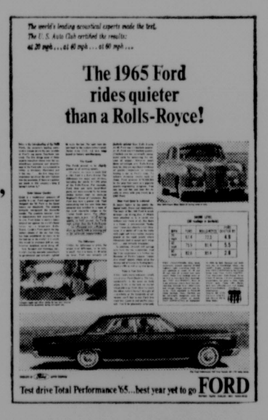
"Bunk!" "Hard to believe..." "Must have had a 50-year-old Rolls..." "Come on now..." "Amazing..."



"This ad kills me..." "Incredible!" "Ridiculous!" "Farfetched!" "Hooey!"

To the 5 out of 10 people who didn't believe this ad...

Take a no-obligation test drive in a 1965 Ford. Maybe you just couldn't believe the ad (reprinted above) which appeared in this paper a few weeks ago. After all, many consider Rolls-Royce to be one of the world's finest cars. But Ford does ride quieter. The world's leading acoustical experts (Bolt, Beranek and Newman, Inc.) made the tests. The U. S. Auto Club certified the results. Why not make your own test?

Quiet means quality

This year's Ford has the strongest body ever . . . a revolutionary new frame that "tunes out" vibrations . . . new ultrasoft coil-spring suspensions . . . and dozens of other engineering advances—all contributing to the new hushed ride. But the ride is only part of what's new.

■ New swept-back design instrument panel adds five inches extra knee room. ■ New ultra-luxurious LTD series—unmatched by any other car in Ford's class. ■ Silent-Flo ventilation (standard on 4-door hardtops) removes stale air, provides fresh air even with all windows closed. ■ XL and LTD models pack a hot, but hushed, 289-cu. in. V-8 as standard equipment. ■ Other models sport Ford's smooth, thrifty all-new Big Six—the most powerful standard Six of any "big three" car. ■ All Ford automatic transmissions have 3 speeds, not 2 as in many competing cars.

If all this sounds like a lot for one car to offer . . . take a test drive. More people are buying Fords than ever before in post-war history.

Club Will Select Outstanding Young Farmer of Area

The Frostburg Jaycees are hoping to secure better rural-urban relations as they prepare to conduct an interview survey of farmers between 21 and 35 in the Allegany and Garrett county areas. The end result of this search will be in the naming of the 1964 outstanding young farmer.

This is the ninth year that the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce has run its Outstanding Young Farmer program. Joining with the Jaycees as a co-sponsor is the National LP-Gas Market Development Council. This is the first year that the Frostburg Jaycees have sponsored this program.

Jaycees are presently laying plans for the major job in this program, which is the interviewing of eligible farmers of the area. Facts gathered by the Jaycee workers will be kept on permanent file and will be updated each year.

Names of the more promising candidates will be given to a special judging committee to select the area's outstanding young farmer. Selection will be based on career progress, conservation practices, and service to the community.

Climaxing the program will be the farmer recognition banquet to be held December 15, at the Maplehurst Country Club in Frostburg. The winner and runner-up will be announced by the committee at that time.

The area winner will be entered into state competition at Salisbury, in January and should he win, then will advance to the national finals April 11-13 in Fort Collins, Colorado.

Police Demonstrate Trained Dog For Lions Club Banquet

At the regular meeting of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions on last Monday, Trooper Richard Graham and his Police dog "Prince" gave a demonstration of how the police dogs act when an emergency arises. Two of the Lions, Jim Nordeck and Dr. H. R. Gibson were volunteers to use the sleeve and have the dog attack them. The Lions members appeared impressed by this newest operation of the Maryland State Police.

Three new members were inducted into the Club. They were Tom Kuhn and Tom Yeager from Southern High School and Dr. Jack Roth, local dentist. This brings the membership of the Lions club to 80.

The fencing of the football field at Southern High has been almost completed. Some small construction and painting is yet to be done. This has been financed by the Lions and receipts from the snack stand operated by the Lions at football games go to paying for this fence.

The Project Chairman, William Naylor, states that the Lions will sell fruit cakes at its next meeting, Monday, November 23. The price of the cakes will be $3.00 and this will include a metal decorated round can which houses the cake. Residents of Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn are being asked to turn on their porch lights from 7:30 to 9:00 on that night.

A number of bills for sight examinations for children was approved and more applications were received for this service.

Sheep Count Toward His State 4-H Award

In his nine years of 4-H Club work, Guy of Grantsville has cared for 237 ewes, lambs and rams.

Now the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy S. Stanton, Sr. and a student at the University of Maryland will enter his records in the "sheep achievement" category for countrywide recognition and a possible scholarship at Chicago's National 4-H Club Congress, Nov. 28 - Dec. 3.

A profitable project, Guy says, "My experience of Hampshire sheep raising and advice from my father have paid handsome returns in the selling of market lambs and breeding stock."

He reinvests some of the money back into his flock's care on the family's 227-acre farm and uses the rest to buy U. S. savings bonds.

Happy with his income, Guy says "There have been bad times such as a prize animal dying and poor market prices, but the good times outnumber the bad".

A graduate of Northern High School, Guy says, "My project has taught me the big job of livestock management. It has also helped me manage my financial interests and investments."

An active participant in County Fairs, Guy thinks the most important aspect of his 4-H career has been his citizenship training in which he's learned to serve "club, community and country" while working with other young people.

Guy is one of seven having record books vieing for national awards at the club congress. They are not eligible for a free trip to Chicago but thirty other 4-H state winners will have that opportunity.

For in these very years before she fully understands its truth, a child learns to respect God's Word. Reverence is born. A sense of the importance of religion develops.

The passages must be short . . . and sensibly chosen. Childish but searching questions must be answered. Mother and Dad will soon discover that explaining Truth to their child deepens their own comprehension.

Take advantage of a parent's most sacred privilege. Introduce your child to God. Make the Bible part of the family. Participate in and cooperate with the Church's program of religious education.

Workman

Lesson for November 15, 1964

Background Scripture: II Timothy 2:1 through 3:9, 14-17.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40:6-11.

A SOLDIER, an athlete, a farmer: what do they have in common? They are all masculine, for one thing. They are strong and active; they do often what is unpleasant or even dangerous at the time. And they all are valuable to the society in which they live.

Dr. Foreman

It is interesting that the author of II Timothy does not liken Christian men to angels, students, members of an audience, or women no matter how good. He sees in the soldier, the athlete, and the farmer symbols of what the Christian is intended to be. Christian life is a battle; it is a game (played seriously, as games should be); it is making a crop. Hence the Christian is said to be soldier, athlete and farmer. The Christian life in short is a doing life, a working life. The Christian knows what not everyone knows; he thinks and says what most people do not either think of, or say. But above all and with it all the the Christian is a doer.

For every good work

This little letter to Timothy was written to a preacher by a preacher. Then why read it if I'm not a preacher? Well, it's more than a matter of looking over Paul's or Timothy's shoulder to see what preachers talk about when they are by themselves. Paul speaks of the man of God. (And if you, layman or not, don't think you are God's man, then whose man are you?) Paul speaks of equipping the Christian for every good work. Now the work of a preacher is not the work of the housewife, not the work of the scientist or the business man. But if the church had thought that Paul was writing for one preacher and for no one else, they never would have preserved the letter and eventually put it into the Bible. "Every good work" means EVERY good work — what we do for a living and what we do for others in our off hours — whatever any man does that is good.

The well-equipped workman

There never yet was a workman, professional or do-it-yourself type, who couldn't improve his work by using better tools. Now the tool or tools for the Christian's good work is nothing less than the Bible. The better a man learns to use his Bible, to understand it and to live by it, the better his workmanship will be.

Don't and do

How the Bible operates is shown in one of the best-known and often quoted sentences in the letters to Timothy. First of all Paul says it is inspired. That is, the Bible's power does not lie in its literary polish nor in any of the qualities that go to make what we call a strong book. The power of the Bible is the power of God who speaks through it. Paul says further that it is a teaching book, — he does not call it mainly a preaching book. As a teaching book, it works in two ways. First is "reproof." A sincere reader of the Bible will come to thoughts — in parables, poems, stories, letters — which pierce his armor of self-satisfaction and bring him up short. For the Bible brings in many ways the judgment of God on many of man's cherished ways and cherished delusions. It is like a red light above a highway that says STOP!

But the Bible does much more than show us what is wrong with us; it shows what the right way is. The Bible was not written by or for people on a tropical island who can live ideal lives without running into resistance. The Bible was written by men who knew what it is to try to live a good life in a bad world. If the Bible did nothing else for us, it would be priceless for the inside stories of men "of like passions with ourselves," who in the midst of an uncertain and sin-infested world, were able to live above and through it all as sons and daughters of the Most High. For God's book brings God's life to God's men.

THE BIBLE

This book contains the mind of God, the state of man, the way of salvation, the doom of sinners, and the happiness of believers.

Its doctrines are holy, its precepts are binding, its histories are true, and its decisions immutable.

Read it to be wise. Believe it to be safe, and practice it to be Holy.

It contains Light to direct you, food to support you, and comfort to cheer you.

Christ is its grand object, our good, its desire, and the glory of God its end.

It should fill the memory, rule the heart, guide the feet.

Read it slowly, frequently, and prayerfully.

It is a mine of wealth, a paradise of glory, and a river of pleasure.

It is given you in life, will be opened in judgment, and will be remembered forever.

It involves the highest responsibility, will reward the highest labor, and will condemn all who trifle with its sacred contents.

Copeman Is Honored As "Friend of 4-H"

James L. Copeman, agricultural counselor for Monongahela Power company, Fairmont, was honored during the week by the National Association of County 4-H club agents as a "Friend of 4-H". The citation was one of two made this year, the other recipient being a Wisconsin agriculture director.

The citation was conferred upon Copeman at the annual meeting at Madison, Wisconsin. Only 24 "Friend of 4-H" citations have been conferred in the 11 years since the award was established. Three others have gone to West Virginians, Mrs. Helen Tucker Waters, rural counselor, Monongahela Power, 1959; T. H. McGovran, Charleston, 1962, and Curtis T. Lambert, Philippi, 1963.

The citation read: "Mr. Copeman has gone far beyond the call of duty in assisting with the 4-H club program on a local, county, regional and state basis . . . There are so many ways that he has helped with the 4-H program that we almost think of him as a fellow extension worker. There is no man in West Virginia other than extension employes who has done more for the 4-H program than James Copeman. Time after time he has gone far beyond the call of duty to assist in some way with the 4-H program. He is ready on every occasion to back and support 4-H work."

Copeman also works with the Farming for Better Living program in West Virginia counties and Garrett county.

State Income Tax Increase Repealed

The Maryland Legislature, acting swiftly, repealed last Friday the state income tax increase it voted in prolonged argument last March. Gov. Tawes made it official with his signature 10 minutes after the two houses adjourned from their five-hour special session.

Taxpayers now can forget the one-third boost they would have had to start paying January 1. They had protested the increase in many letters, telegrams, telephone calls and petitions.

Tawes told a joint session it was an "unprecedented" peacetime prosperity and not public pressure which made possible the repeal of the tax. He said the legislature acted responsibly in voting the tax increase earlier to finance a new $16.2 million program of aid to education and to meet other spending needs.

A Senator, Paul A. Dorf, Baltimore, one who had opposed the tax boost as unnecessary, declared "We ought to thank the many, many thousands of people who expressed themselves. You can see the people wrote this mandate."

And in the house Republicans including J. Glenn Beall, Jr., minority leader, poked fun at the Democrats for accepting estimates that the Republicans claimed last March were too low.

The session called by Gov. Tawes to repeal the tax boost was confined entirely to that. Legislative leaders refused to act on tax legislation for Baltimore City and other bills among the total of 24 introduced.

Vetoes Are Sustained

The Maryland Legislature sustained Gov. Tawes' veto of 13 bills from the regular session, prior to the short special session.

In the Senate there was a flurry over the veto of a bill which would have permitted truckers to shift a load from an overweight axle without penalty. But backers were three votes shy of the 18 necessary to override the governor.

In the House there was criticism of Tawes' veto of a bill to prohibit dual ownership of Pimlico and Charles Town race tracks before he was finally sustained 83-44.

Tawes had cited opposition from the State Roads commission for his veto of the axle-weight bill. The agency said it would "encourage if not promote careless loading practices which could do major violence to Maryland highways, and to certain bridges."

More than 69.3 million Americans, a record, voted November 3.

What is a fair price for Verrocchio's Horseman?

Verrocchio's bronze statue of a horseman is one of the world's masterpieces. It is not for sale. But if it were, the price undoubtedly would be a fortune.

The dollar value of a sculpture such as Verrocchio's horseman is determined by the desire of someone to own it. The price has no relationship to what it cost to make.

On the other hand, the price you pay for natural gas service is determined by known factors. It includes the actual cost of the gas and the cost of the equipment and labor necessary to bring the gas into your home.

These costs are evaluated by the Public Service Commission. The Commission determines their fairness and permits your gas company a limited, but not guaranteed, profit.

Your gas company must earn its profit by careful management and efficient operation.

The price you pay for gas, unlike the price of an art object, is not a matter of speculation. Gas rates are based on facts—precisely reviewed and analyzed.

This assures you the price you pay for gas service is fair.

Three Is A Crowd In Buggy Built For Two

By Henry Arnold

In the summer of 1908, when this week's Old Picture is believed to have been taken, the new brick pavement on Third street had just been completed, the new Court House was finished and the wall and sidewalk in front of the building was under construction.

This was as good a time as any to have a photograph taken, so Misses Edith Bolden, Dora Brown and Cora Frantz went to a local livery stable, rented a "U-Drive" vehicle, and chose this spot to pose.

Before the horseless carriage became the popular method of transportation, this buggy was known as a "two passenger rig," and it rented for $1.00 per hour. Obviously, the horsepower was limited.

It appears that the three may have been a little crowded on the seat, but there was plenty of room on the street. The traffic situation at this spot is much different today. I know.

Plan Covered Dish Supper

Mrs. Paul Naylor will have charge of a brief Thanksgiving day program.

Loch Lynn Scouts Receive New Charter

The boy scout charter for troop 95, sponsored by the Loch Lynn PTA was presented at a meeting in the school Monday evening.

Hugh Denison, member of the Deep Creek district scouting committee, made the presentation to Mrs. Nina Tucker, PTA president. Membership cards also were given to W. M. Callis, institutional representative; Stanley Callis, chairman; Edward Callis, Joe Turney, Vane Iden, Glenn Simpson, Percy Thayer, committeemen; and Melvin Sisler, scoutmaster.

Membership cards also were presented by the scoutmaster to scouts, David Sisler, Kyle Sisler, Wayne Callis, Mike Callis, Mike Weeks, Mike Raleigh, David Turney, John Simpson and Billy Kemphfer.

A report showed that during the charter year the troop had three advancements, Eagle, Star and second class with one earning his God and Country award. Two boys earned eleven merit badges. Kyle Sisler and Wayne Callis earned perfect attendance bars for the second year and the troop earned the national camping award for the third year. The members take Boys' Life 100 percent, for the 4th year.

The troop had 18 days and nights of camping with eight attending summer camp, earning 8 red and 7 blue ribbons for patrol competition. They won the fastest knot tieing award for the 2nd year at Camp Potomac. They earned four blue ribbons while attending spring and fall camporees. One boy was elected to Order of the Arrow.

The troop is working on the McCullough trail and helping to keep the Loch Lynn city park clean. They erected a flag pole in the park and Wayne Callis sees that the flag flies every day.

Twelve Are Killed On State Highways

Twelve persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.

Four of those killed were drivers; two were passengers; and six were pedestrians

Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths; speed in six; and "driver error" was present in eight of the fatalities.

"Last week pedestrians accounted for half of the fatalities on Maryland highways," commented Colonel Carey Jarman, Superintendent of the Maryland State Police. "Four of them had been drinking. Such a situation creates a formidable highway hazard, especially at night and points to the necessity of caution by all who use the highway".

Notice of Enactment of Charter Amendment Resolution For The Town of Mt. Lake Park

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 1 of the Mayor and Council of the Town of Mt. Lake Park, titled "A Resolution to repeal and re-enact Sections 410 through 427 of the Code of the Public Local Laws of Garrett County (Everstine's 1957 edition being Chapter 507 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland), titled" 'Mt. Lake Park', the said Sections being the Charter of the Town of Mt. Lake Park", was passed on November 5, 1964, pursuant to the authority of Article XI-E of the Constitution of the State of Maryland and Article 23A and Article 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), to repeal the present Charter of the Town of Mt. Lake Park as contained in Sections 410 through 427 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Garrett County, (Everstine's 1957 edition) and to enact in lieu thereof the municipal corporation charter contained in Article 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), title "Municipal Corporation Charter", with the following exceptions:

Whereas the Model Charter provides for a Mayor and five Councilmen elected for four year terms, and a veto power for the Mayor, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for a Mayor and four Councilmen elected for two year terms and the Mayor has the right to vote in lieu of a veto power.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for the publishing of the text of each ordinance and the mechanics for a referendum thereon, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for the publishing of a summary of each ordinance and omits the provisions of a referendum by petition.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for conventions or primary elections the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for a convention.

Whereas the Model Charter does not specifically provide for the issuance of bonds, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for the issuance of bonds in accordance with Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Whereas the Model Charter contains detailed provisions concerning a merit system for municipal personnel, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter does not provide for a merit system.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for the salary of the Mayor and Council to be established by ordinance, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter established the salary in the Charter.

Whereas the Model Charter provides that a person need reside in the Town for 6 months in order to become a qualified voter, the new Charter for Mt. Lake Park requires a one year residency in town.

Whereas the Model Charter requires a public hearing on the budget, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter states that the Council may hold a public hearing on the budget.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for specific ordinance governing the welfare of the municipal community, the Mt. Lake Park Charter amends some of these provisions and adds others which have been carried over from already existing town ordinances.

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 1 adopted November 5, 1964, shall become effective on December 15, 1964, unless a proper petition for referendum is filed before December 15, 1964, in accordance with the provision of Section 13, Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended).

No. 5332 Equity In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Order of Publication

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree declaring absolute ownership of Lot No. 23, Block U, in Steele's Plan of the Town of Friendsville in Garrett County, Maryland, to be vested in the complainants and that the heirs, devisees and personal representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife be enjoined from asserting any claim to said Lot No. 23, block U. The Bill states:

That they are in constructive and peaceable possession under color of title of Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the Lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, which was devised by Benjamin F. Schroyer, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased, to Nancy Elizabeth Schroyer, widow, and upon her death to Cecil W. Schroyer, Ada Blanche Lewellen and Ruth R. Frantz, by the last will and testament of the said Benjamin F. Schroyer, dated October 22, 1943, recorded in Will Liber E, folio 473, one of the Will records in the Register of Wills for Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said last will and testament being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that your orators have endeavored to convey said land but prospective purchasers therefor have denied and disputed the title of your orators; that said Lot No. 23, Block U, was conveyed by G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, to William H. Friend, by deed dated February 3, 1893, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 34, folio 98&c., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 2" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof, and was inadvertently described as Lot No. 23, Block B, but described as being at the end of 25 feet from a point on Maple Street and Morris Avenue where Lot No. 23, Block U is situate and located; that by mesne conveyance said Lot No. 23, Block U was ultimately conveyed by Blanche Guard and C. V. Guard, her husband, to the said Benjamin F. Schroyer by deed dated April 13, 1919, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 76, folio 155, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, which said deed is filed herewith, marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 3", and prayed to be taken as a part hereof and in said deed incorrectly referred to as Lot No. 23, Block B; that said Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, was not conveyed by said G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, except as herein before set forth; that there is no action at law nor any proceeding in equity pending to enforce or test the validity of the title to said lot; that the contentions of prospective buyers of Lot No. 23, Block U in Steele's Plan of the Lots of the Town of Friendsville, in Garrett County, Maryland, are without merit and constitute a cloud upon the title of the owners.

It is thereupon ORDERED this 20th day of October, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a cpoy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, one a week for four successive weeks before the 13th day of November, 1964, giving notice to the unknown heirs, devisees and personal representatives of G. M. Steele and Florence Steele, his wife, of the object and substance of the Bill of Complaint and warning them to be and appear in this Court either in person or by solicitor on or before the 14th day of December, 1964, to show cause, if any they may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Giving Thanks . . . .

President Lyndon B. Johnson on November 13, issued his Thanksgiving proclamation. It said in' part:

"As the harvest season draws to a close and our storehouses bulge with the bounty of the land, it is our desire to observe, in the custom and tradition of our forebears, a special day dedicated to giving thanks to God—a day on which to lay aside our daily tasks and cares and pay joyous homage to Him. We are impelled to raise our voices in His praise and to proclaim our heartfelt gratitude for another year in which we have been blessed with a bountiful harvest, with intellectual, humanitarian, economic, scientific and technical advances and achievements and with other gains too numerous to mention

"We are filled with an instinctive impulse to give thanks for our free society of free men, free institutions, and free elections; our freedom of speech, our freedom of the press, our freedom to worship as our conscience dictates, our emphasis upon the dignity, equality and worth of man; our humanitarian instincts; our unalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; our confidence in our ability to meet the challenges of today and of the future; for these are the things that set us apart as a Nation—that made our Nation great—that will keep our Nation great

"Let us gather in our homes and in our places of worship and in other suitable places to give thanks to God for His graciousness and His generosity to us—to pledge to Him our everlasting devotion—to beseech His divine guidance and the wisdom and strength to recognize and follow that guidance—and to pray to Him that the forces of evil, violence, indifference, intolerance, and inhumanity may soon vanish from the face of the earth, and that peace, reason, understanding, and good will may reign supreme throughout the world."

Farmers Continue To Post Lands As Deer Season Nears

The sentiment against the coming doe season December 18 and 19 didn't seem to abate any during the week, as additional property owners continued to post their lands warning hunters not to trepass or hunt on their property.

A goodly number of hunters, however, were expected to be in the woods for the opening of the buck season which begins on Friday, November 27, and will continue until Saturday evening, December 5, excluding Sunday.

In spite of the thousands of acres of land that will be closed to hunting this year, the state Game and Inland Fish commission announced there were 75,594 acres of state owned hunting lands in this county. They are located in Mt. Nebo Wildlife management area, Deep Creek recreation area, Swallow Falls state forest, Savage River state forest and Potomac State forest.

A new regulation in force this year requires that all deer must be checked in the county where they are killed. Checking stations include Edwards garage, Grantsville; Matt Storey's, on Deep Creek Lake, near McHenry; Yough Motor company, Friendsville; and Carroll Miller's Mt. Top Tire and Sport shop in Oakland.

A special firearm stamp is required to hunt deer by means of firearms in addition to regular license.

Democrat Club Meets

Members of the Friendsville and Accident Democratic Women's club met at the home of Mrs. Ward Livengood, Friendsville, Monday evening.

Letters were read by Mrs. Harry Seggie, president, from President Johnson, Senator-elect Joseph Tydings, and Congressman Carlton Sickles, in appreciation of their congratulatory letters and the club's help in the recent election.

The club presented altar flowers of white mums and pompons at Grace and St. Paul's Lutheran churches in memory of President Kennedy on Sunday.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Livengood. The next meeting will be in February, at the home of Mrs. Barbara VanSickle, in Accident.

North Glade Home Destroyed By Fire

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beckman, of North Glade was entirely destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Monday evening around 9 o'clock.

Oakland firemen answered the call as an assist to the Deer Park Fire company, but continued to the scene when it was learned that the Deer Park truck had broken down and was unable to fight the fire effectively.

It was ,a bungalow type home with parts of it unfinished. There was no insurance.

The Beckman family was not at home at the time of the blaze and could throw no light as to the cause of the blaze. Mr. and Mrs. Beckman have two sons at home, while two others are married and away. The home burned completely to the ground and nothing was saved.

Rumors of Bear Cub Being Struck by Car

Rumors were flying around Oakland this week that a bear cub had been struck by an automobile at the entrance of Herrington Manor on the Swallow Falls road early Tuesday morning.

The rumor could not be confirmed. The superintendent at the Manor knew of no details, there was no knowledge of it at the sheriff's office and the game wardens apparently had not heard of it. No one seemed to know who had struck the club and whether or not it had been killed.

Foster Parents Are Honored Last Thurs. At Dinner

Six Couples Given Citations For Five Or More Years Of Service

Some sixty persons gathered last Thursday evening for a dinner meeting honoring the county's foster parents at Edge O' Lake restaurant. The week of November 16 to 21 was observed throughout the state in an effort in interpret the foster home program to the community and to recruit additional foster parents.

Five speakers were on the program to emphasize the work being done through foster home care and special citations were given to foster parents who had given five years or more of continuous care and service.

Dr. Arthur F. Jones, health officer, spoke from his knowledge and experience of health needs of foster children and of the excellence of care and attention given to these needs by the foster parents. A. B. Dean, supervisor of pupil personnel, Board of Education, commented on his observations of the educational progress and development of children who had gone into foster care. He stressed the stability of foster homes as a factor of primary importance enabling children to make use of the educational program.

Fred A. Thayer III, state's attorney, talked of the role of his office and of the court in juvenile cases and of his court experience with juveniles. He indicated that those neglected and delinquent children coming into Juvenile Court and committed to foster care are rarely brought back into court. He attributed this to the fact that foster parents provided these children with the kind of love, guidance and care which had been lacking previously.

Mrs. Kathryn S. Helbig, child welfare worker, reminisced about her experience working with foster parents in behalf of the agency's

Files Petition For New Hearing Under Post Convictions Act

Frank Earl Browne, 39, who was found guilty on two counts of a six count indictment in a morals charge involving an 11-year old girl, when tried before a jury in the Circuit court, and later sentenced to serve five years in the Maryland penitentiary, has filed a petition for a re-hearing under the post conviction procedures act.

W. Dwight Stover was named by Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill to represent Browne. Stover was ordered to file an amended petition which would be answered by the state and following the completion of these regulations Associate Judge Harold C. Naughton, Cumberland was to be advised and he would set a date for the hearing.

Browne had been charged with rape, assault with intent to rape, statutory rape (carnal knowledge of one under 14), assault with intent to commit rape, simple assault and incest. The latter count was dismissed by agreement of the attorneys.

A petit jury heard the case and deliberated over two hours before returning a verdict of guilty on the fourth and fifth counts, assault with intent to commit statutory rape, and simple assault.

The trial was held February 16, 1964, and sentenced pronounced March 30 following a pre-sentence investigation by James F. Lewis, probation officer. A report had previously been filed as the result of psychiatric examination at the Clifton T. Perkins hospital which declared the man of sound mind.

Browne had been held in the county jail in Oakland since September 7 when he was arrested by Trooper first class Donald A. Tucker.

In Browne's petition filed in the Circuit court he declares he is not guilty, that his denial was disregarded, that the court did not provide him with technical assistance so he could be made to understand the court happenings, that he was not guilty of such charge.

An answer to the petition has been filed by Fred A. Thayer, state's attorney, declaring he was adequately represented by counsel and that many recesses had been

Thanksgiving Dinner Cost Is Moderate

Despite the apparent high cost of living, the Thanksgiving dinner this year is going to cost very little if any more than a Thanksgiving dinner of 20 or 30 years ago.

Main reason for this was the current prices of turkeys ranging from 27 to 39 cents per pound for frozen birds. Fresh turkeys still were running higher but these are not as plentiful as in former years.

Twenty-five years ago it was possible to purchase a turkey for less than 35 cents. In 1914 prices ranged from 20 to 25 cents per pound for dressed fowl and 15 to 18 cents a pound for live weight.

Other items on the Thanksgiving menu have risen throughout the period, but cranberries, pumpkins, potatoes, and other delicacies are still within reach of most persons (If one isn't in the poverty belt.)

Also on the market and plentiful are capons, Cornish hens, ham, beef roasts and chickens, at reasonable prices.

Cooperation Sought

James A. McHenry, extension agent, said Wednesday that cooperation of the farmers of the county is needed in completing the 1964 agricultural census.

Local men and women are acting as enumerators and are calling on farmers for census material. Farmers have been mailed forms and have been requested to have them filled out and ready for the enumerators when they call.

Enumerators will assist with questions. McHenry said they should not have to fill out the complete form since the farmers are asked to do this.

Mr. McHenry said the census was vitally important to the total agriculture picture as it points up trends in agricultural production in the county, state and local levels. These trends are used in marketing programs, outlook and other agricutlural programs. McHenry said it was necessary to know where we are in order to determine where we are going. He urged full cooperation.

COUNTY WINNERS—Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Durst, of the Long Stretch area, were the winning farm family from Garrett County in the annual Farming for Better Living program. The award was announced at the 17th annual banquet held at Southern High School at Oakland, November 12. The banquet was attended by over 200 persons, which is co-sponsored by Monongahela Power Company and the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service. Pictured from the left, James McHenry, Garrett county extension agent; R. Thomas Thayer, president of the FFBL council; Mr. and Mrs. Durst and L. Annual Christmas Treat Date Is Set

The date for the annual Christmat treat for all children in Oakland and nearby areas which is planned by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, has been set for Saturday, December 19, it was announced yesterday by Charles L. Briner, who is in charge of this event.

Briner said the letters to contributors would be mailed out this week, in the hope that approximately $750 would be received from individuals, business men and organizations within the next four weeks.

The distribution to the children will be made, if possible on Second street, near the Liberty street intersection. In case of inclement weather it will be made inside the fire hall.

Each year some 2,200 or more treats of oranges and candy are distributed. Assisting with the distribution are members of the National Guard and the scouts.

Christmas Lighting

The annual Christmas decorations for Oakland which have become a normal part of the community, will be put in place right after Thanksgiving, it was stated. The Chamber pays the labor costs for preparation of the strands and erection of the lights, and the work is done by employes of the West Maryland Power company. City employes usually assist in making the strands.

An additional $1,000 was allocated this year by the Chamber for Christmas decorations and these will be added to the ones which have been in use the past several years.

WFRB Applies For FM Radio Facilities

An application for FM facilities has been filed with the Federal Communications commission by radio station WFRB, it was announced by D. C. Loughry, general manager.

The station has asked for a power of 12,900 watts on 105.3 MC with unlimited hours of operation.

If this application is granted WFRB will have the largest and most powerful FM station in Western Maryland and will be able to continue operations during night-time hours when the AM station must close.

Loughry said the initial programming would consist of good music, news, and local sports. Equipment would be designed for stereo operation, and if commercially successful, stereo could be added in about a year.

He said the station would operate with a vertically polarized and horizontally polarized antenna, more conductive to FM in automobiles, and designed to eliminate fading during motion.

Loughry also stated that since the station would be operating at a height of 859 feet above average terrain, that a clear signal would be received in low valleys and places where FM is not available except by cable. Construction would be started next spring, should the application be approved. FFC action was expected in about 60 days.

A Baltimore couple became parents of quadruplets.

Command Inspection Of Guard Unit Held

A command inspection was held Sunday, November 22 for the local National Guard unit, Company "C" first battalion, 115th armor. Just a week prior to that date, November 14, the unit observed its 17th birthday, having been federally recognized on that date in 1947.

The inspection was conducted by Lt. Col. John D. Hensell, battalion commander; Major Jonathan Eckhart, battalion training and operations officer; and Capt. Norman D. Messman, battalion adjutant.

This is an annual affair, usually scheduled several weeks prior to the annual inspection by the Inspector General's office of the Second Army headquarters of Fort Meade. The inspection included an inspection in ranks of the enlisted men, close order drill, question and answer period, training procedures, administration, and inspection of the lockers in which the men keep their clothing and equipment.

Accompanying the inspecting officers were Capt. Mahlon W. Yost, unit commander, and key non-commissioned officers. Capt. Yost reported the officers seemed pleased with the results but the exact rating will not be known until an official report has been prepared and forwarded to the unit.

In observing the 17th birthday anniversary of the unit it was

Registration Books Are Open Once More

The registration books at the office of the Garrett county Board of Election Supervisors, which have been closed since September 22, were reopened last Thursday.

Miss Julia Rowan, chief clerk and Democratic registrar, said residents of the county might register, change their party affiliation or transfer from one precinct to another, so that they end up in the precinct in which they reside.

The office in the basement of the court house is open from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p. m., Monday through Friday, and on Saturday, from 9 a. m. until noon.

Registered voters who took time to vote will be checked in their permanent record. A person who is on the registration books must vote at least once during a five year period. If he fails to do so his name is stricken from the books and he must re-register in order to cast a ballot in the next election.

Miss Rowan pointed out that the next election in the county would be in the primary election on May 17, 1966.

Woman Is Injured In Auto Accident

Mrs. Mary E. Custer, route 1, Swanton, aged 63, was hurt in a three-vehicle accident Thursday morning, November 19, on Backbone mountain just west of Bloomington. She was taken to Potomac Valley hospital where she was declared in "satisfactory" condition.

Mrs. Custer was the driver of one of the vehicles, according to authorities who said her daughter, Mrs. Betty Shaffer, Swanton, was an occupant of the car but escaped injury.

State police said Mrs. Custer was driving east on Maryland route 135 and apparently had stopped when she saw a truck parked along the road ahead of her. There was foggy weather on the mountain at the time.

A car driven by Donald Lee Wolfe, route 2, Oakland, which was following the Custer car, rammed into it and shoved it into the rear of the truck which was being operated by Kenneth W. Fike, of Mt. Lake Park. Neither Wolfe nor Fike were reported injured.

Cpl. Robert D. Henline investigated the accident.

Expenses Listed For Recent Candidates

Three candidates in Maryland's recent general election have filed campaign expense reports in Montgomery county showing that they spent a total of more than $225,000.

Leading in expenditures was U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Republican from Frostburg, defeated by Democrat Joseph D. Tydings. His report showed expenditures of $123,606 and contributions of $120,065.

Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, Democrat, showed he spent $51,721 and had contributions of $40,721. Rep. Charles McC. Mathias, Republican, who won a third term in the House of Representatives from the Sixth district, filed a report which indicated that he spent $50,218 and had contributions of $53,822.

Tydings Files Report

Another candidate filed his report in Baltimore on Monday. He was Joseph D. Tydings. His report showed expenditures of $284,113 in his bid to unseat Senator Beall. Tydings reported his campaign had a deficit of $142,305. He reported contributions of $141,808 which was more than Beall spent.

The Maryland Goldwater campaign committee reported contributions of $20,099 and expenditures of $29,060. and the Citizens for Goldwater committee, a group made up mostly of Democrats, showed expenditures and contributions both at $23,176.

Thus far there has been no report for either the Republican or Democrat State Central committees for Garrett county or for any other groups that were supporting either presidential candidate.

A report is required within thirty days after the general election.

Meeting Called To Discuss Improvement Needs of Hi Schools

A meeting of parents of the students at both Northern and Southern High schools has been called for Monday evening, November 30 to discuss the need for a $350,000 bond issue of new school improvements.

The meeting will be held in the new cafetorium at Southern high school, beginning at 8 o'clock. It is being called by the Building committee with George Stuck, Oakland, chairman; and Harry Seggie, Accident, co-chairman.

Planning to attend are State Senator Spencer W. Graham, Delegates Mrs. Martha Glotfelty, Elza Bray and Elwood Groves, and County Commissioners, Allen S. Paugh, Earl Opel and H. D. Swartzentruber.

Vocational shops for both Northern and Southern, offering three additional areas of vocational training in both areas; a new library for Southern High, adequate to serve the needs of a school of 1,300 students; a cafetorium for Northern High school; two additional classrooms at Crellin.

Total cost of these proposals is estimated at $450,000 including architect's fees and equipment. Mr. Hawkins said the federal government would provide funds of $100,000, leaving $350,000 to be raised through enactment of legislation for a bond issue.

Mr. Hawkins said he believed the bond issue could be provided without any increase in local taxes for this purpose. He explained that in 1948 $2,050,000 was borrowed to build two high schools and that in 1966 the last payment would be made on $500,000 of the amount; that in 1967 the last payment would be made on $50,000 of the amount; and in 1969 the last payment would be made on $1,500,000 of the amount. He termed all of the proposed new units were basic needs with none a luxury.

It was pointed out the two additional classrooms at Crellin would remove 60 Crellin students from Dennett Road school and

An Overwhelming Case...

Proponents of the Medicare plan for providing certain medical benefits to people drawing social security payments intimate, if they don't actually state, that next to nothing is being done to meet the medical problems of the needy elderly.

Sometime ago, the federal Kerr-Mills law came into being. This is a joint federal-state project, which puts the administrative responsibility where it belongs—at the local instead of the national level. It offers health care to all elderly people who are actually in need. And it is a complete program, encompassing hospital, nursing home, medical, dental, surgical and drug care. In this all-important respect, it offers much more than Medicare.

The taxpayers are meeting the bill for this. If Medicare also became law—and the strongest kind of pressure will be put behind it when Congress next convenes—we'll be playing twice, unnecessarily. And the Medicare bill would be no small one. It would increase the social security tax, borne by employers and employees, to 10.4 per cent of the first $5600 of annual income by 1971. That works out to $582.40 for each covered worker. Many think that even this wouldn't be sufficient to meet the costs, and that Medicare would imperil and undermine the whole social security system.

We have, in other words, under Kerr-Mills, a well conceived method of aiding the ill and infirm elderly. It can be farther broadened and improved if that is found necessary. In addition, there are all manner of public and private welfare plans. The medical profession itself is pledged to provide care for all in need, regardless of the ability to pay. The case against Medicare is overwhelmingly strong. —Industrial News Review.

Some Notes on
The Founding of Friendsville

By Evelyn Guard Olsen

Many of you doubtless know about the letter written by Hiram Forsythe telling of the first white man's coming to Friendsville. Mr. Forsythe was a great grandson of Old John, the first settler, and a grandson of Gabriel, the village patriarch. The letter was written to my grandfather, William H. H. Friend, in 1904, and is in the possession of Mary Elizabeth Buckingham, Uncle Dick's daughter, who lives near Baltimore. The writer, Hiram Forsythe, lived in a log cabin where McCullough's garage was built later. When he wrote the letter he was living in Ohio.

Hiram Forsythe stated in his letter that his grandfather Gabriel told him the Friends came from below Oldtown, Maryland, went up the Potomac River until they came to Ryan's Glade, crossed over Backbone Mountain and on into the Glades. From there "They crossed the River and found an Indian town and cornfield. The Indians told them they were the first white men to come to that area. The party numbered three:—John Friend, John's son, Gabriel Friend, and Andrew, John's brother. Gabriel was just a boy, not old enough to carry a gun, but only a tomahawk. The Friends liked the surroundings. The Indians were very friendly, and they stayed several days.

Before they left the vicinity of Friendsville they bought the land and Indian possessions. They told the Indians they would come back at a later date. Then they left and went back to Oldtown, and at the appointed time they came back to Friendsville, or rather, the future site of Friendsville. On this return trip they went to Cumberland and up Will's Creek, following Washington's old trail to Keyser Ridge and the Indian trail to what is now Friendsville."

Now this is a signpost letter—a help in figuring the date of the Friends' arrival, and surely indicating they were the first white men in the area.

The date 1765 has been accepted as the year the Friends came to the Yough Valley. In the late 1800's a Cumberland newspaper gave this year as the date of their arrival. Captain Charles Hoye settled upon 1765 as being the correct date. Records of Hampshire County, Virginia (Now West Virginia) show that in 1765 John Friend sold property at the site below Oldtown, which is near the present village of Paw Paw, West Virginia. Then, on top of all that, the inscription on Gabriel Friend's tombstone gives the year of his birth as 1752. So, when Captain Hoye accepted the arrival date as 1765, I concurred with him.

But other facts disputing 1765 as the date of settlement at Friendsville keep coming to light. The Hampshire County records show that John Friend bought and sold land at his old home by the shores of the Potomac up to January, 1769. Also, the birth date of his son Gabriel is given in a Bible as 1761. This seems indisputable, as the dates of birth of Gabriel's children, from the same source, can be verified beyond question.

As to the Bible records, in the 1820's Gabriel's son Joseph went west to Washington Court House (Ohio?—Ed) and carried the record pages with him. I want to insert here that a little French Bible with the pages torn out was in Aunt Molly Welch's old home, up here at the Blooming Rose road, so her grandson, Floyd Welch, told me in 1933. This all ties in as Gabriel's first wife was the French girl, Betsy Bunnell. The bible record came to light in this century when some of Joseph Friend's descendants applied for D.A.R. membership.

If this record is correct, then Gabe, if born in 1761, could not have accompanied his father, in 1765, to "these wilds," as they called this valley. Another fact corroborating later arrival date is the fact that Gabriel, when applying for a Revolutionary War pension, gave his age as 91. This application was made, as I recall the matter, in 1849 or 1850, about a year before Gabriel's death. As to the gravestone in the Friend Burying Ground which gives Gabriel's date of birth as 1752—well, almost all very old people of the time were a hundred plus. The famous Colonel Thomas Cresap of Oldtown quickly reached past his century mark, and has had a readjustment made in his age. The old Friends were 102, 106, and, in Preacher (Rev. D. A.) Friend's book—put down honestly, I'm sure—Old John was 117 years old when he died and was buried under the walnut tree at his home farm. Records at hand, however, indicate that he was only in his eighties when he died.

With such conceptions of pioneers, with the family record gone and, as it happened, a stepson in charge of details, it is conceivable that a questionable date could have been put on the gravestone. I do believe many truths of early days are reflected in Preacher Friend's book, and it seems plausible when he says some treaties were made prior to the Friends' coming. As the Fort Stanwix Treaty of November, 1768 really loosened the Indians' hold on the mountains, I place 1769 as the date when the Friends moved. However, they could have come in 1768 to explore the country as set forth in the letter.

I think it is wonderful how you are all going ahead with big plans for the Bicentennial in 1965—the Rotary Club, the townspeople, and also Mr. Felix Robinson, giving encouragement to worthwhile causes. However, I wanted to bring these observations to you for your consideration, as I know you want to be accurate. If you should want to delay the celebration, I think no one should be dismayed. This celebration is in honor of events of such importance that it calls for four years of preparation, anyway!

From what is known today, Friendsville is the most historical site on the tableland. It is a place where social relations were observed in a wonderful way, and our town (I call it mine, too) certainly can be honored for this reason. Did the Indians attack old John Friend, his son Gabe and his brother Andrew when they came down Elder Hill, crossed the Youghiogheny River and found the Indian village? They certainly did not. They treated the white men in a way that might eternally be taken as a social example.

An exciting incident in this book I'm trying to write is the entertainment they proffered the white men. One of the happenings of that visit was told to me by Mr. George Kolb, who was Aunt Susan Steele's son-in-law. Some of you may remember Mrs. Steele; many knew Mr. Kolb. Let me introduce Mrs. Susan Steele to show that she had a two-fold opportunity to know of the events transpiring in the Indian village in the 1760's.

Aunt Susan was at one time the First Lady of "Look Sharp," the site of the eastern part of Friendsville. She and Abraham, her husband, had a few cultivated fields—not much farming was done—they had meadows, a sugar camp where the First National Bank now stands, and good orchards. Mr. E. E. Enlow, who founded the library in Oakland, wrote to me in a letter about the time his mother sent him, as a boy, down to Mrs. Steele's to buy a bucket of pears, so they must have had good fruit. Husband Araham was quite a character. He had a strong nature. His mother, Nancy, who was Gabriel Friend's second wife, was insistent that her son be deeded "Look Sharp". Old Gabriel acquiesced, and so his stepson became owner of the main site of Friendsville.

Of course, all Gabriel's children were provided for liberally. He was very well to do. Scott Friend, a resident of Friendsville while Gabriel himself lived, and who as a child sat under a sugar tree by Steele's barn and heard Gabriel speak of youthful days, stated in 1933:— "After the Revolutionary War Gabe went away and got schooling." Gabe came back with his Indian blood yielding to the urgencies of the commercial age, which was to accumulate land. Around 1800 people were stirred up with the great plans of their Canal Way from the Chesapeake to the Western Flowing Waters, and it was the time to take up land. So Gabriel, more businesslike than some of the Friends, had considerable property all around Friendsville.

His son, Jacob B., received from him Captain Friend's place and the fields extending back to the mountain. This was the Old Fort Field. And John S., another son, received the old John Friend plantation, the present Blaine Frantz place. And all of Gabriel's children must have fared similarly.

Abraham Steele, however, received the big portion "For past services and future fidelity in laboring on said premises for support and maintenance of said Gabriel Friend and Clarissa Ann Friend, his wife." About Abraham and his wife, Emma Susan Wilson, an old friend to many of you, made an interesting remark:— "When the stepson married Susan the property of grandfather came back where it belonged," for Susan's second proximity to old Gabriel was that she was his granddaughter.

But this is my treasured information, the surprise I love to put into my story—what Mr. Kolb, in whose home Aunt Susan lived for many years—told me in 1933 about the hospitality of this spot by the Youghiogheny. He said that where Dolphy Friend lived the Indians danced the Green Corn Dance. This sets the time for a Bicentennial in green corn time, the harvest of maize, the golden grain. So my envisioned celebration is set in a beginning reserve of forest, and there must be corn patches, food of food of the Indians.

And the time John Friend and his son and brother came may, therefore, be set as late in July or early in August. And the significance of this entertainment has a lot to do with the importance of Friendsville as an historical center.

I have been studying about the Green Corn Dance and have come to the conclusion it figures in this country's modes and customs to an outstanding degree. The Green Corn Dance is a prayer of rejoicing and thanksgiving. Indians celebrated it throughout the Americas, from New England to the land of the Cliff Dwellers, and in Mexico. When the Pilgrims gave their noted Thanksgiving feast in the 1600's, they apparently followed the pattern of the Green Corn Dance—insofar as their strict tenets permitted.

In a book "Fast and Thanksgiving Days of New England" by W. DeLoss Lobe, Jr., a scholarly work, the author stated this first Thanksgiving was unique, different from the usual events even different from the Harvest Home, known by these Englishmen. He attributed this fact to the good harvest, and the beautiful new world shores, but he did not attribute it to the most probable cause; i. e., to the fact it could have been a reciprocal feast to Massasoit and his eighty painted warriors who were their guests.

Dr. Lobe pointed out that, at this memorable first American Thansgiving, these stern Saints and Strangers had no accompanying fasts as often was the case. They relaxed, too, for Pilgrims, and it was thought, perhaps, that the younger ones indulged in stool ball, a game of the times, and there were momentous gun salutes. Sociability and high spirits were the order of the day—or rather, days. It is commonly known that these Pilgrim festivities lasted for several days. This long period of celebrating was like the Indian custom. One week was the period for which the Indians issued invitations when the corn was ripe!

Was not this Green Corn Dance a wonderful celebration to have taken place involving our ancestors, the Friends, and the Lenni Lenape or Shawnee or whatever other tribe may have been here at that time! We are mindful of the fact that no other early settlers even found the Indians when they came. But the Friends found the old residents still staying on, still loath to leave their beautiful village where the Youghiogheny sang its songs and the mountain wall curved around in such loveliness.

The Indians knew the values of living. They had awareness and appreciation of forest beauty and wild rivers. That is why the white man so quickly emptied the land of them. They were sensitive souls, well versed in the harmony of nature, who could not maintain life with fences excluding one another from the common benefits.

This is practically the theme of the book I am trying to write, "Indian Blood". Now all you Friends and Friendsvillians gather round. It is our boast that there is Indian blood in the Friends. Captain Hoye liked the idea. He said that's why the Friends prefer the mountains and woods rather than the cities. So in my vision of Friendsville, there are real woods—trees to stand until they are tall, forest-wise trees so they hold up the water table and give age's depth of beauty. Some of the teachers here can tell how many million tons of water an acre of old trees holds up.

Do you know that when I lived here in the 'teen age of the century, Tommy Garey's creek from the bridge out Route 42 had crabapple trees along it, and we skated on the widespread water beside them? And here is another poignant reminder. Before you came to his house—now owned by Mr. Blaine Frantz—you paused, for there was a marsh with tussocks of reeds and cat o'nine tails. How far down is the water level now?

Well, you see there is a need for forest preservation. So if, in days to come a good stand of timber — one approaching virgin growth—could be kept around our town with its historic Indian heritage, what a tremendous asset it would be! And it would be in keeping with the wonderful day of hospitality John Friend, his son Gabe and his brother Andrew enjoyed when they came seeking the best place in the world for a future home—Friendsville, Maryland.

Please do not ask: Industry to come in. Ask Industry to stay out. Let Nature be the business—the growing, unfolding builder of builders that can do more to attract people for the best of reasons:—health, scenic enjoyment and fulfilment.

Two special mysterious places in the vicinity of Friendsville could draw crowds here:—the Bear Hide Out and the Ravens' Rocks.

I hope to draw attention to the first under the name of "The Split Rocks" in my book. They are on the Blooming Rose road from Neal's Gate toward the West Virginia line. They are mossy crevices in the sandstone, thrilling and beautiful.

And the Ravens' Rocks, which I saw under the guidance of Mr. Walter Humberson, a wonderful guide, are surprising. Mr. Humberson's estimate is that they are higher and more scenic than the "Coopers' Rocks" where many people go to admire the rock formations.

These attractions, made accessible perhaps under some state or federal program, with a few bears and catamounts around—not live ones, of course, but simulated animals—would enlarge the perspective of anyone. Done in civic grace—to bring more consciousness of the gifts God has given us, to share them liberally— would make the spirit of the Green Corn Dance live on. And prosperity would follow, because we would have tourist business and a culture center.

Only one more topic and I'm through.

Wouldn't it be wonderful to have our Historical Center started by the time the Bicentennial celebration is held! The L. E. Friend store is standing there, well built, representing an era when the town was called "Friendsville City." It is just offering itself as a place for unusual interests and development of cultural projects.

It has the room for many fine activities:—exhibitions, hobby displays, classes, lectures. And you can not go into a home around here, I'll bet, that doesn't have its time-awakening, thought-provoking relics which doubtless the owners would be glad to loan for display. Things will turn up surprisingly. Mr. John Holman, a historian in every sense of the word, today presented me with a harness clamp which my grandfather, Jasper Guard, worked over. We have the genius of Mr. Felix Robinson to produce the program for the Bicentennial. He is one who has given of himself unstintingly to the Tableland communities—mostly, to Garrett County.

There is much talent in Friendsville—artists, teachers, musicians—young men who are renowned in their fields of science and education who work far off but come back often, and many capable men and women who could give valuable assistance and training. These are in the adult group. Also, we have many bright young people who naturally take an interest in Time's intrigues. Their research into primitive days, and their own backgrounds, which is always profitable, will bring riches for the Pageant of Friendsville History.

When I have things to say, my husband writes an epiloque for me, and this is what he wrote for now:—

But you know, deep in our heart, if you'll only admit it
The other fellow is you!"

Cong. Mathias Back From Geneva Meet

Congressman Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) recently returned from the Inter-Governmental Conference on European Migration held in Geneva, Switzerland, said the continuous increase in refugees migrating to countries of the free world from behind the iron curtain is evidence that the Communist threat to world peace is still prevalent and a cause for grave concern.

Mathias, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, attending the conference with the United States Delegation, reported that the influx of new refugees arriving in Western Europe is reported to average more than 10,000 annually. "Most of these", he said, "are Poles, Czechs, Slovaks, Yugoslavs, Hungarians and, significantly, an increasing number of Albanians."

The refugee problem the countries of the free world face today is far different from that immediately following World War II, Mathias said. "We are no longer dealing with displaced persons and refugees as the international community knew them in the past. Today we are dealing with people who migrate to obtain a new lease on life."

Mathias gave several reasons for this increase in migration:

"Many leave their native country because they are forced to live under a political system which is not acceptable to them. Others leave because of political events resulting in the creation of new sovereignties founded on religious and racial bases. New systems of persecution and discrimination based on political, religious or racial grounds result in more refugees. In other instances governments force them out because they have been members of a former regime. But, for whatever reason, they are basically all victims of circumstances which resulted from World War II.

"Too many of us think of refugees in terms of cattle to be herded together in a temporary camp somewhere out of sight and out of mind. It is time for us to recognize that these are human beings who are protesting political, social and economic persecutions as our own forefathers, the product of the same European stock, protested when they migrated to a new land and founded the United States of America.

"On this Thanksgiving Day of 1964 let us all here in America give thanks to God for the freedom we enjoy in this great country of ours."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our loved one, Lillie V. Sims Blizzard, 57, wife of George Blizzard, Sr., who passed away four years ago, November 27.

She was called away to fill a seat before the judgment bar of God, where we hope to meet again and never part. She was a kind mother and true Christian. She was a member of the Pentecostal church. She said forever, husband and children be ready to meet Jesus.

Remember, mother, we love you and always will.

Sadly missed by Husband and Children.

QUESTION:

Where does the word "gauze" come from?

ANSWER:

Gauze was first made in the city of Gaza in Biblical Palestine where it was used exclusively for religious costuming. It could be dyed more easily than any other fabric of its time. Oddly enough it has been only in relatively recent times that the value of gauze for use in bandages and surgical dressings has been recognized.

Baker Probers Are Unable To Locate Don B. Reynolds

Sen. B. Everett Jordan announced in Washington Tuesday that the Senate investigators cannot find insurance agent Don B. Reynolds, the key witness in an alleged political payoff involving Bobby Baker.

The North Caroline Democrat, chairman of the Senate Rules committee, said a subpoena had been issued for Reynolds but cannot be served because he cannot be located.

Sources close to the committee said that Reynolds, on the advice of doctors, had taken his ailing wife out of the city. His destination was unknown.

Jordan issued his statement exactly one week before the scheduled reopening of rules committee hearings in the Bobby Baker investigation, based on charges made by Reynolds.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., charged on the Senate floor that construction tycoon Matthew McCloskey gave $35,000 to Reynolds after his firm received the contract for building the District of Columbia Stadium. Williams said his charge was based on information provided him by Reynolds.

Williams further charged that Reynolds kept $10,000 and funneled the remaining $25,000 to Baker for use in the Kennedy-Johnson presidential campaign of 1960. According to Reynolds, at least $15,000 in cash was given to Baker.

Williams charged that the $35,000 "payoff" was included in a check sent by the McCloskey firm to Reynolds to cover the insurance premium on the stadium performance bond. The Williams accusation came a short time before Congress adjourned.

The investigation of the stadium case was begun early in October but Jordan recessed them until December 1 when he said he could not obtain a quorum for the hearings during the campaign. He said that all of the witnesses involved in the matter would be called for testimony at public hearings.

"Most of them have agreed to come voluntarily," he added, "and of those who have not agreed to come voluntarly, subpoenas have been served on all except Don B. Reynolds." Senator Jordan said the committee still plans "for him to testify." He said he would call McCloskey, Baker, and William McLeod, former clerk of the House District of Columbia committee.

While secretary to the Senate Democrats, Baker worked closely with the then Senate majority leader, Lyndon Johnson, and the charges made by Senator Williams were used extensively by Senator Goldwater during the recent Presidential campaign. Baker was called in the earlier investigation into his activities and it brought out that he had amassed a paper fortune of some $2,000,000 while earning less than $20,000 annually in his Senate post. He took the Fifth Amendment against possible self incrimination when he appeared at the hearings.

During the past several months Reynolds has been a frequent visitor in this county and is one of the incorporators of the Youghiogheny Mountain Club, a real estate venture on Piney Mountain. He had remodeled a farm home in the vicinity of Gnegy church where he stayed while in this county but this home burned a few months ago.

Files For Patent On Machine That Produces Snow

Navy Commander Lee M. Ramsey, a veteran of twenty-two years service, has invented a machine for producing artificial snow. He is a native of this county.

As Commander Ramsey explains it, his invention really produces natural snow by artificial means, by spraying finely divided water particles into enough cold air to allow the particles to crystalize.

Up to now, these devices have been expensive to build and operate. One version depends upon large volumes of compressed air, and the other on large amounts of moving air; both requiring large amounts of power.

The Commander, who filed his patent on October 30, hopes to be able to produce his machine cheaply enough to be used in every neighborhood to let the kids use their Christmas sleds all winter.

Commander Ramsey became interested in the project after reading that two engineers from New England had invented an earlier such device by accident. Since his duty as an Engineering Instructor in the Engineering Department of the U. S. Naval Academy told him that perfection was rarely the result of accident, the Commander reasoned that there must be a better way. In In collaboration with a fellow instructor, who is studying for a Doctor's Degree, he was able to develop his ideas and to apply for his patent less than a year after reading the article about the two engineers.

Speaks at Annual Assembly of Doctors

Dr. Baumgartner delivered a paper on "Psychotherapeutic Methods and Drugs of Choice for the Emotionally Disturbed Patient." He also spoke at a luncheon meeting on the subject, "Treatment of the Acute Alcoholic in a General Hospital."

Over 2,000 attended. Another assembly will be held in Cleveland in November, 1965, and the following year in Washington, D. C.

Bids Are Sought For Southern Hi Addition

The Board of Education has asked for bids for the addition of a ten classroom building and girls' gymnasium for Southern High school, according to Willard L. Hawkins, superintendent of schools. The bids are to be submitted by December 1.

In a separate contract the board also is seeking bids for the installation of a new furnace for the high school at Oakland. The annex, which would be constructed to the north of the present building, would contain three modern science laboratories plus a language laboratory. Some rooms would be equipped with folding partitions in order to give flexibility in use. Some rooms also will be used for seminar-type study.

There are to be four rooms on the second floor of the addition and six rooms plus the girls' gym on the first floor. Completion date has been set for September 1, 1965. Financing is to be done through the State School construction bond sources, it was stated.

Temperature Drops To Official 9 Above

Garrett county took some low temperatures in stride during the week and its residents were thankful that they escaped the two foot snowfall that plagued Buffalo, N. Y., over the period.

A light snow did fall on last Friday and the temperature remained in mid-twenties. The mercury dropped to 17 degrees or below for early Saturday morning, there was some sun, but the temperature remained below freezing. There were clear skies Saturday night and on Sunday morning the official reading showed 9 above zero. It remained cold throughout the day and Monday morning was only one degree warmer. Monday remained clear and the temperature got above the freezing mark. Tuesday morning the official reading was 14 above zero with warming tendencies throughout the day.

Rain began falling early Wednesday morning and at 10 o'clock the temperature was 38 degrees.

This was a twist from the week previous when rain fell on two of those days. There was rain and wind with temperatures near the freezing line in the morning hours, but moderating during the day. Rain fell on the 13th and 16th. Other days were mostly fair and cool.

The Interior department awarded a $1,390,000 contract to restore Ford's theatre to the way it appeared the night Lincoln was assassinated by Booth.

Thanksgiving, 1964, in God's providence, comes on November 26th.

In view of the conditions now prevailing in the United States—the United Nations with no God and our own Supreme Court removing prayer, Bible reading and the right to recognize God from the public schools—this proclamation of George Washington should be carefully considered. By studying it we can see how far astray we have gone. By honoring it we can return again to the concepts and petitions which our founding fathers desired to have preserved.

1. The first Whereas makes it a duty of "all nations" to acknowledge Almighty God's work in providence, and to obey His will. And where do we find this will expressed? In the holy Scriptures. It is also an obligation upon us to seek His protection and favor. The enemies that seek to destroy us are known to God. We must be delivered from their schemes and attacks and we must also have the favor of God as we seek to maintain our government.

2. The second Whereas acknowledges that this first Thanksgiving originated out of both houses of Congress. Congress wanted the many signal favors of Almighty God to be acknowledged in a national act under the leadership of the President. Moreover, they were especially grateful for the opportunity afforded them "to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness."

Think—they were thanking God for this form of government. He had made it possible. He had guided them. He was the One to whom they looked.

How different is all of this today in the light of the Supreme Court's decision of June 17, 1963. We now have the established doctrine of neutrality. The state must be neutral between those who believe in God and the atheists who deny Him, and the school children can no longer open their classes by thanking God for this form of government, for which George Washington and the first two Congresses thanked God.

Let every American who reads this realize the change, the mighty change, which has taken place in the highest court of our nation, which decrees that we must now be neutral. Had the founding fathers had any such concept of neutrality in relationship to God as it concerns the function and operations of government, such a proclamation could never have been promulgated.

3. The third paragraph of Washington's proclamation is filled with a detailed enumeration of the things that the nation was thankful for and the constant recognition of that "glorious Being," "His Providence," "His kind care." Truly it is all God. The Americans of the first Thanksgiving under their new Constitution were thankful: (1) for the protection of the people before they became a nation; (2) for the favorable interposition of His providence, which gave them victory in the war—they saw God's hand in battle after battle; (3) for the "union and plenty" that God gave following the war as they sought to recover; (4) for the peaceable and rational manner in which the state Constitutions brought into being — they had no riots nor church leaders calling for civil disobedience; (5) and then, especially, they thanked God for "constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted". They thanked God for the Constitution of the United States.

With all this emphasis upon God and what He did in bringing the Constitution into being, surely the claim of those who want to keep the Bible and God out of school falls completely to the ground, when they assert that the founding fathers did not believe that the state should thus acknowledge God.

In the final paragraph, again it is all the Lord, "the Great Lord", the "Ruler of Nations". But what we especially appreciate at this point is the humble confession and a calling for pardon for "our national and other trangressions". Where today do we hear any note such as this in this proud and haughty nation, which thinks that it has the wisdom peacefully to coexist with the godless Communists? Again, these Americans under their first President believed in obeying the laws and they called for "a government of wise, just and with constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed."

The broad outreach to the nations about them again comes to the fore at the conclusion as they think of those nations which "have shown kindness to us." But the last petition, the last emphasis, is upon "true religion and virtue," that the knowledge and the practice of this may be encouraged in the United States of America. This was possible. We had a President who did that very thing in this proclamation. This was in perfect consistency with the specific prohibition of the First Amendment that Congress should make no law respecting an establishment of religion. The "respecting" did not involve the separating of the state from religion itself and from God.—Christian Beacon.

Charges of Assault Made Against Two

Assault charges against two persons will be heard within a few days by Trial Magistrate Robert M. Maroney, the cases having been brought to Oakland from Magistrate Edward Crowe of Grantsville.

Merrill Bittinger was placed under bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, made by Kenneth Crowe. Kenneth Crowe was charged by Merrill Bittinger with assault and battery at Jennings on November 19.

Roy C. Elliott also came under charges preferred by Harry Sanders and Thomas K. Vance. Sanders charged him with passing a worthless check amounting to $320, drawn on the First National bank, and marked "insufficient funds". He entered a plea of not guilty when given a hearing November 17, but was found guilty and sentenced to three months in jail. The sentence was suspended upon condition he make restitution.

Vance charged him with removing or secreting a television set and an electric blanket. He entered a plea of guilty and received a 30-day jail sentence but this also was suspended upon condition he make restitution beginning December 16.

David Virgil Ridings was charged by Donald M. Browning with shoplifting on November 20. He entered a plea of guilty when given a hearing before Magistrate Maroney on November 21. He was fined $50 and costs, and in default of payment of fine was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Willard Moon entered a plea of guilty to a charge of being drunk on the streets of Oakland, brought by Police Chief Henry Arnold. He was fined $10 and costs. The fine was suspended.

Guy Duckworth entered a plea of guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct brought by Vera Duckworth, which occurred at Mt. Zion. He was sentenced to ten days in the county jail but sentence was suspended upon condition he remain of good behavior.

W. Kenneth Johns, principal at Southern, termed the education of boys and girls as the most important industry in the nation. "While many plans have been developed to alleviate poverty, improve the economic welfare of the nation, the best possible program for the nation is a sound educational program."

Searcy, Arkansas

In our time, perhaps the most atrocious twists and contortions of language have been undertaken by the socialists, Communist type and otherwise. Anyone opposing them for very long has felt the injustice of the applied label, smear, and innuendo. The front organizations in America are especially adept at it, and they have taught pressure groups and special interests how to use the old heave-ho, with words only. Most labor publications have mastered the technique. The fighting goes on in a mass of jumped words, most of which say either no or yes, yet mean nothing altogether.

The semantics problem is also evident among the intellectuals. Take for example the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, headed by Robert M. Hutchins and led by famous and learned Americans who probably should apply their talents to better use. Millions of words pour out of this privately supported institution in Santa Barbara, Calif., yearly in the guise of saving the Republic.

A Center bulletin has published these polished words from Mr. Hutchins: "If one thing is clear it is that the idea of government as a policeman, referee, nightwatchman or competitor with other forces is dead, and that the idea that all we need to ask about government is show we protect ourselves against it is deader still. The world we are living in is totally new. Since the world is totally new, and since it has become so overnight, our ideas are obsolete or obsolescent. In every aspect of our lives, we are living without theory, or, what is worse, we are living on the debris of outworn or disproved theory. Our minds are like attics filled with abandoned and useless furniture."

Some of Mr. Hutchins' associates at the Center, all of whom claim to be interested in "preserving democracy and the dignity of the individual," have amplified this need for change. W. H. Ferry contends that the federal structure of the U. S. is faulty, that our social system is outmoded, that the Constitution is an obstacle to equality and citizenship, and the states are "an anachronism". Harvey Wheeler agrees with Mr. Ferry that scientific enterprise ought to be treated as a political planning problem and a federal agency created to make the decisions.

Robert Heilbroner says we must "de-economize society — to get the marketplace back from the center of things." We need, he says, higher taxes and control of consumption. Michael Harrington insists that national planning can end poverty, and we will need "some redistribution of wealth." These and other peculiar views from scholars at the Center seem to show general hostility to the American system. These socialist-tinged suggestions seem rather severe, including the challenging of all values and pruning away the Constitution. Strange indeed that they should emanate from a Center pretending to preserve the republic and its institutions.

One might insist that these are typical examples from America's leftward extremists. They may or may not be. Insofar as they are pertinent to current issues, we can hope these views, if widely held, will be debated well in the coming weeks. But it will not avail if the public is content only with the throwing of labels and the tacking of metaphor onto personalities. We must expect more of our leadership than that they will save democracy by word of mouth.

The value of school property was given at $5,857,000. This was broken down to $3,040,000 for elementary buildings and $207,000 for equipment for a total of $3,247,000. For high schools the figures were $2,450,000 for buildings and $160,000 for equipment, for a total of $2,610,000. This gave the totals of $5,490,000 for all school buildings and $367,000 for all equipment.

Letter to The Editor

Largo, Florida

Dear Editor:

I have seen in your paper two letters in regard to the two days of doe season coming up in December. I fully agree with Mr. Smith and Mr. Martin. It is a shame to think that the game commission will sell our DEER meat for a price like that when our game law forbids any one from selling or having any of the meat in our possession after so many days. I believe that we have enough sportsmen left who will fight such a law, as Mr. Martin said he saw what the results were in West Virginia and I also saw that myself. I have killed a number of deer and I know that there will be plenty of young bucks killed. At a distance no man can tell the difference between buck and doe when the young buck have no horns. Speak up sportsmen for we can stop that if we try to. The season opened here in Florida for deer and wild boar Sat. the 14th, but not for DOE.

learned that of the original troop of men who were mustered into the unit 17 years ago, only two are still with the unit and they are Capt. Yost and S/Sgt. Donald (Pansy) Hinebaugh, unit administrative supply technician.

Recently promoted to the grade of first sergeant E-8 was Robert S. Brown who had been acting first sergeant for the unit for the past five years. First Sergeant Brown began his military career in the U. S. army in 1938. He was discharged from the army in October 18, 1941, and then enlisted in the U. S. Marine corps. He served in the Pacific theatre of operations during World War II.

It was explained the E-8 rating was one which has been in existence in the army a relatively short time and was added to the list of enlisted ranks along with the E-9 rating, as an added incentive for the ranking NCO's to remain in the service. To qualify for the E-8 rating one must have completed 15 years of service, have served in the job which calls for the rating for at least two years.

For his livelihood Sgt. Brown works for the state Game and Inland Fish commission as a game warden. He resides in Kitzmiller with his wife, Joy Rae, and three children, Mary June, 14, Robert, 9, and Pat, 7.

Also promoted recently were Staff Sgt. Donald Smith and Sp-5 James R. DeWitt. Smith was promoted to the rank of PSG E-7 and DeWitt was promoted to the rank of Staff Sgt. E-6. Sgt. Smith was one of the first men to enlist in the unit after the mandatory six-months active duty training became effective about eight years ago. He is married and resides with his wife, Kay, on the Swanton-Grantsville road. Sgt. DeWitt resides with his mother near Crellin. Both Smith and DeWitt are employed at the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company.

Sgt. Hinebaugh said the unit was planning to place large cans in several grocery stores in hopes of receiving contributions of food and household items to be packed and distributed to needy families for the Christmas season.

The next unit drill will be held December 5, 6 and 7 with the 7th being the date of the annual IG inspection. There will be all day drills on the 5th and 6th with the 7th being an evening drill.

Thirteen Are Killed On State Highways

Thirteen persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the weekly survey published by the Maryland State Police.

Five of those killed were drivers; three were passengers; and five were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in five of the deaths; speed in six; and "driver error" was present in nine of the fatalities.

'During the early months of this year there was an indication in the highway fatality picture that the number of deaths might be well below that for 1963," commented Colonel Carey Jarman, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, "but in the last few weeks we have seen an up-swing in highway deaths. If the present trend continues, there is a possibility that we will exceed last year's record toll. This is very clear evidence that we are not going all-out in our efforts to promote highway safety.

Faith of the Pilgrims...

In a Thanksgiving message, Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI paid a moving tribute to the Pilgrims and the ideals they left to us. Then he said: "Regrettably, too many Americans no longer care about religious ideals and heritage. To some, our country is a fantasy-land filled with complimentary handouts of rights and freedoms without obligations. With patent indifference, they shirk the mere suggestion of individual responsibility. Their purpose in life is lost in moral lethargy, self-indulgence, and neglect of duty".

A cynical, unthinking attitude such as Mr. Hoover describes can, if ever it becomes widespread enough, prove suicidal for this or any nation. All our material abundance could not then save us from ultimate destruction as a free people. Those who forsake duty ask for masters who will impose duty —the duty of slaves. The faith of the Pilgrims was never so greatly needed as it is today.—Industrial News Review.

Chances are you'd find your "mileage" on the short side of the pedometer. For nowadays, we ride, sit and watch far more than we move. And this lack of daily activity isn't confined to adults. It's an equally serious problem among youngsters, too.

To get and keep our children in the best possible physical condition, the President's Council on Physical Fitness urges parents to get behind the national drive to step up and improve physical education programs.

At the very least, all youngsters—girls and boys—should have a daily 15-minute workout that's vigorous enough to build and maintain strength and stamina.

Sermonette By Area Ministers

"Your First Step To God"

By Rev. Joseph Smith
Crellin Assembly of God Church

Receiving God's blessings should be man's greatest interest today. Much could be said about the blessings of God; however, I shall limit these remarks to Man's first step to God—repentance.

"And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent." Acts 17:30. The doctrine of repentance is taught everywhere in the Bible. It was the subject of the preaching of the prophets of olden times. Everywhere through their prophecies they are calling the people to repentance, to give their sins, to separate themselves from their sin and live the separate life.

One day a strangely dressed man came out of the wilderness and stood on the banks of the River Jordan to preach. He had such power with God that he did not have to go where the people were, but they emptied the cities to come out and hear him preach. His pulpit was the mountainside, his auditorium was the skies of heaven, and his crowds were multitudes. The one mighty message of his preaching was to call the people to repentance.

John the Baptist laid the axe to the root of the tree. Peter took up the doctrine and Paul continued it in his preaching. The Bible clearly teaches that men must give up their sin—this is the first step to God. God will not give us salvation as long as we hug to our bosoms unconfessed and unforsaken sin.

What is repentance? Repentance in the Bible means a change of mind that leads to a change of conduct; but it does not stop there. It includes a change of attitude, a change of affection. It means that you, in your heart, in your love, in your affection, you turn away from and give up your sin. That is the first step to God. You cannot escape repentance and yet be saved. Care not how moral or how silently and without demonstration you come into the kingdom of God, in the secrets of your soul you turned away from your sin or Jesus would not have saved you.

The greatest sin we have to repent of is the sin of rejecting the Lord Jesus Christ as our savior.

There is no substitute for repentance. Nothing else can take the place of this first step to God. You can punish the body, do penance, make sacrifices, and give offerings but these in themselves do not fulfill God's commands of my text.

Seven Reasons Why We Should Repent

1. "God commandeth all men everywhere to repent, as He hath appointed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness." God says because there is coming a judgment men ought to repent.

2. Our text tells us that it is a command of God for all men to repent.

3. "The goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance." Thank God for those who have realized that the blessings of life come from a loving heavenly Father and who repent of their sins and love Him.

4. "Repent, ye therefore and be converted that your sins may be blotted out when the seasons of refreshing shall come from the presence of God".

5. "Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish."

6. God gives still another reason that men should repent. "Repent for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

7. "There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repents."

Repentence will bring joy to your heart, to the hearts of your friends and loved ones and God's angels in heaven will rejoice.

Is Your Name LYTLE?

Do you know that:

Lytle, an old an honored surname, is of English origin. It is the equivalent of Little and Littell and is of relatively simple derivation. It signifies "a small or short man".

John Lytle (1739-1806) and William Lytle (1753-1829) were captains respectively of Pennsylvania and North Carolina troops during the Revolutionary War.

The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, has listings of George Lytle and William Lytle who were residents of Maryland and heads of families at that time. They lived respectively in Baltimore and Harford Counties.

There are eight references to persons by the name of Lytle in the latest directory of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary scholastic society.

William Haines Lytle (1826-1863) of Cincinnati, Ohio was a distinguished poet. He was descended from a family that was noted for its accomplishments in war and peace. His great grandfather, William Lytle, was a captain in the French and Indian war and a colonel during the Revolutionary War; and his father, Robert Lytle, was a member of the U. S. House of Representatives from Ohio for a number of terms. William Haines Lytle served in the Ohio infantry during the Mexican War and also studied and practiced law in Cincinnati. However, he is best known for his poems, a collection of which was published in 1894 and reprinted in 1912.

PSC To Rule On Gas Rate in Two Weeks

The Public Service Commission announced it would decide within two weeks whether to allow the Columbia Gas company to raise its rates.

Hearings on the subject concluded last week. C. A. Massa, vice-president of the firm, said the utility was selling some gas to municipal customers at less than cost.

Solomon Liss, chairman of the PSC, said the people's counsel felt the company was entitled to some relief, and to raise its rates by $250,000 a year. Massa testified during the hearings in September that under present rates, the utility was realizing only 3.4 percent on its investment whereas the PSC allowed for a 6.5 percent return.

Plan Blanket Collection

The Mountain Churches' Fellowship of the Mennonite faith is making an appeal for blankets as part of a North America-wide drive sponsored by the Mennonite Central committee, a relief and service organization. The appeal will be made on Sunday, December 13.

The goal is for 65,000 blankets, most of which would be sent to Algeria, Jordan, the Congo, Vietnam, Hong Kong and Korea. Contributors are being asked to contribute either a clean used blanket in good condition or $3.

Those who wish to contribute may contact Norman H. Teague, of Grantsville, by phone, 245-2181.

Farm Census Will Provide New Figures

The 1964 Census of Agriculture, now being conducted by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, in this county, will bring up to date farm statistics last collected in 1959.

There were 1,317 farms in 1959, compared with 1,438 in 1954. The average size of farm was 150.7 acres in 1959, compared with 144.6 acres in 1954.

The value of products sold by the County's farmers in 1959 was $5,466,204. The value of all crops sold was $574,083. The value of all livestock and livestock products sold was $4,892,121.

The 1964 national Census of Agriculture is the 18th in a series which began in 1840. Because of the rapid changes American agriculture has been undergoing in recent years, Census Bureau officials regard the current census as one of the most significant ever taken. They ask every farmer to cooperate in compiling an accurate record of these changes by filling out the census form he receives in the mail and holding the completed questionnaire until a census taker calls for it.

Committee Approves Reapportioning Plan

A Legislative Council committee gave its reluctant approval last Thursday to a plan for carving up the voting power in the Maryland House of Delegates and Senate on the basis of population.

Under the proposal, to be submitted to the General Assembly in 1965, the Senate would be expanded from 29 seats to 47. Baltimore and the larger counties would share the additional seats but smaller counties would retain at least one each.

The House would still have only 142 seats. Baltimore and the larger counties, however, would add to their present strength and some smaller counties would lose seats. Nine would have only one each compared to the present minimum of two.

There is a clause providing that the Senate revert to or remain at its present makeup if Congress asks the states to ratify a constitutional amendment "which in general effect would provide that one house of a state legislature may have its membership based upon a factor or factors other than that of population."

The Supreme Court has ruled that the state must reapportion its legislature on a one-man one-vote basis in time for the 1966 elections. A constitutional amendment could modify the effect of the ruling.

Other counties losing representation should the proposal be enacted would include Calvert from 2 to 1; Caroline from 2 to 1; Carroll, from 4 to 2; Cecil, from 3 to 2; Dorchester, from 4 to 1; Frederick, from 6 to 3, Kent, from 2 to 1; Queen Anne, from 2 to 1; Somerset, from 3 to 1; Talbot, from 3 to 1; Washington, from 6 to 4; Wicomico, from 4 to 2, and Worcester, from 3 to 1.

Remaining the same would be Charles, Harford, Howard, St. Marys. Increasing would be Baltimore city, 39 to 43; Anne Arundel, from 7 to 9; Baltimore county, 13 to 22; Montgomery, 10 to 16; Prince Georges, from 10 to 16.

Grantsville Area Home Hit by Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hetrick and their two children, a boy, 3, and a girl 4, were not injured but they lost all their clothing and other possessions in the blaze. The residence was located some four miles west of Grantsville on Negro Mountain and off U. S. route 40.

The Grantsville Volunteer fire company received the alarm at 7:20 a. m. and responded with three pieces of equipment and 20 men. The Accident Volunteer fire company arrived soon afterward. The home was completely destroyed.

The fire spread so fast that Mrs. Hetrick and children were trapped in their home. She was forced to break a window with a pillow and then lift her crippled daughter and son to safety. Firemen remained at the scene until noon.

An appeal for clothing and bedclothing was issued. Persons having articles to contribute may call the Hetrick home at 895-5393. The mother is about five feet, seven inches tall and wears a size 16 dress and an 8 shoe. The father is about six feet, one inch, and wears an 8 and one-half shoe and a size 40 suit. Mr. Hetrick is employed at the Harbison-Walker brick yard near Grantsville. The daughter is crippled.

Firemen said they believed the blaze may have resulted from an accumulation of coal gas in the furnace. Mrs. Hetrick told firemen she first knew of the fire when flames came up through a register.

Fire Destroys Roof At Luke Paper Mill

A fire of undetermined origin Sunday afternoon destroyed the roof over two of four water tanks atop the No. 1 bleach room roof at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper comany.

Eight volunteer fire companies responded to the alarm around 1:30 o'clock. The fire was under control by 2:30 p. m., with no estimate of the damage. Sprinkers inside the roof at the fire scene opened up and helped to contain the spread of the fire.

Volunteer firemen from Luke, Piedmont and Westernport fire companies fought the blaze. Other units standing by were those of Barton, Lonaconing, McCoole, Keyser and Bloomington.

Another service from the Shell Oil Company and its Dealers

GOOD VISION and fast reaction are among the most important physical requirements for safe driving.

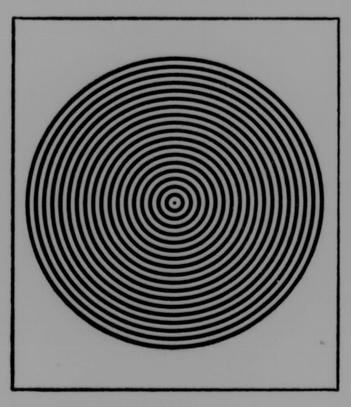
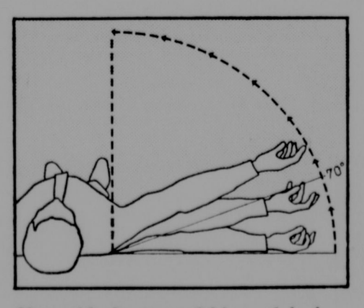
(But remember, no self-test of vision can take the place of a professional eye examination by a qualified doctor.)



How well do you see? One eye condition that affects how well you see is astigmatism—a distortion of the eye lens which results in a blurred, imperfect image. To test, hold this page at reading distance and look at the circles with one eye closed. Now try the other eye. If you see pie-shaped sections that seem sharper and blacker than others, you may have astigmatism. And you may not be seeing all you should when driving.

How do you react to glare? How quickly your eyes recover from the glare of blinding light—such as headlights—is a measure of what eye doctors call glare resistance. To test, dim the light in the room until you can just read these words. Roll a newspaper the long way to form a tube. Turn on a 100-watt light bulb, and have someone time you as you look directly at the bare bulb through the tube for just five seconds. Then, turn off the light bulb and immediately try to read this page through the tube. Within seven seconds you should be able to see clearly enough to read these words. If you can't, better take special pains to avoid direct glare. Look down the right-hand side of the road when cars approach you at night.

How fast do you react? Your reaction time is a measure of how fast you can get your foot on the brake. To test, take a crisp new dollar bill and fold it lengthwise, as tightly as you can. Have a friend hold the bill vertically, while you place your hand about 1½ inches above the bill. Prepare to react. He drops the bill without warning, and you try to hit it with one sweeping motion. If you do, your reaction time is normal. If you don't, you'd better allow yourself extra time to react—by driving a little slower, being extra alert, and keeping well back of other cars.



How wide do you see? Many of the hazards of driving come at you from the side. Your ability to see them coming is a measure of your "peripheral vision." To test, stand against a wall and extend your arms at shoulder level. Focus your eyes on a point 20 feet straight ahead and wiggle your fingers. If you see wiggling fingers, you're normal. If not, bring your arms slowly forward. As soon as you see wiggling fingers, estimate the angle of your arms (see drawing). 70° is good enough. Anything less means you have "tunnel vision." Keep your head moving when driving, looking to both sides.

How good is your depth perception? Depth perception helps you judge the distance to other cars. To test, tie long strings to the front and rear of a toy car. (If you have no toy cars, you can use any two objects that are the same size and shape.) Pass one string over the rear edge of a table, so you can pull the car back and forth. Place a second toy car of the same size on the table. Then, with your eyes at tabletop level, pull back and forth on the strings from 6 feet away. Try to "park" your car directly alongside the second car. Try it several times. If the cars are consistently out of alignment, your depth perception is probably off. You might do well to keep more distance than you think you need between yourself and the car ahead, at all times.

Bad brakes can be more dangerous than slow reaction time. Defective windshield wipers can seriously limit your vision in rainy weather. Knowing this, Shell dealers help you keep your car in top running condition. For example, with every Shellubrication,® we test brakes and also inspect windshield wipers, tires and other "trouble spots" automatically. It's part of the service at the sign of the Shell. Stop in.

Garry and I won first prize last Saturday! It was the young people's Olde Tyme costume party at the church, and we had a wonderful time.

I go to almost everything the club puts on, and of course there are lots of activities besides parties and dances. We visit hospitals, we collect and repair toys for underprivileged children, and we help with various church events. We have regular religious discussion groups that often get me so interested I continue the discussion around the family dinner table all week long! Mom and Dad don't mind, though. They think it's good for me to be mixing with other young Christians, and they never worry when I'm over at the club.

Your own church offers many enjoyable and worthwhile activities for Christians of every age. Why not join? You'll be warmly welcomed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Gospel in Brief

Lesson for November 29, 1964

Background Scripture: Titus 1:1-3; 2:11-14; 3:4-8a.
Devotional Reading: Ephesians 2:1-10.

THIS WEEK we shall do something a little different. This is an invitation to study the Bible together. The verses under "Background Scripture" are remarkable in bringing out, in their brief sentences, many of the most vital truths taught by the Christian Church. Taught to the church, we ought to say, first of all, for what the church teaches she first learned, at least in vital germ, from her own first teacher, Paul, and above him, our Lord himself.

Dr. Foreman

The grace of God

The word of "grace" often means gracefulness, as when we speak of the grace of a violinist's work, or the invitation of a hostess. In the New Testament it means graciousness, a quality some people have without knowing it, the quality we associate with true aristocracy. We can say for instance that Dean Rusk is a more gracious character than Gromyko. Grace is not the same thing as goodness; some people can be mighty good without being very gracious. Grace is goodness come to life, shining. In the New Testament the grace (Graciousness) of God is mentioned far oftener than the grace of men. (Why should this be so?) The New Testament speaks often of the grace of God as something which has up to now not been well known or understood. For the crowning act of God's grace is the gift of his son, Jesus Christ, the living, walking grace of God in human living. The supreme moment of that grace, of course, is Christ's identifying himself with sinners and being willing to "give his life a ransom for many" — to use his own words. The grace of God and the Saviorhood of Jesus are not two different things; they might almost be called, from the Christian point of view, the same thing.

How Christian life begins

Paul speaks here also of how the Christian life begins. It starts with what theologians call "justification," which literally means a judge's verdict of "Not Guilty". Justification refers to man's status in God's sight, not to his state. A newborn baby is in a wretched state. He badly needs a bath. But he is his parents' much-loved child all the same. They do not demand that he must do something lovable before they love him; they welcome him with love even before he is born. God is like that. He loved us before we were born not because of what we have done but because he is love.

How Christian life operates

The life of God in the life of man; how does this operate? There is mystery here, to be sure; but some things are clear. One truth is that it means to be daily, even constantly renewed. The Christian's life is not an automatic business that starts with one big Bang! and keeps on with no further effort. The greatest Christians are those who feel most strongly the need of being continually re-created. This has its definite effects. The Christian is one who becomes, with the passage of time, more and more godly, that is, God-like. This is so tremendnous we sometimes shrink from it. We find it enough to be like our parents or someone else we admire. Our heavenly Father wants us most of all to be like himself. He wants us to love what he loves and to hate what he hates. Finally (though much here has not been touched) the Christian lives a life of hope. He expects Christ to be Lord of All. No Christian ever wept that he was born too late for the Golden Age. The Golden Age for us is not in some lost yesterday, it is the great tomorrow, when all tears have been wiped away and God shall be all in all.

Former Crellin Man Found Dead at Home Near Rawlings

Ralph Charles Adams, 62, retired railroader, was found dead at his home near Rawlings last Friday, November 20. Maryland state police said the man apparently died as a result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head.

The shooting occurred in the front room of the Adams home between noon and 5:30 p. m., Friday, according to Trooper W. D. Grose, who said the man was discovered by his wife when she returned from work.

Mr. Adams was found sitting in a chair. He died of a shot in the right side of his head from a .22 calibre pistol, police said.

Mr. Adams retired in May as a conductor for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company and had been in failing health.

Born in Crellin, he was a son of the late William F. and Laura J. Roy Adams and had resided at Rawlings since 1950. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie 245.

He is survived by his wife, Ruby Gene Wilson Adams, four daughters, Mrs. Willis S. Kittle, Mrs. Richard Dowdy, Baltimore; Mrs. Robert Lipscomb, Cumberland; Shirley Marie Adams, at home; a stepson, Robert Wilson, Cresaptown; two sisters, Mrs. Lester Shaffer, Potomac Park; Mrs. Mary Bovey, South Mountain, Pa.; 14 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The body was taken to the Scarpelli Funeral home in Cumberland.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 1:30 from the funeral home by Rev. Carl Whitten, pastor of the Rawlings Methodist church. Interment was in Rest Lawn Memorial gardens. Among the pallbearers was Robert Giessman, formerly of Oakland. Local 267, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen conducted memorial services in the funeral home early Monday afternoon.

All are invited.

GIVING THANKS

Psalm 92:1, "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord.

Gratitude is a pleasing exercise of the mind. It is a desirable, delightful thing. You feel better if you feel grateful.

Gratitude warms the heart of the one who is thanked and also warms the heart of the one who offers thanks. It is not only a virtue demanded by common politeness but also a virtue that produces practical results in everyday living and happiness. Therefore, especially at this Thanksgiving time, we should consider our blessings and then give thanks to the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

There are many things for which we need to be thankful. We ought to thank God for the common, usual mercies of God. Health is the greatest blessing of life, except a person's spiritual relation to Christ. And for health and strength to work and think efficiently we should be particularly thankful.

Day by day, and moment by moment we are kept safe by the common, usual mercies of God amid dangers seen and unseen. Recognition of these mercies makes us grateful.

Let us thank God for our country, the greatest country in the world. To be thankful for our country means that we will be careful of her reputation, and protect her good name.

Above many things we ought to be thankful for the church. We ought to be grateful for the church because of her radiant record, for her uncounted miracles of grace, for her cloud of witnesses, and her martyrs who have remained faithful even unto death, and have bled and died for her.

And certainly we should thank God for the opportunity of service. A thanksgiving life will be a life of service, for serving is the best way of showing gratitude. The psalmist was anxious to express his gratitude to God by service when he said: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits unto me?" It is a glorious thing to give ourselves wholeheartedly to the service of the Lord. There is much to be done. The harvest is great, but the laborers are still few.

We should be thankful above all for Christ our Savior, for he is the channel through which God's blessings come to us. From God, but through Christ, we receive all the blessings of salvation. We should be thankful.

Defense Secretary McNamara announced coming closedown of 95 military facilities, eliminating 63,000 federal jobs.

Gross national product for third quarter ran at rate of $628 and one-half billion of billion more than earlier estimate.

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statements of income collected and expenses disbursed of the Garrett County Board of Education for the year ended June 30, 1964. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary under the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements and exhibits present the Garrett County Board of Education's cash on hand and in bank at June 30, 1964, and income collected and expenses disbursed by the Board of Education for the year then ended on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The records of the Board of Education are adequate and are efficiently kept. We had the complete cooperation of your staff in making this and prior audits.

Respectfully submitted,
(Sgd.) George McLaughlin

No. 5342 Equity In The Circuit Court For Garrett County, Maryland

Order of Publication

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree declaring absolute ownership of the coal and other minerals underlying Military Lots Nos. 1324 and 1325 together with all mining rights for mining, removal and marketing of said minerals, to be vested in the complainants and that Fay H. McCoy and/or the unknown Heirs, Devisees and Personal Representatives of Fay H. McCoy be enjoined from asserting any claim to said coal, other minerals and said mining rghts. The Bill states:

That they are in constructive and peaceable possession under color of title of the coal and other minerals underlying Military Lots Nos. 1324 and 1325 together with all mining rights for mining, removal and marketing of said minerals, situate, lying and being in Election District No. 8, Garrett County, Maryland, which was conveyed to the said John Adams and Katherine Adams, his wife, by deed from the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, dated July 11, 1960, and recorded in Liber R.L.D. No. 228, folio 520 &c., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed herewith marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 1" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that your orators have endeavored to convey said coal and other minerals together with all mining rights for mining, removal and marketing of said minerals, but prospective purchasers therefor have denied and disputed the title of your orators; that the coal and other minerals underlying Military Lot No. 1324 and Military Lot No. 1325 was conveyed by the Rees Company, George S. Rees and Eugenia F. Rees, his wife, to Fay H. McCoy, by deed dated October 28, 1929, and recorded in Liber E.Z.T. No. 100, folio 120, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, a certified copy of said deed being filed herewith marked "Plaintiffs' Exhibit No. 2" and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that the 100 acres of coal and other minerals underlying Military Lots Nos. 1324 and 1325, together with all mining rights for the mining, removal and marketing of said minerals was sold for the non-payment of State and County taxes by Jesse J. Ashby, Jr., Treasurer of Garrett County, Maryland, in a proceeding filed by him against the Reese Coal Company, as will appear by reference to No. 1302 Miscellaneous Docket, in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, and was sold by the said Treasurer to the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, on December 29, 1941, and the sale ratified by this Honorable Court on March 6, 1942; that there is no action at law nor any proceeding in Equity pending to enforce or test the validity of the title to said coal and other minerals underlying Military Lots Nos. 1324 and 1325, together with all mining rights for the mining, removal and marketing of said minerals; that the contentions of prospective buyers of said coal and other minerals underlying Military Lots Nos. 1324 and 1325, together with all mining rights for the mining, removal and marketing of said minerals are without merit and constitute a cloud upon the title of your orators; that it is not known whether the said Fay H. McCoy is now living and the Records in the Orphans' Court for Garrett County, Maryland, does not disclose any information in regard thereto.

It is thereupon ORDERED this 17th day of November, 1964, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiffs by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks before the 11th day of December, 1964, giving notice to Fay H. Notice of Enactment of Charter Amendment Resolution For The Town of Mt. Lake Park

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 1 of the Mayor and Council of the Town of Mt. Lake Park, titled "A Resolution to repeal and reenact Sections 410 through 427 of the Code of the Public Local Laws of Garrett County (Everstine's 1957 edition being Chapter 507 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland), titled" 'Mt. Lake Park', the said Sections being the Charter of the Town of Mt. Lake Park", was passed on November 5, 1964, pursuant to the authority of Article XI-E of the Constitution of the State of Maryland and Article 23A and Article 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), to repeal the present Charter of the Town of Mt. Lake Park as contained in Sections 410 through 427 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Garrett County, (Everstine's 1957 edition) and to enact in lieu thereof the municipal corporation charter contained in Article 23B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), title "Municipal Corporation Charter", with the following exceptions:

Whereas the Model Charter provides for a Mayor and five Councilmen elected for four year terms, and a veto power for the Mayor, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for a Mayor and four Councilmen elected for two year terms and the Mayor has the right to vote in lieu of a veto power.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for the publishing of the text of each ordinance and the mechanics for a referendum thereon, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for the publishing of a summary of each ordinance and omits the provisions of a referendum by petition.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for conventions or primary elections the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for a convention.

Whereas the Model Charter does not specifically provide for the issuance of bonds, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter provides for the issuance of bonds in accordance with Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Whereas the Model Charter contains detailed provisions concerning a merit system for municipal personnel, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter does not provide for a merit system.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for the salary of the Mayor and Council to be established by ordinance, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter established the salary in the Charter.

Whereas the Model Charter provides that a person need reside in the Town for 6 months in order to become a qualified voter, the new Charter for Mt. Lake Park requires a one year residency in town.

Whereas the Model Charter requires a public hearing on the budget, the new Mt. Lake Park Charter states that the Council may hold a public hearing on the budget.

Whereas the Model Charter provides for specific ordinance governing the welfare of the municipal community, the Mt. Lake Park Charter amends some of these provisions and adds others which have been carried over from already existing town ordinances.

Charter Amendment Resolution No. 1 adopted November 5, 1964, shall become effective on December 15, 1964, unless a proper petition for referendum is filed before December 15, 1964, in accordance with the provision of Section 13, Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended).

Hamilton-Ball Wedding Held

St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland, was the scene of the wedding of Juanita Mae Ball, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Ball, Oakland, and the late Rual F. Ball, and Wayne Brooks Hamilton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hamilton, Hamilton Farms, Red House, on Saturday, October 17 at 2:00 p. m. The Reverend Lawrence Sherwood officiated at the double ring ceremony. Vows were taken before an altar of lighted candles and spiraling bouquets of white pompons.

Mrs. Wilma Mae Teets, organist, presented nuptial selections before the ceremony and also played the traditional wedding marches. She accompanied Mrs. Anne Bell who sang the bride's selections of "O Promise Me" and "The Wedding Prayer" preceding the ceremony. "The Lord's Prayer" was sung while the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her oldest brother, Glenn E. Ball of Terra Alta, W. Va. She appeared in a floor length gown of French bowknot Chantilly lace over satin which sparkled with scalloped imported sequins over the Chantilly lace at the neckline and on the bodice, long sleeves which ended in points below the wrist and the bouffance of the skirt was dramatized in the back by a chapel train. Her shoulder length three tiered bouffant veil floated from a regal double crown combination of Chantilly lace entwined with pearls. She carried a sweeping cascade of shattered white carnations, centered by a white cymbidium orchid, which was on a white satin covered Bible.

The bride chose Mrs. Joyce Anne Moore of Morgantown, W. Va., as her matron of honor. For her bridesmaids she chose Miss Carlotte Evans of Cumberland, and Miss Katherine Evans of near Horse Shoe Run, W. Va. Their floor length sheath satin gowns were an emerald green and featured a scoop neckline, three-quarter length scalloped sleeves enhanced by a bow and a full length train attached which was also enhanced by two bows at the neckline. The matron of honor wore a gown of the same fashion only in gold to bring out the highlights of the autumn colors as this was carried out throughout the entire wedding. They wore short satin bouffant veils of clusters of roses and pearls matching their gowns. They carried colonial bouquets using the fall shades of mixed pompon chrysanthums and matching ribbon streamers.

For best man, the groom chose Charles Fleming, his brother-in-law. Ushers were Milton L. Ball, brother of the bride, of Terra Alta, W. Va. and Wayne Beckman, Oakland.

The reception table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. There was also a centerpiece which consisted of a bouquet of fall colored pompons and yellow roses and the side tables were beautified by lighted candles. The reception hall was decorated with several arrangements of autumn colored leaves. Two aunts of the bride, Mrs. Lura Evans of Cumberland, and Mrs. Sarah Henline of Horse Shoe Run, cut and served the wedding cake. Miss Ivadine Matthews served the punch.

Miss Katherine Evans attended the guest book. Mrs. Joyce Moore and Miss Charlotte Evans assisted in displaying and recording of gifts.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School and Morgantown Business School where she received a secretarial diploma. She was formerly employed at the Garrett County Memorial hospital as Medical Secretary.

The groom is a graduate of Southern High School and the University of Maryland where he completed a two year special agricultural course.

The bride's going-away outfit was a green lace over satin suit with matching black suede accessories and the white orchid from her corsage completed her attire.

They left for an eight-day honeymoon in which they toured through the south and returned by way of the eastern shore line. The couple is now residing at Hamilton Farms, near Red House.

76 Named On First Term Honor Roll At Southern High

Seventy-six students were named to the First Marking Period Honor Roll at Southern High School as report cards were issued last Friday.

Students named to the Honor Roll are not permitted to have any grades below a B recorded on their report cards.

Four students made a "straight A" average. They were Ronnie McDaniel, Janna Naylor, grade 12; Carol Lawton, grade 10; Marilyn Englander, grade 8.

Kenneth Johns, principal, stated that the number of students being named to the honor roll was less than it had ever been, representing slightly over six percent of the student body. No reason for the small percentage was given other than the fact that there has been developing over the past several years a "general tightening up" of requirements in all subjects. "This is in keeping with the demand for academic excellence," Mr. Johns stated.

Twelfth Grade

Luke Mill Concludes Another Safe Year

"This has been the second safest year in the history of the Luke Mill." William M. Thompson, production manager, of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Luke mill made the statement recently to employees as he announced that Luke had again placed first in one of the two annual company-wide safety competitions.

Employees at Luke beat 15 other company locations with their safety performance again in 1964. The competition is based on the number of lost-time injuries during the year for every one million man hours worked. Luke employees had only 14 such injuries all year for an accident frequency of 2.6 lost-time accidents for every million man hours worked.

Safety officials at Luke report that the average accident frequency for all industry is four lost-time accidents for every million man hours worked and the figure for the paper industry is a high of 7.

granted so the defending attorney could explain to Browne the court proceedings. Mr. Browne had difficulty in hearing and was provided with a hearing aid during the trial.

Browne was transferred to the House of Correction on September 18 of this year.

Another One Due

Another petition under the same legal procedure is in the making but has not reached the actual presentation to the Circuit court up to this time. But Ralph E. Coleman, who entered a plea of guilty to a charge of sodomy at a trial before Judge Hamill, in September, was sentenced to serve seven years in the Maryland penitentiary.

Coleman has indicated his intention to file a petition and has written to Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit court for a copy of his indictment, docket entries and a transcript of his trial. Costs of providing this material must be borne by the county, since Coleman testified he had no funds with which to hire an attorney. When his petition arrives, Judge Hamill wil appoint an attorney and a hearing will be arranged.

THE REPUBLICAN

"Rather Effective" . . . .

The President's less than spirited support of the dedicated, efficient and long-suffering FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover at his press conference at the LBJ ranch should have prepared everyone for ensuing reports that one of the most respected and admired public servants of our time is about to walk the plank.

Any thought of change has been denied by the President but the newspaper that first announced what was in the air is sticking to its guns and keeps repeating the assertion.

According to one source the U. S. Press Association, Inc., any delay in replacing Mr. Hoover will be due to the considerable task of finding a replacement who will not offend public sensibilities too deeply.

Asked whether he thought Mr. Hoover's usefulness had been impaired by his statements on the subject of the Rev. Martin Luther King, the Warren Commission and the Supreme Court, the President narrowed his reply to the discourse between the two individuals. In the course of his answer, he said: ". . . .Mr. Hoover has been called upon by the President and others on many occasions to do work in the examination and the study and the investigation in this field of civil rights. He has been diligent and rather effective, and I would hope in the months ahead we would have further evidence of his - the outstanding capacity of his people - and that this would not degenerate into a personal battle of personalties."

Continues The Press Association Article:

"Not since the days of Harry Truman, it is said, has any public servant been publicly damned by such faint praise. And the sudden shift of reference from "further evidence of his" (Mr. Hoover's), to "the outstanding capacity of his people," is hardly subtle.

"Nor, despite the President's recent dedication to civil rights, and in view of the record on which Mr. Hoover based his evaluation of Dr. King's probity, does it seem likely that the President underestimates the FBI Chief's effectiveness. And it will be a sad day for all Americans, including Dr. King and his cohorts, when the direction of the Federal Bureau of Investigation passes from the hands of J. Edgar Hoover".

Bobby Baker Gives Repeat Performance

Former Ambassador Matthew H. McCloskey denied yesterday that he ever took part in an undercover deal to kick back $35,000 from one of his government contracts to help finance the 1960 Kennedy-Johnson campaign.

The retired Philadelphia contractor and Democratic fund raiser testified before the Senate Rules committee after Bobby Baker refused to answer any questions about political payoffs, party girls or anything else.

Referring to testimony earlier by insurance agent Don B. Reynolds, who was said he acted as "bag man" in the deal and told of a breakfast meeting at which it purportedly was set up. McCloskey said: "That is not correct. Such a conversation never took place, at no time, ever. I never heard of it". McCloskey said he doubted he ever received a letter from Reynolds starting: "Dear Matt;" "I'd only met the fellow once or twice," McCloskey said. A copy of a letter from Reynolds billing McCloskey for a performance bond on the contract had been placed in evidence.

Baker, ex-page boy from Pickens, S. C., invoked the fifth amendment when asked about Reynolds' statement that Baker masterminded the arrangements for the alleged payoff. To this and 45 other questions some touchy and some apparently innocuous, Baker cited the first, fourth, fifth and sixth amendments to the Constitution and said: "I specifically decline to answer because of the privilege against self-incrimination." It was largely a repeat of his appearance before the same committee last February 25. Baker, whose legal advice again came from Edward Bennett Williams, Washington attorney, also refused to surrender papers and documents which he said he brought with him in response to a subpoena. In a prepared statement he said he already was being investigated by the Internal Revenue Service and the FBI.

Mt. Storm Youth Is Killed in Car Crash

Roger Wayne Cosner, 20, of Mt. Storm, W. Va., was fatally injured early Saturday morning, November 28, when his car careened from West Virginia route 42 between Elk Garden and U. S. route 50, and struck a tree.

Cosner was alone at the time in a 1964 model car. The auto was demolished in the crash.

Trooper Donald I. Elmore, of the West Virginia State police investigated the accident. He said that Cosner was evidently traveling at a great rate of speed and lost control of the machine.

Although the crash occurred early Saturday the wreckage and body were not found until about 6 a. m., by a passing motorist. There is very little traffic on the road during the early morning hours, police said.

Mr. Cosner's body was taken to Keyser where a coroner's jury viewed it. An inquest was set for this afternoon.

A son of Elwood M. and Mary V. Moreland Cosner, who reside on route 50 between Mt. Storm and Gormania, he was employed by the Daugherty Construction company on the Mt. Storm power project. He was a member of Clarksburg Local 984, Laborers Union, and Locust Grove Church of the Brethren at Bismarck.

Surviving besides his parents are a brother, Cecil Cosner, Mt. Storm; two sisters, Miss Pamela Cosner, at home; and Mrs. Delores Nesselrodt, Mt. Storm; his maternal grandfather, Arthur Moreland, Mt. Storm; and step-grandmother, Mrs. Anna Cosner, Mt. Storm.

The body was taken to the home of his step-grandmother on route 42. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Locust Grove church by Rev. Eugene Matthews. Interment was in the family cemetery near Bismarck.

County Legislators Arrange Meetings

County legislators have arranged three public meetings in the county in order to give citizens an opportunity to discuss possible legislation for introduction at the next session of the Maryland Assembly next January.

This is a custom that has been carried on by the county's lawmaking representatives for a number of years.

State Senator Spencer W. Graham said he and the three delegates had arranged for meetings as follows:

Post Conviction Case Is Heard on Coleman

A hearing was held in the Circuit court yesterday before Associate Judge Harold Naughton, Cumberland, on the petition for another hearing under the post conviction procedures act in the case of Ralph E. Coleman.

Coleman had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of sodomy at a trial before Judge Hamill in September. He was sentenced to serve seven years in the Maryland penitentiary.

Coleman was represented by Jack R. Turney, who was appointed by the court. Coleman had claimed he was convicted on insufficient evidence and that he had been denied his right to trial by jury.

State's Attorney Fred A. Thayer claimed that neither reason was grounds for relief, and would not be so in his case in any event. He had Attorney Clarence Penn testify, who was Coleman's court-appointed attorney in the trial in September, that he had advised Coleman of his right to trial by jury but he had elected to be tried by the court. He had entered a plea of guilty at the time. The records also showed Coleman had signed a statement saying he had been advised of his rights.

Judge Naughton promised a decision within forty-eight hours.

Two Other Hearings Held

There were two other hearings yesterday. Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill presided in both.

One was a bill of complaint brought by Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Weinel, of Accident, asking for an injunction asking that the Friend Stockyard business be operated in such a way that it would not be a nuisance, and allowing Mr. and Mrs. Weinel to get their proper rest and sleep.

The Weinels claimed that odors, dust, and the noise of cattle were disturbing, and asked that it be abated.

W. Dwight Stover, attorney for the stockyard, had 33 witnesses summoned but called only 12 of them to testify. Clarence Penman, attorney for the plaintiffs, called only Mr. and Mrs. Weinel to the stand. Judge Hamill indicated he would give a written opinion in the near future.

The third hearing concerned a motion for a new trial in the case of Marvin Tichnell and others against Earl T. Hinebaugh. In a previous trial there had been a judgment for the defendant, Mr. Hinebaugh. Lewis R. Jones represented Hinebaugh, while J. R. Turney represented Tichnell. The case was taken under advisement by Judge Hamill.

The advance distribution was made from second and third quarter collections of income tax withheld and transmitted to the Comptroller by employers and from payments on declarations of estimated tax.

Under the law subdivisions desiring to participate in the advance distribution must make certification as to their need for the revenue and submit with the certification a copy of their latest available financial statement.

Number Citizens For Improvements At High Schools

Two Delegates Will Introduce Legislation; Others Show Caution

More than 100 citizens of the county voiced approval of a $350,000 bond issue for new school improvements at both Northern and Southern high schools, at a meeting at Southern High Monday night, but legislators were inclined to be more cautious.

Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools, said the meeting was well attended by people from a number of areas despite the cold, snowy weather. Hawkins said no one spoke against the proposal.

Delegates Elza Bray and Elwood Groves stated they would jointly sponsor the needed legislation to make the bond issue a reality. State Senator Spencer W. Graham and Delegate Mrs. Martha Glotfelty, said they would give the program "most serious consideration", but made no commitment. The three county commissioners, Allen S. Paugh, H. D. Swartzentruber and Earl Opel likewise indicated they would give it "most serious consideration".

Mr. Hawkins explained that the bond issue could be provided without increase in local taxes. He explained that in 1948 a total of $2,050,000 was borrowed to build the two high schools and that in 1966 the last payment would be made on $500,000 of that amount, and in 1967 the final payment would be made on $50,000 of the amount and in 1969 the last payment would be made on $1,500,000.

The needed improvements include vocational shops for both schools, new library for Southern High, a cafeteria addition and stage area for Northern High and two additional classrooms at Crellin.

Total cost of these proposals was estimated at $450,000 with federal funds of $100,000 available leaving $350,000 to be raised through the bond issue. Mr. Hawkins pointed out the two additional classrooms at Crellin would remove 60 Crellin students from Dennett Road school and mean shifting some Center street pupils to Dennett Road to reduce oversized classes.

Both Senator Graham and Mrs. Glotfelty stressed their deep interest in education, and the latter said in the event of difficulties that the two vocational shops should have priority. Commissioner Opel showed some worry over the county's finances and pointed out the great reduction in the money being received from the gas tax in the past two years. He also mentioned the county had embarked on a large road program.

The meeting was called by the Building committee with George Stuck, Oakland, as chairman, and Harry Seggie, Accident, as co-chairman. Mr. Stuck presided during the session.

543 Deer Slain First Five Days of Buck Season

Season Began Lively Enough But Tapered Off This Week

Five hundred forty-three bucks were slain during the first 5-days of the 8-day season, it was reported this morning by Harold Harmon from the Mt. Nebo game reserve. The number was totaled from the 4 deer checking stations in the county and one at Westernport in Allegany county.

The season started lively enough with 430 being reported for the first two days, compared to 479 for the first three days last year, but the last three days have shown no more than 43 during any one day. The slow-down apparently was caused by the timing of the open season. There were hundreds of hunters in the woods the first two days, having taken a week-end following the Thanksgiving holiday, but most of the hunters returned to their homes for the week-end, and apparently many of them did not return for the early part of the week. Whether or not they will return for another week-end remains to be seen.

The record of 804 kills was recorded in 1960 and last year there were 609 bucks slain. This year the season will be one day less than last year but many residents are of the opinion that the lengthening of the season from the usual six-day season did not help the economy much, especially the starting of the season the day after Thanksgiving.

The heaviest buck reported during the season thus far and the one with the most points was a 15-point buck killed by Robert Crowe of Kitzmiller, which weighed 192 pounds. The heaviest last year was a 6-point buck weighing 193 pounds, shot by John Harvey, of Deer Park.

Many of the bucks weighed over 100 pounds but the average was less and the bucks were considered smaller than in previous years.

Many places were listed where deer were slain including Kempton Meadow mountain, Potomac forest, White Church, Cranesville, Briary ridge, Fingerboard road, Glade Run, Bethlehem, Round Glade, Backbone mountain, Swallow Falls, Yough river area, Mt. Nebo, Red Oak, Middle Fork, Piney, Roman Nose, Sang Run, Salt Lick, Eagle Rock, Salt Block, Sand Flat, Deer Park, King's Run, Miller's Run, Snaggy mountain, Herrington, Red House, Penn Point, Altamont, Oak Grove, Friendsville.

Women continued to be among those reporting, at least seven reporting in the ones killed around Oakland, Friendsville and Storey's. The list included Prema Bowman, Oakland, Hazel Bittner, Oakland; Alice Riggleman, Kitzmiller; Ruth Funk, Baltimore; Linda Livengood, Mt. Lake Park; Thelma Holtschneider, Oakland; Mrs. Fred Friend, Swanton.

Jawbones Examined

Rotary Hears Talk On Thanksgiving

"How Thankful are We?" was the question posed for Rotarians last Friday evening by the Rev. Shelby Walthall, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church and a member of the club.

He urged members not to let Thanksgiving go by without first acknowledging God as the Father "of us all." "And as a loving Father let us not forget that He provides us with our bounty. And let us keep always in mind that we can choose to love Him with all our heart, soul and mind. We can also reject him and give only a superficial thanks because our neighbors do. The President of the United States has declared this a time of thanksgiving. Let us not be found wanting".

Harvey Winters is program chairman for December and has announced that the annual Brownie Christmas program will be presented on December 18 when the Brownies are guests of the club. Wayne Graham was program chairman for November.
